John Barrymore, Veteran Actor, Dies

(Pictures on page 14.)

Hollywood, Cal., May 30 [Saturday] —(AP).—John Barrymore, 60 years old, veteran star of the stage, screen, and radio, died at 12:20 a. m. Chicago time today.

Only his brother, Lionel, also a veteran actor, was at his bedside in addition to his professional attendants, when the end came after several hours of unconsciousness.

His physician, Dr. Hugo M. Kersten, said the immediate cause of death was myocarditis, with chronic nephritis, cirrhosis of the liver and gastric ulcers as recent contributing factors.

Daughter at Hospital.

Barrymore's daughter, Diana, had returned to the Hollywood Presbyterian hospital a few minutes before his death, but was not in her father's room at the end.

She had visited the hospital several times previously today, as had several of the actor's close friends, and sheafs of letters and telegrams were received from other relatives and friends over the nation.

Close associates said funeral plans had not been concluded, but that the ceremony undoubtedly would be a Catholic one next Monday.

Dr. Kirsten said Barrymore's last word was spoken to his brother, Lionel, yesterday when he greeted him with a weak "Hello." He lapsed into unconsciousness and did not regain his faculties again.

CAREER OF GREAT LOVER

John Blyth Barrymore at his peak probably was the best known of American actors. There are many theatergoers and critics who consider his brother Lionel the greater. But as "the great lover" John unquestionably was outstanding. His marital adventures were many and varied and ran the whole gamut from the sublime to the ridiculous.

Barrymore was born into the royal family of the stage in Philadelphia on Feb. 15, 1882, the second son and youngest child of Maurice Barrymore and Georgia Drew. His mother died when he was a boy and his training was taken up by his maternal grandmother, Louisa Lane Drew, herself a famous actress.

Wanted to Be an Artist.

John wanted no part of the family tradition. He was an artist in a different field, he asserted. His father sent him to Europe to study painting, but eventually was forced to recall him because of annoyance over his weekly cabled pleas for more money. Andrew Carnegie bought one of John's paintings, a hangman, gallows, and vultures, for $10.

He tried the stage once with his father in a fireman's benefit in Waterbury, Conn. He didn't like it, even at the age of 19. His real stage debut, into which he always declared he was forced, was made in Chicago in the old Cleveland's theater, in 1903. He had a bit part in Sudermann's "Magda." Some of the feminine patrons must even then have noticed the famous profile, for rôles and offers poured in, and John and Lionel went on the road with a stock company.

Perhaps his first hit was as a light comedian in "The Stubborn Cinderella." Then, just to prove that he was a Barrymore, after all, he did a serious rôle in Galsworthy's "Justice." He reached the heights with "Richard III." and in "Hamlet," which he did so well on a London tour that even the Britons cheered.

Married First at 28.

It was at this time, when he was 28 years old, that he contracted his first marriage. His wife was Katherine Harris, 18, a blonde and stage struck society girl. The marriage took place in New York on Sept. 1, 1910.

This alliance lasted seven years. The royal family adopted the bride, and she went on the stage with John, Lionel, and Ethel. The divorce which came in California was friendly.

Barrymore's second marriage was in 1920 to Mrs. Leonard Thomas, divorced wife of a Philadelphia sportsman. She was better known thru her poetry as Michael Strange. A daughter, Diana, was born. This marriage legally was eight years long, but the estrangement took place six years before its formal end.

It was after Barrymore went into

JUDGE WEIGHS BORRELLI STORY OF 'FRAMEUPS'

Courtney on Stand; Denies Deal.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Admission into evidence of Bruce [Bud] Borrelli's grand jury confession, with which the state hopes to convict him of conspiracy in three labor sluggings, was being deliberated last night by Judge Julius H. Miner of the Criminal court.

The issue was taken under advisement after two tumultuous days of hearings, climaxed yesterday by the appearance as witnesses of State's Attorney Courtney and his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, who entered emphatic denials of "deals" and doublecrosses charged by Borrelli Thursday.

Charges Against Capt. Gilbert.

The charges in effect are that Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the prosecutor, offered Borrelli his freedom [1] for obtaining two stooges to be convicted for the sluggings at the Keeshin Motor Express company last November and [2] for testifying before the grand jury that John I. Keeshin, trucking magnate, ordered the sluggings.

Borrelli contends that he carried out both assignments, but was indicted nevertheless. Last Tuesday, when Keeshin was brought to trial on a conspiracy charge growing out of the sluggings, Borrelli, the principal witness, refused to testify and the case collapsed. When his own trial opened Wednesday, the slugging victims identified him unswervingly.

Judge to Rule Tuesday.

On Thursday the state sought to clinch its case by introducing Borrelli's grand jury statement against Keeshin. After strenuous objections by Defense Counsel William Scott Stewart, the trial was stopped for a hearing on the confession's admissibility.

It was in this hearing that Borrelli charged he had been promised immunity if he would help the prosecution "get" Keeshin. If Borrelli was influenced by such promises in making the confession, it would be inadmissible under the law.

If Judge Miner refuses to admit the statement, the state's case will be virtually wrecked. If he does, the trial proper will resume with the defense presenting witnesses when the judge rules at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Hinges on Jan. 15 Meeting.

Judge Miner informed both sides the issue hinges in his mind upon a meeting Jan. 15 in the office of the defendant's father, Judge Francis Borrelli of the Municipal court. At this meeting, both Borrellis contend, Capt. Gilbert indicated the son would get probation. Gilbert has asserted on the stand that he did not.

Judge Miner's remarks indicated he has dismissed from consideration the bulk of young Borrelli's story about obtaining the stooges, of a doublecross by Gilbert, and of a last minute pep talk to him by Gilbert before he entered the grand jury room.

Judge Admonishes Lawyers.

Tempers were short at yesterday's hearing as attorneys wrangled in the courtroom heat. Judge Miner was compelled to admonish them and the witnesses more than once.

In an outburst at the morning session, Judge Borrelli shouted he wanted to prefer charges against Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police, "for framing my son." This was because of a memorandum—later proved incorrect—which Kelly had written after listening in on a phone conversation by Bud Borrelli while he was in custody.

Meetings and conversations with Courtney and his staff described by Judge Borrelli from the witness stand figured largely in the state's attorney's testimony during the afternoon. The judge had gone before the grand jury a few hours before his son and later pleaded with him to do likewise and to tell the truth.

State's Attorney on Stand.

The prosecutor spoke forcefully, often loudly, as he was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Rich-

Store Robber Showers Loot Over Patrons

Hundreds of customers who thronged Hillman's huge basement grocery department at 63d and Halsted streets for preholiday purchases were thrown into excitement and then treated to a shower of silver and paper money last evening when Anthony Colin, 22 year old gunless bandit, attempted a leap and run stickup.

Anthony Colin.

Colin flung himself like a pole vaulter over the 5 foot heavy wire cashier's compartment of Mrs. Mary Murray, near the center of the big store, seized a fistful of change and bills and then leaped out again. He ran thru the crowded aisles, dodging customers and counters. He knocked a woman patron into a huge jar of pickles.

Policeman Joins Chase.

Detective John Pine of the Englewood station, a nephew of Mayor Kelly by marriage, happened to be shopping in the store.

The detective noticed the commotion, fought his way thru the crowd, and caught up with the robber as he was fleeing thru an alley door. As Pine reached for him, Colin turned and tossed the fistful of coins and currency into the crowd of patrons. Then he jerked a 5 inch, slender piece of steel from his belt and started slashing at the policeman.

The crowd started scrambling for silver quarters and half dollars, $1 and $5 banknotes.

Tries to Get Evidence.

Pine seized Colin's arm and subdued him, but when he sought the money — the evidence — he managed to get only one $5 bill — and that lay at his feet.

"Come on!" said Pine to the crowd, as he clutched Colin. "Up with the money, people. I need it for evidence!"

Everybody laughed but nobody came up. And Pine was compelled to take his prisoner to the station without it.

Mrs. Murray, the cashier, identified Colin as the man who robbed her cage. Colin lives at 337 West 65th street.

LAKE BREEZE COOLS CITY AFTER RECORD HEAT OF 95 DEGREES

A heat wave sent the thermometer sizzling to 95 degrees yesterday—the hottest May 29 in the history of the 72 year old Chicago weather bureau — but a shift in the wind shortly after 6 o'clock brought a cooling lake breeze and a rapid decline in temperature.

The mercury reading was 95 degrees at 4, 5, and 6 p. m. In the next hour it dropped to 76 degrees at the weather bureau at the airport, and shortly before 9 o'clock was down to 66. At the University of Chicago weather station the drop was more precipitate. At 6:30 the reading was 93; at 7:50 it was 63 degrees. At midnight the temperature began to rise and at 2 a. m. it was 69.

Yesterday's rapid change in temperature was purely a local matter—proof of Lake Michigan's air conditioning qualities, according to the weather bureau.

U. S. GIRL SERVES WITH AVG; SHE'S THE EXEC'S WIFE

NEW DELHI, India, May 29 (AP).—Every one knows of the American boys with the AVG, but few have heard of an American girl with the famous volunteer group of fighting flyers in the orient.

The girl is Olga Greenlaw, a pretty, blue eyed brunette, formerly of Los Angeles, who has been in the orient for four years with her husband, Harvey Greenlaw, executive officer of the AVG. The two have just reached New Delhi from Burma.

When the American Volunteer group first was formed the commanding officer asked Greenlaw to serve as executive officer. He replied, "It's up to my wife. I don't stay unless she stays."

She stayed, the only woman in the daredevil outfit. She didn't fly, but she ran into plenty of adventure, and she took her chances, just as the men did.

O'Brien Party 'Touches' Him, 20,000 Others

Deputies who manned the cloakrooms and served as ushers at Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien's "benefit" ball in the Morrison hotel last night, concluded that at least some of those who purchased tickets to the affair didn't really want them. That must have been it, they said, for many, many didn't come.

It was a matter of simple arithmetic: 20,000 tickets were sold—$20,000 "taken in" but only 750 danced.

Those who danced were mostly young men and girls, ranging from those in their late teens to others in the early twenties. And it was remarked it was a most democratic affair. Just what one might expect, said attachés of the sheriff's office, at an affair given for the purely benevolent purpose of reimbursing the sheriff for all the good he's done.

O'Brien Is Touched.

Sheriff O'Brien himself seemed visibly affected by the showing, proportionately small as it was. Dressed in a light tan, almost cream colored summer suit, he stood at the door, tears welling in his eyes from time to time as he greeted them all.

"Good evening! Good evening, my dear!" O'Brien kept repeating. "So nice it got cooler!" He shook every youth and girl by the hand as they entered the ballroom.

Among the politicians who showed up were Frank Sain, warden of the County jail; Albert Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court; Aldermen Joseph S. Gillespie [29th] and James McDermott [14th], Jim Denvir, assistant sheriff, and Abraham Marovitz, state senator.

How They Sold the Tickets.

Highway policemen on duty out in the county last night said at least 20,000 tickets had been sold at $1 each. Of these 5,000 were sent to each of the outlying highway police stations, Morton Grove, Willow Springs, and Homewood. Another 5,000 were distributed at the county jail among the guards and other workers, and among the scrubwomen, court bailiffs, elevator operators, and deputy sheriffs in the county building.

"Twenty thousand skins!" said a working highway policeman as the youthful dancers whirled and jostled. "On the tickets it said 'benevolent' or 'benefit' association. Benevolent and benefit for whom?"

TWO SUNK; NAZIS SNAP PICTURES OF ONE ATTACK

U-Boat Trails Victim 5½ Hours.

Torpedo attacks on three more American ships—two of which were known to have been sunk—were announced yesterday by the navy. One was sunk in the Gulf of Mexico, one about 200 miles off New York, and the third was attacked in the North Atlantic area. It was not immediately announced whether the third ship had been sunk. The attacks brought to 199 the number of vessels sunk in American waters since Pearl Harbor, with 1,279 known dead, 1,393 missing, and 6,315 rescued. Details of the new attacks follow:

SHIP TORPEDOED TWICE

Groton, Conn., May 29.—Crew members of a German submarine took many snapshots of the sinking of an American freighter after they had torpedoed it off the Atlantic coast, survivors of the freighter said here today.

One crew member—Fred C. Martin of San Antonio, Tex., the ship's second mate—was killed when one of two torpedoes blasted the vessel. Thirty others were rescued by a naval ship and brought to the United States submarine base here.

Capt. George Hazeleaf of Oakland, Cal., skipper of the freighter, said the submarine pursued him five and a half hours. He said the U-boat fired three torpedoes, the first of which missed.

Ship 200 Miles Out.

Hazeleaf said the torpedoing occurred May 21 approximately 200 miles off New York. He said the captain of the U-boat put the survivors on the course to New York and then said: "I'm sorry, but this is war."

Charles Miller, 19 years old, of New Orleans, La., the ship's radio operator, remained at his post to send out S O S calls and nearly went down with the freighter.

Capt. Hazeleaf said that in the confusion of launching a lifeboat he did not know Miller still was aboard until he saw him at the door of the radio cabin. Hazeleaf said that almost at that moment the submarine fired another torpedo into the vessel.

"A tremendous fountain of water spurted up," Hazeleaf said. "I never imagined a torpedo could cause such a geyser. We had started to row back to the ship for Miller but when that mass of water poured over the ship I didn't think he had a chance."

But Miller dove overboard and swam to the lifeboat. The ship sank two minutes later.

SIX DIE IN SINKING

New Orleans, La., May 29 (AP).—The sinking of a large American cargo ship in the Gulf of Mexico with the loss of 6 lives was announced today by the 8th naval district.

Twenty-nine survivors were rescued and landed at a gulf port. The sinking occurred at midnight May 18.

The ship, which previously escaped from a submarine shelling March 20 in the Atlantic, was struck by three torpedoes and sank quickly. The survivors got off in two lifeboats.

2 Torpedoes Hit Cliff.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, May 29 (AP).—The explosion of two German torpedoes on the coast near St. John's on March 4 was disclosed today. The torpedoes, believed to have been aimed by a submarine at a nearby ship, struck a cliff. Witnesses said they saw no submarine.

HERE'S SUMMARY OF NEWS FROM BATTLE FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia disclosed that allied bombers had raided Dili, Japanese occupied port on the Island of Timor, and Rabaul, New Britain. Allied flyers shot down five enemy planes in combat over the Coral sea.

The Chinese reported their soldiers still were clinging to Kinhwa and Lanchi, important cities in Chekiang province. The Japanese were said to be continuing their attacks on the two places.

The British announced their tanks had repelled a German armored force which had advanced to within 50 miles of the Egyptian border in the axis' new offensive in Libya. The German unit was part of a force which had slipped around a British position south of Tobruk in an attempt to attack that coastal stronghold from the rear. The British said the enemy force was broken up into small units and that one of them charged eastward to reach Rezegh, 50 miles from Egypt and 25 miles southeast of Tobruk.

The Russians claimed the repulse of steady German tank and infantry charges in a sector 80 miles south of Kharkov, Ukraine industrial city. "No substantial changes" developed on other sectors of that front, the Red communique said.

Hear Favored Few Promised WAAC Rank

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Certain war department officials, acting as individuals and not as representatives of the military, have promised a small number of women here in the capital that they could be assured of commissions in the women's army auxiliary corps, it was reported today.

While WAAC headquarters denied all knowledge of such activity, which is contrary to WAAC regulations that all officers shall be appointed only after proving themselves during an eight weeks' training course at Fort Des Moines, members of the senate and house military affairs committee expressed amazement that any war department personnel should even attempt to promise commissions.

Told to Take Courses.

It has been learned that the women who have been "assured" of commissions have been told they would need to take the prescribed training course in order to comply with regulations. They would then receive the promised rank.

When Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, was told of the report, he commented, "I can't conceive of anybody in the war department having promised any commissions to anybody without seeing these girls in camp first." He added that he believed commissions should be given only to those who show aptitude in the training school and that all the officer candidates now being recruited should enter Fort Des Moines with equal opportunity for rank.

Director Is Unbelieving.

Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAAC, asserted that if the report were true there apparently had been a misunderstanding in some quarters as to the commissioning of officers candidates

"No applicant will be chosen for training," she emphasized, "except thru the regular recruiting and selection channels as previously announced and no candidate can be assured ahead of time that she will be given a commission. There is absolutely no exception to this procedure."

It is admitted here that the known instances of personal assurances that they would receive a certain rank are few, but there is unimpeachable authority that such assurances have been given.

MEMORIAL DAY LEGIONS PARADE THIS AFTERNOON

City to Pay Tribute to War Dead.

Parade Facts

EVENT—Seventy-fourth annual Memorial day parade.
PLACE—Michigan avenue from Chicago avenue south to Roosevelt road.
TIME—2 p. m.
WEATHER—Continued rather warm; thundershowers in evening.

More than 40,000 persons—many of them veterans from their country's last three wars—will march down Michigan avenue this afternoon in the city's 74th annual Memorial day parade. Because of world conditions parade officials anticipate the most colorful array of uniforms and the biggest turnout of participants and spectators in many years.

First in the line of march will be a string of 10 automobiles, each bearing an aged but doughty member of the Grand Army of the Republic. The remainder of the parade will be made up of Spanish-American war veterans, National Indian war veterans, members of the American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars, sons of veterans organizations, military school, and ROTC cadets, contingents of soldiers, sailors, and marines, and other patriotic bodies.

Parade Starts at 2.

The parade will start at 2 p. m. from Chicago avenue, move south on Michigan boulevard to Roosevelt road, turn west and disband at Wabash avenue.

Capt. Thomas A. Ambrose, 93 year old commander of the local G. A. R., will be grand marshal of the parade. Some of the more colorful groups will be the 739th battalion of military police led by Col. Fredrick C. Rogers, commanding officer at Fort Sheridan; naval and marine contingents from Navy pier; a corps of cadets from Northwestern Military and Naval academy at Lake Geneva, Wis.; and the Illinois Reserve Militia.

251 Legion Posts Represented.

Two hundred and fifty cadets from Morgan Park Military academy will be in the line of march in dress uniform. The academy also is contributing 28 Mounted Lancers as Gov. Green's escort of honor.

A total of 251 American Legion posts will be represented. Some of the other organizations which will march are the Belgian American War Veterans, the French War Veterans, the American Yugo-Slav Legion, the Italian World War Veterans, the American Czechoslovak Legion, the Polish Army Veterans association, and a phalanx of Greek War Veterans.

American Legion and Veterans' posts will lead neighborhood groups in special dedicatory services in cemeteries and parks thruout the city this morning.

Two Pre-Memorial Tributes.

Sen. Wayland Brooks paid tribute to the men who have died for America in an address at the pre-Memorial day program sponsored by the Board of Trade American Legion post yesterday. The program was dedicated to the G. A. R. Other speakers were Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commander of the 6th corps area; Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, and Capt. Ambrose.

Special services in honor of America's war dead also were held at Marshall and Lake View High schools yesterday. Participants in the programs were community war veterans, the school ROTC and the school band.

A PLAN FOR A PARADE

Community commanders and division chiefs of Chicago's Office of Civilian Defense assembled in the council chambers of the city hall last night to learn how Barnett Hodes, corporation counsel and executive vice president of the OCD, wants a great patriotic parade staged here on June 14, Flag day.

Mr. Hodes called the OCD leaders together to give them ideas for contributing stunts to the United Nations Parade for Victory. Earlier in the day park directors and physical education supervisors had been assembled for the same purpose.

QUITS $4,600 U. S. JOB FOR A $65,000 FEE ON WAR DEAL

Contract Broker Is Branded Parasite by Vinson.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The story of how a former government employé, whose services were worth $4,600 per year to Uncle Sam, became an agent for private firms seeking war contracts and thereafter collected $65,000 in fees and commissions in less than two years was unfolded before the house naval affairs committee today.

Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] ordered the information turned over to the navy department and the controler general's office for reconsideration of the contracts on which the fees were paid to determine whether the amounts can be deducted from the costs to the government.

Aroused by the disclosures, Vinson bitterly denounced war contract brokers and agents as "parasites" whose activities, he charged, have added millions to the cost of the war effort.

Agent Tells of His Success.

The ex-pay roller from whose lips the committee heard a matter of fact recital of his success story is Alexander Stone, an office employé in the Federal Housing administration from early in 1934 until March, 1941.

Plump and baldish with bronzed complexion, Stone said he left the public pay roll after negotiating an agent's contract with the Lionel corporation, Irvington, N. J., which did work for the navy. Records show, according to Edmund Toland, committee counsel, that he had collected $65,000 from the firms he represented before the end of 1942.

Under the Lionel agreement and three others which he executed, Stone declared modestly, he secured about $12,000,000 worth of war business, on which the total compensation would amount to $600,000 if the contracts were completed and the materials delivered.

Worked for 5% Commission.

In most cases the agreements handled by Stone provided for an agent's commission of 5 per cent of the gross contract value, the committee was told, and he was also allowed a $150 weekly drawing account which was later deducted from the commissions.

The tale seemed to jolt the committee members despite their jaded imaginations after months of inquiry into lurid happenings in connection with the war program. Stone sat thru it all unruffled.

Only once was he moved to protest. That was after Chairman Vinson's angry outburst. Stone said he resented being termed a "parasite" and also any imputation that he had represented himself to any of his clients as having influence with government officials.

Denies Having a "Pull."

"My actions were 100 per cent ethical," he declared. "I had no pull. There's nothing mysterious about what I've been doing. It takes a lot of hard work."

Stone's foresightedness in approaching a contract brokering career was brought out in further testimony as he told that he had gone directly to the judge advocate general of the navy and other naval officials to determine that he was acting properly. He did not disclose the results of these interviews but another witness who said he accompanied Stone to the judge advocate general's office described the attitude of an officer there as "noncommittal."

Rep. Melvin Maas [R., Minn.] asserted that Stone had no right to inquire of his rights at the judge advocate's office. If the agent wanted to know anything of the propriety of his actions, Maas said, he should have submitted his contracts at the secretary of the navy's office.

Sports Exhibition in Moscow.

Theme of the film was a gigantic sports exhibition staged in Moscow. The athletes were bronzed, lithe young men representing provinces all over the soviet and girls and young women who apparently had been selected with an eye to shapeliness and soviet glamor. No one in the cast was overdressed. The girls wore tights and blouses and the men were just tights, tho some of the men were attired in what appeared to be bloomers and skull caps.

The spectacle consisted of massed dancing and calisthenics, with a little physical derring-do on motorcycles and crossbars for a change of pace. Some of the dancing involved stamping and rolling in approved American Indian style, some illustrated the traditional mad jumping of the Cossacks, and some had a bizarre oriental motif. Highlight of the dances, at least from the spectator's viewpoint, was a mass bubble dance which might be the envy of Billy Rose.

Narrator Describes Events.

"One can scarcely believe," he commented during one weird dance, "that only 20 years ago these were a wild, nomadic people."

The stars of the cast were representatives of the Lesgeit Order of Lenin Physical Culturists—"a mighty reserve for the army"—and the Stalin Central Order of Lenin.

The participants cavorted strenuously beneath greatly enlarged photographs of Lenin and Stalin and in front of thousands of spectators. Stalin also appeared in the film in person in the reviewing stand. The camera cut to the dictator's party on the average of about every two or three minutes. Each time it found him smiling benignly.

54 MILLION IN U. S. LACK BIRTH PROOF; ILLINOIS IS LAGGARD

Illinois has the largest number of persons whose birth certificates are not available, the census bureau in Washington reported yesterday. The bureau did not disclose figures by states, but estimated the total number without legal birth proof in the nation at 54,000,000.

Clerks at the county registration office said that it would be impossible to estimate the number of persons in Illinois without certificates. In 1915 a state law was passed making it mandatory for every birth to be recorded legally by a township registrar. Before that time only 5 per cent of the population of the state was registered.

2 AUTO DEALERS INDICTED IN TIRE HOARDING CASE

Charged with Faking Federal Report.

The second indictment within two days arising out of wartime rationing regulations was returned yesterday by the federal grand jury when two north side automobile dealers were accused of hoarding ten automobile tires after the tire freezing order went into effect last Dec. 12.

The defendants are Louis G. Kaller and Herbert Youngquist, officials of Kaller-Youngquist, Inc., an automobile agency at 5050 Broadway. Conviction would carry a maximum sentence of ten years in prison and $10,000 fines for each defendant on a charge of falsifying a government report.

First Case in Illinois.

Maurice J. Walsh, assistant United States attorney, who presented the case to the grand jury, said it was believed to be the first federal indictment in Illinois arising out of tire rationing.

The first sugar rationing indictment was returned Thursday against John Freshman, 28 years old, who was charged with declaring an inventory of 2,500 pounds of sugar, when he had more than 20,000 pounds stored in his grocery at 568 East 51st street.

After Kaller and Youngquist filed a report with the government listing an inventory of 110 automobile tires at their agency, agents of the United States marshal's office discovered 10 additional tires in Kaller's home at 2030 McDaniel street, Evanston, Walsh said.

The government charges that the Kaller-Youngquist company had 130 tires at the time the freezing order went into effect. Walsh said he was unable to account for the 10 other tires.

Taken from Used Cars.

Kaller told investigators that the tires found in his home were taken from used automobiles and that he had intended to keep them for his own use, the prosecutor said.

A preliminary charge against the two men was dismissed by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on Thursday, after Walsh informed the court that the evidence was being presented to the grand jury.

FATHER OF TWO WITH INCOME IS CLASSED AS 1-A

St. Paul, Minn., May 29 (AP).—A St. Paul man whose income outside his salary is sufficient to support his family has been classed 1-A [subject to military service] in a Presidential ruling, Col. J. E. Nelson, state selective service director, disclosed today. The ruling is considered of nation-wide significance.

The man in question is over 30 years old, is married and the father of two minor children and has an income of $6,000 in excess of his income from employment.

He was placed in 1-A originally by his local board and appealed to the state appeal board, which classified him 3-A [deferred because of dependents]. Col. Nelson appealed the ruling to the President, making the appeal without prejudice and to determine a policy toward such registrants.

"The evidence in this case is not convincing that the wife and two children of the registrant are dependent in fact upon his earnings for support," the Presidential ruling said. "The record discloses adequate sources of income for support of his family other than the registrant's earnings."

6 KILLED WHEN ARMY BOMBER BURNS IN CRASH

Denver, Colo., May 29 (AP).—Six persons, five of them army men, were killed today when a medium twin engined bomber from Lowry field air school crashed into a pasture 12 miles southeast of Greeley and burned.

Lowry field officers said these five occupants were identified positively: Lieut. Joe De Grade, Lieut. Carlos R. Kibler, Sergt. Alec Chavarrio, Corp. James O. Flourney, and Corp. Louis Garcia.

The sixth victim was identified tentatively as Edwin P. Kelly, a civilian employé at the air school. Addresses of the victims were withheld.

James Abrams, a farmer, said he saw the craft tear thru a rural power line and fall in his pasture. Two explosions followed and the wreckage burst into flames.

TALK OF CURBING HENDERSON; GAS RATION IS CAUSE

OPA Has Too Much Power, Says Steagall.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Talk of curbing the powers of Price Administrator Leon Henderson was heard on Capitol hill today, as influential members of the house of representatives joined in the opposition to nation-wide gasoline rationing.

Rep. Steagall.

Chairman Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.] of the house banking committee, which handled the bill delegating the powers wielded by Henderson, commented that perhaps congress had "made a mistake," and added that "no such power as that man has should be given to one man."

Meanwhile Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], expressed his opposition to nation-wide gasoline rationing as a means of conserving tires, saying:

"Talk about tires. People will ration themselves because they know that when they are worn out they won't get any more for quite a while."

Joins Texas Senators.

In stating his position, Rayburn alligned himself with the two senators from his state, Tom Connally and W. Lee O'Daniel, who have joined with other senators from oil producing states to fight an extension of the gasoline rationing system.

The senate's small business committee proposed that 3,000 tons of rubber be made available for the manufacture of 30,000,000 retreads made principally from reclaimed rubber.

However, Arthur B. Newhall, national rubber coördinator, stuck to his position that nation-wide gasoline rationing was the only feasible method of conserving tires.

"I don't see any other way to do it," he said.

Senators Oppose Rationing.

Meanwhile three senators asked Price Administrator Henderson today not to ration gasoline in the middle west except as a last resort to conserve automobile tires.

After a meeting with Henderson, Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.] said he was confident there would be no severe rationing in the middle west. The others at the meeting in Brown's office were Senators Clyde L. Herring [D., Iowa], Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio] and John A. Danaher [R., Conn.].

Brown said that while Henderson refrained from making a definite statement of his attitude the senators were hopeful that gasoline rationing would be avoided in the area.

In any event, said Brown, rationing was not to be expected immediately. If it came, he added, it would not be severe enough to curtail essential motoring.

Recognizing an urgent need for conservation of rubber, the senators suggested to Henderson that methods other than fuel rationing be tried first in sections where there was no shortage of gasoline.

Explains Retread Plan.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender [D., La.] told reporters the retread plan, which he intends to introduce Monday, was designed to keep 20,000,000 cars rolling which otherwise would be forced off the roads when their present tires wear out.

The small business committee had been informed by experts, he said, that an acceptable retread which would travel from 5,000 to 7,000 miles at speeds under 40 miles an hour could be constructed from the rubber reclaimed from two old tires, plus three ounces of raw rubber at vital points.

He said the committee sponsored bill would authorize the price administrator to assemble 85,000 tons of reclaimed rubber, in addition to the 3,000 tons of the raw product for the manufacture of these retreads.

George E. Johnson, a Hastings, Neb., engineer, testified that if the Farm Crops Processing corporation, of which he is president, could get relatively small quantities of construction materials, it could be producing rubber from grain within six months and be working at capacity in eight months.

AEF WILL BATTLE WAY INTO EUROPE, SAYS MARSHALL

West Point, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, said today that American troops would carry the war to Hitler with an invasion of Europe.

Speaking before a graduating class of 374 United States Military academy cadets, Marshall said American troops were landing in England and Ireland "and they will land in France."

"We are determined that before the sun sets on this terrible struggle our flag will be recognized thruout the world as a symbol of freedom on the one hand and of overwhelming power on the other," he said.

Marshall said the army would total nearly 4½ million men by the end of this year, instead of the previously announced 3,600,000. He said the army had grown by 300,000 men in the last four weeks.

He said that in two weeks the West Point graduates would join this "great citizen army. In physique, in natural ability, and intelligence the finest personnel in the world."

N. Y. HAS ANOTHER PAVING SCANDAL—IN STATEN ISLAND

New York, May 29 [Special].—On the heels of the whitewashing in the Bronx paving scandal involving Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn, a similar scandal in Staten Island and involving its borough president, Joseph A. Palma, broke into public view today.

Palma's name was mentioned in documents turned over to District Attorney Farrell M. Kane of Richmond county by a special grand jury. The grand jury spent 15 months investigating paving contracts and municipal graft.

There were three references to Palma in the documents, according to Kane.

First, it was charged the Allvan Realty company leased to the city a piece of property owned by Palma's wife.

Second, it was charged that Palma, while borough president in 1940, was active in obtaining an agency for the sale of radios for Miss Christine M. Sullivan, now Mrs. Palma, spending so much time at this that he neglected his official duties.

A third charge related to the paving of a private thorofare with city materials and labor.

Kane said he has not decided whether to lay the accusations before the regular grand jury.

ROCKET MOTORS ARE NOW IN USE ON WAR PLANES

Aid Heavily Loaded Craft to Get in Air.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The phrase "equipped for assisted take-off" in the most recent official British and American descriptions of German bombing planes is the first public acknowledgment by authoritative sources that rocket motors are today in general use in Europe to help airplanes loaded beyond the limitations of their engine power to get into the air.

By using the rockets pilots are able to get bombing planes into the air with overloads of fuel and bombs that their own gasoline engines never would be able to pull off the ground. Once having reached flying speed, however, with landing gear retracted and the craft trimmed for level flight, its own engines are able to keep it moving fast enough to sustain flight.

Germans Use Twin Rockets.

It is known that the Germans have been using twin rockets to help their Heinkel 111K and Junkers Ju-88 bombers off the ground since the summer of 1940. The British first discovered this fact when they found the fittings for the rockets on the wings of bombers that were shot down on the Kentish fields during the epic Battle of Britain. Later espionage confirmed the German usage of take-off rockets.

Shortly afterward British scientists who have been among the world's leaders in experiments with rockets, were given the task of developing similar rocket engines for use of the Royal Air Force. Today these are in use.

A British official who must remain nameless but who recently visited Chicago after a long stay in England, described the way that both Germans and the RAF use the rocket engines.

Auxiliary Power Plants.

In each case the rockets are merely auxiliary power plants. They are intended to supply an enormous burst of power for a short period. In the case of the Germans the rockets used on the Heinkel 111K, for example, are said to provide 3,000 horse power for a period of three minutes. This is long enough—with the help of the Heinkel's regular Daimler-Benz DB600 engines of 1,300 horse power each—to take-off and climb to 3,000 feet.

The Germans use two rockets at take-off on the Heinkel and the Ju-88, one under each wing. The rocket itself is a steel tube with combustion chamber and exhaust orifice. The fuel is said to be a highly volatile liquid, metered to the chamber where it is ignited electrically. The action is exactly like the action of a sky-rocket which shoots upward as the powder in its combustion chamber is ignited and forced out a tail orifice.

The bomber is pointed into the wind and prepared for take off. Motors are started, and with brakes holding the ship, are opened wide. Then the rockets are fired, and brakes released. The bomber gives a tremendous surge forward almost as tho fired from a catapult. As soon as the plane is in the air the gear is retracted and it is climbed as swiftly as possible.

Pilot Releases Locks.

As soon as the rocket fuel is consumed the bomber slows down to normal flying speed. The pilot then releases the locks that held the rocket cylinders beneath the wings and they fall away. The ship carries on in normal flight.

This is the procedure that is referred to in the official air corps and RAF releases of a few days ago when after describing many types of German planes fully the notation "equipped for assisted take-off" was added. Specifically, the releases said, the Ju-88, the Heinkel 111K, the new Dornier 217 bomber, the new Messerschmitt 210 bomber fighter, and even the new Messerschmitt 109F single seater fighter sometimes use this device.

Uses to which the British put the rockets are classified as secret information but it may be said that one of the largest British four-motored bombers today is using this sort of assistance at take-off. American experiments are under way but no more definite information is available.

Starred Many Years in Theater and Films.

the movies that he found what was always considered his real love, Dolores Costello, the daughter of an old time actor. Barrymore was 46 when he married Dolores, but he said he was 41. They lived quietly. Dolores Ethel Barrymore was born on April 8, 1930, while John, heir to the name and the Barrymore tradition, came on June 4, 1932. Before John was 3, his father was off and away, on a European trip, alone.

Fan mail introduced him to Elaine Barrie, who made him the laughing stock of the nation with her chase across the continent after her Caliban. Dolores sat at home and bit her lip. Finally she divorced Barrymore on Oct. 9, 1935, and got custody of both children.

Barrymore married Elaine in Yuma, Ariz., on Nov. 9, 1936, then slept thru his wedding day. After fifty-seven days there was a rift. In two months there was a divorce plea. In four months there was a reconciliation. In five months there was a divorce. Three more months and there was love again, with dismissal of the interlocutory decree.

It Lasts a Little While.

"I love only John," said Elaine, who was 21.

"We are very, very happy," said John, who was then 57.

On May 4, 1939, John brought suit for separation and an accounting from Miss Barrie. On May 12 Elaine countered by demanding another divorce. But they reported in February, 1940, that they were "permanently" reconciled. By September they were quarreling again and he sued for divorce charging great bodily injury. Elaine countersued in October and obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce on Nov. 27, 1940, on grounds of cruelty. It became final a year later.

Among Barrymore's best known stage successes were "Peter Ibbetson," "Redemption," "The Jest," and "The Affairs of Anatole." His movie career included such pictures as "The Sea Beast," "Beau Brummel," "Don Juan," "Moby Dick," "Svengali," "Grand Hotel," "Rasputin," "Dinner at Eight," "The Great Man Votes," "Midnight," and "The Great Profile."

Report U. S. and Canada Plan Yukon Oil Pipeline

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29 (AP).—Negotiations between the United States and Canada are under way for construction of a pipeline from oil wells in the northwest territory of the Yukon to provide fuel for the Alaska airway, it was reported here tonight. The proposed line would extend 460 miles to Whitehorse from the wells some 45 miles south of Fort Norman, N. W. T. Nine wells already are available and it was understood additional ones would be sunk if necessary.

DEADLOCK HOLDS OVER PAY BOOST FOR SERVICE MEN

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—A senate-house conference committee was deadlocked tonight on legislation granting pay raises to servicemen, and further efforts to reach an agreement were put off indefinitely.

The senate had approved $42 a month as the basic pay, and the house voted for $50. The present minimum is $21, which goes up to $30 after four months. Altho some talk of a compromise on $46 was heard, chairman Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] of the senate conferees said it might be "some time" before another meeting.

Members reported after today's conference that the eight conferees present voted four to four to accept the $50 rate, with one senator joining three house members for it and one representative lining up with three senators for the $42.

MAKE IT A MASS DEPORTATION OF REDS! U. S. ASKED

Arrest Ordered

San Francisco, Cal., May 29 [Special].—A telegraphic warrant for the arrest of Harry Bridges, against whom a deportation order has been issued, was received here today at district immigration offices, but attachés said it would not be served until Monday. At that time, it was said, Bridges will go to the immigration office, submit to arrest and then petition the federal District court for a writ of habeas corpus. This would be the first step in his expected appeal to the United States Supreme court.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—A demand that thousands of Communists be rounded up and deported to their homelands along with Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, was heard in congress today. There was general jubilation over the ruling yesterday by Attorney General Francis Biddle that Bridges, as a Communist, is an advocate of the violent overthrow of the government and therefore should be sent back to his native Australia.

"This should be received as good news by the American people," commented Sen. Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee. "Bridges should not be allowed to make the trip home alone. There are thousands of out-and-out Communists here who ought to be rounded up and deported or held in concentration camps until we get rid of them."

Browder Action Is Puzzle.

There was a note of puzzlement in the rejoicing. Many congressmen could not reconcile the Bridges order with the recent commutation of the sentence of Earl Browder, American Communist leader, by President Roosevelt. One order seemed to cancel the other, remarked Sen. John A. Danaher, [R., Conn.].

A cynic, not for quotation, said the ruling might have come because Bridges has always denied he was a member of the Communist party whereas Browder was its avowed head in this country. In some informed circles it was said that the public reaction to the Browder release was so unfavorable that the deportation of Bridges was hastily agreed upon.

One Dissenter in House.

The lone dissenter in the house against the Bridges order was Rep. Vito Marcantonio, [A. L., N. Y.], who was elected with Communist party support. Until the German invasion of Russia, Marcantonio voted against all appropriations to arm the nation. He has since been ardent in his support of all legislation which tends to support Russia as one of our allies.

"I wonder how much Mr. Biddle expects to gain by appeasing the enemies of labor and Adolf's pals in this country who have been asking for Bridges' scalp," raged the swarthy New Yorker. "Does he think this country can buy a truce from those enemies by throwing them Harry Bridges? Chamberlain and Daladier tried it and failed."

But other members were not slow to voice their happiness at the blow to the leader of production-hampering strikes in the shipyards.

Sen. Van Nuys Gratified.

"The country will be gratified," said Sen. Walter F. George, [D., Ga.] and Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, [D., Ind.], called it "a very wholesome order." Sen. Bennett C. Clark, [D., Mo.], and Rep. Earl Michener, [R., Mich.], joined in these sentiments altho they also questioned the consistency of the order with Mr. Roosevelt's commutation of Browder's passport fraud sentence which was announced as having been made in the interests of national unity.

There was considerable comment regarding the possible effect of the order upon the continued existence of the Communist party in this country. From Ohio came the announcement of State Secretary John E. Sweeney that he would bar Communist candidates from the ballots hereafter.

Legal experts agreed, however, that new legislation would be necessary to outlaw professed Communists. "An overt act" must be proved against a citizen plotting against the government under existing legislation. Until he commits that act, he cannot be prosecuted. In the case of aliens, proof that he belongs to an organization which believes in the violent overthrow of the government is sufficient, under Biddle's ruling, to deport him.

Bridges to Fight Order.

Biddle announced himself as ready for a Supreme court test of his order and Bridges in California said he had just begun to fight. Bridges can take the matter into the federal District court at San Francisco with a habeas corpus plea. From there the case could advance to the Circuit Court of Appeals and then to the Supreme court. The highest court in the land has never yet ruled on the question decided by Biddle—that the Communist party "believes in, advises, advocates or teaches the overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States."

An implied threat that the order may result in hindrances to war production was contained in a telegram from Bridges to Donald Nelson, head of the War Production board.

"I pledge to do all possible to offset any effect the order might have on the production program and labor unity," he wired. "I ask the American workers not to become confused or shocked nor permit a weakening in any respect in our national unity."

Congressional offices were deluged with floods of protest mail sent by such New York organizations as the "National Federation for Constitutional Liberties" and the "Citizens' Committee for Harry Bridges."

LIFE FOR MODEL IN N. Y. KILLING; AIDS GET DEATH

Two Lovers Collapse as Verdict Is Read.

New York, May 29 (AP).—Madeline Webb was convicted of first degree murder today for her part in the strangulation and robbing of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, wealthy Polish refugee, last March 4.

The jury recommended merey, which means life imprisonment for the pretty 28 year old model, who came here from Stillwater, Okla., in search of theatrical fame and fortune.

The jury simultaneously convicted Eli Shonbrun, her lover, and doomed him to the electric chair by failing to recommend mercy in his case.

The third defendant, John D. Cullen, the only one of the three who did not take the stand, also was convicted without recommendation and will face the death penalty.

Create Scene in Court.

As the verdict was pronounced, Shonbrun collapsed with his head on his arms and cried out: "You have crucified me. My God! My God!"

Madeline, gray-faced, cried: "Please, judge, please. I didn't. I beg of you."

She spread her arms wide. Both were sobbing now.

Cullen remained impassive as General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein heard the verdicts and in each case ordered the jury polled at the request of defense counsel.

The clerk of the court asked first whether the jury had arrived at a verdict on Cullen. "We find him guilty," replied the foreman.

Pale, Trembling Before Jury.

Miss Webb struggled to her feet. She leaned both fists on the defense table. Her shoulder-length, disheveled hair fell over her eyes. She tossed back her head and looked with white and trembling lips at the jury.

"Do you find the defendant, Madeline Webb, guilty or not guilty?" the clerk asked.

"We find her guilty," the jury foreman said slowly.

After Shonbrun heard his fate Judge Goldstein set June 19 for sentencing the three.

Mrs. Reich's bound and gagged body was found in the Hotel Sutton suite which Shonbrun and Miss Webb shared as "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold," the state charging that she was lured there by a telephone call from Madeline.

Apartment Looted as He Attends Mother's Funeral

Burglars broke into the apartment of Ariel Varges, newsreel photographer, at 4540 North Monticello avenue, yesterday and stole a wedding ring which had belonged to his mother, a revolver, a portable radio set, two suits, and three coats. The loot was valued at $450. Varges was attending the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Anna Kay Varges, at the time of the robbery.

Scarcely a Store Open in Flagstaff Union Row.

Flagstaff, Ariz., May 29 [Special].—A stream of pre-holiday tourists, whose business ordinarily would be highly appreciated, failed tonight to shake the determination of Flagstaff businessmen to keep their establishments closed and stand firm against attempts of outside labor organizers to unionize their employés.

Thousands of transcontinental tourists either paused briefly or sped straight thru this pine surrounded city at the base of Arizona's famed San Francisco peaks.

Merchants watched them come and go, but kept the doors of their stores, restaurants, and service stations locked, declining even to trade with their local customers. Scarcely a retail establishment functioned in the community, whose population has swelled to 7,500 in recent weeks with an influx of soldiers and workmen on a huge government ammunition dump and other wartime projects.

Closed Since Wednesday.

Business places have been closed since 6 p. m. Wednesday under an order of the Merchants' association, which directed that the doors be kept locked until American Federation of Labor organizers cease their efforts to obtain members for the International Union of Culinary Workers and Bartenders.

The newly formed Merchants' association demanded that local union leaders rather than outside organizers speak for workers who are interested in joining the union. The businessmen objected to methods used by the organizers, such as mass picketing, and invited them to conduct their campaigns on a man-to-man basis, asserting it is unfair for the entire personnel to be forced in a wholesale manner into a union.

Many of the organizers are from other parts of the state outside of Flagstaff. Not more than four Flagstaff business places now are unionized.

Legion Asks Martial Law.

Gov. Signey P. Osborn, who had been asked by the local American Legion post to declare martial law to break the deadlock, conferred by telephone with Flagstaff business leaders. It was said, however, that he could intervene only if informed by Sheriff Perry Francis that local officers cannot maintain order.

Residents are taking lightly the inconveniences forced upon them by the shutdown. In addition to stores being closed, barber shops, bars and buffets are locked tight, drug stores serve only patrons with prescriptions, and it is necessary to drive 10 or 12 miles out of town to get gasoline.

The town's only restaurant still operating was doing such a thriving business that sandwiches were being prepared outside over an open fire. Picnic lunches were being sold by private individuals who happened to have extra food.

Enterprising truckers talked of hauling in foodstuffs for sale on the streets if the shutdown continues thru the week-end. The cafeteria at the State Teachers' college here remained open, so the students had no complaints.

BRIDGES OUSTER ORDER ASSAILED BY DAILY WORKER

New York, May 29 (AP).—The Daily Worker, Communist party organ, said tonight that Attorney General Francis Biddle's order for the deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, "constitutes a direct attack upon one of the most important labor leaders and upon one of the unions which is a fortress of our country's defense." It also said "it is an attack against the entire labor movement, the backbone of our nation's war against Hitler."

Biddle's order was issued on grounds of membership in the Communist party, which the attorney general said was an organization advocating overthrow of the United States government by force and violence.

"Biddle's decision is as undemocratic," the paper stated.

CIO Council Protests Deportation of Bridges

A joint meeting of the executive boards of the Illinois and Chicago Industrial Union councils [CIO], held yesterday at 205 West Wacker drive, forwarded to Attorney General Francis J. Biddle a letter protesting his order for the deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast labor boss, and asking that he reconsider. The meeting also assailed THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

KILLED AS CAR HITS HORSE.

Springfield, Ill., May 29 (AP).—James E. Hopwood of Athens, a freshman at the University of Illinois, was killed today, and three companions were injured when their automobile overturned after striking a horse on a road eight miles north of here.

20,000 Cadets Sought

In three weeks production of young men qualified for training as army flyers has trebled at the aviation cadet examining board headquarters in the United States courthouse. The board expects to treble its output again within the next three weeks, and later again, as it drives on toward a goal of 20,000 cadets from Cook county to help meet the army's need for 2,000,000 flyers in 1942.

Maj. Floyd M. Showalter.

Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, president of the board, attributes most of this increase to the army's new policy of opening cadet training to high school graduates. A trip thru the crowded board rooms yesterday confirmed this.

Many Collegians Deferred.

There were young college students, many of whom will be deferred upon request until they complete their courses. [Those deferred will become part of a pool of future officer personnel.] But there were many others who for the first time were getting a chance to win the army's coveted wings.

There was Hyman L. Mozner, 21 years old, 4851 North Lawndale avenue. A graduate of Roosevelt High school, he had been laying linoleum. Now he waited for his physical examination, eager to be a flyer, having passed the board's "screen" test.

The "screen" test is a mental test, required of every applicant. There are 150 questions. A candidate must answer 80 correctly. The test is designed to show his ability to absorb information and reach the best answer by reasoning.

Find Test "Pretty Stiff."

Mozner thought the test was "pretty stiff." So did Michael J. Grace, 21, of 3313 North Oakley avenue, a De Paul High school graduate. Neither had had technical training. Both looked upon flying as "the most exciting part" of the war. Walter J. Ziegele, 23, of 3311 North Oakley avenue, a friend of Grace, found the test easier. A graduate of Lane Technical High school, he will be graduated from Chicago Teachers' college in June.

Robert W. Harley, 21, of 530 North Central avenue, an Austin High school graduate, offered an example of the army's new plan to allow a candidate who failed the test to take it again in 30 days. Harley failed once but came thru yesterday.

There is no red tape at the cadet examination rooms. Potential candidates line up there at 8 a. m. and 1 p. m. for mental tests given twice daily. The physical examination follows that day or the next. Then the men are interviewed. They must produce birth certificates and recommendations from three responsible citizens.

All receive a basic nine week training course. Then they are separated for specialized training. And within a total elapsed time of 26 to 32 weeks they have their commissions as second lieutenants.

Induct 56 Tonight

Fifty-six young men who expect to fight as flying ensigns will be inducted tonight as members of the fifth and sixth of "Chicago's Own" naval air squadrons. They were recruited in Chicago, its suburbs, and nearby towns. They will enter the navy as a unit, receive their preliminary training as a unit, and probably will go on to advanced bases together.

Rear Adm. Edward A. Evers.

The induction, with Rear Adm. Edward A. Evers, United States naval reserve, retired, former commander of the 4th naval reserve area, as guest of honor, will take place at the Exmoor Country club, where many officers stationed at Great Lakes are quartered.

Veterans Sponsor Squadrons.

Lieut. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval aviation cadet selection board, which examines all candidates in this area, will administer the navy oath. Presentation of "Chicago's Own" insignia pins will be made by Warren V. Woody, chairman of the first World war naval aviators' committee, sponsor of the squadron.

Yesterday Lieut. Olson discussed the enlarged naval aviation recruiting program which no longer restricts cadet training to men with college educations. Under the program, which calls for 30,000 pilots in training by Dec. 31, the opportunity of becoming a naval flying officer is open to any young man in civilian life, or in the navy and marine corps personnel, with a high school education.

"All applicants get what we call the fine screen mental qualifying test," Lieut. Olson said. "The test is designed to show not how much or what a man knows, but whether he can absorb information and reason."

Sports Training Stressed.

Stress is laid on an athletic background. Not that all star athletes would make good flyers, but the navy has found that the teamwork and timing taught in most sports, particularly body contact sports, usually, if accompanied by at least an average intelligence, produce the finest flyers.

"The scrappy little 135 pounder has just as good a chance as the 200 pounder whose coördination may be off," Lieut. Olson said.

The naval aviation recruiting system accepts young men between the ages of 18 and 28, inclusive. Students desiring a college education may, at the end of their second year, then take up flight training. All go thru the same procedure: three months at a preflight school [that at the University of Iowa is nearest]; then a preliminary flight training base, such as Glenview airport; then advanced training at Corpus Christi, Tex., Jacksonville, Fla., or Pensacola, Fla., and then on to specialized training. By this time a year has elapsed and the pilot has about 275 hours in the air.

"Every man who comes in," said Lieut. Olson, "is trained to be a pilot. If during some stage we find he does not have proper proficiency as a military flyer, he then may be trained as a bombardier, navigator, or as a ground officer."

Three Arrested in Raid on Handbook in Hotel

WEST COAST NO. 1 DEFENSE FRONT, LANDIS ASSERTS

Californians Warned to Be Constantly Alert.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29 [Special].—At a luncheon meeting of Town Hall today James Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense, told his listeners that he considers the Pacific coast, particularly southern California, to be the No. 1 civilian defense front because of the target areas and other places the enemy would like to destroy.

Special reference was made to aircraft factories and shipyards in the Los Angeles and San Diego areas. His job, Landis said, is to train 3,000,000 workers, for most part volunteers, in a technique no one fully understands because the methods of aerial warfare change from month to month.

Landis bluntly warned Californians of what to expect. In spite of submarine activities off the Atlantic coast and the danger of German air attacks, he still thinks the west coast is the main danger area and for that reason it will get priority in deliveries of essential defense equipment.

Warns of Possible Attack.

"We know that Japan has aircraft carriers," he said, "and perhaps more than we think she has. We know we can reach Tokio and that maybe they can reach this coast. So we must do a good job of defense planning. We are getting your equipment as fast as we can, but don't wait for it. Train in the meantime. Hitler trained his first army with broomsticks. If the enemy comes before we are ready we must have the guts to fight him with our bare hands.

"Instructive literature is rolling out of the government printing office and needed material will soon arrive. The first consignment of 40,000 gas masks has arrived and is being unloaded. A larg shipment of helmets for fire wardens is en route to California now. These will be distributed in ratio of 20 helmets per 1,000 population."

"It is our policy," Landis went on, "to discourage arming of civilian defense personnel. It is highly dangerous for untrained people to carry firearms. I am against this home guard movement you have here."

Sees No Gas Danger.

Gas masks are not so important today because the enemy is more likely to use bombs than gas, Landis said.

Landis later talked to 300 officials, including mayors, police, and fire chiefs, supervisors, and department head. "You have an area here under your control that, from the enemy viewpoint, is a beautiful prize plum," he said. "You must reckon with constant likelihood of attack. You must be able to mobilize your resources at a moment's notice."

CITY'S QUARTET FOR BARBER SHOP CONTEST CHOSEN

Worth Waiting Four Is the Winner.

With handlebar mustachios drooping, barber pole ties decorating shirt fronts, and close harmony pouring from male throats, the S. P. E. B. S. Q. S. A. filled the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel with the tunes of the gay '90s last night. The occasion was the "On to Grand Rapids" convention party and finals of the Chicago Marathon Quartet contest of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.

Milkmen, policemen, clerks, machinists, and business executives blended voices in such ballads as "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover That I Overlooked Before," tear jerkers like "The Curse of an Aching Heart," and the granddaddy of them all, "My Grandfather's Clock."

Also "Sweet Adeline."

Even the "barber shop widows" helped out with "Sweet Adeline," not once but practically all evening.

For the last six months the shoppers have been weeding out quartets from their 300 members to choose one of them as their entry in the national contest at the S. P. E. B. S. Q. S. A. convention in Grand Rapids on June 19 and 20. A quartet called the Worth Waiting Four sang down the rest last night to take the title.

Others in Competition.

Singing against the Worth Waiting Four were the What Are You Listening Four, the Four Harmonizers, and the Neighborhood Four.

Barbershopping calls for the old tintype ballads, Ray Kasper, vice president of the Chicago society says, but if you can't remember the oldies, you might try "The White Cliffs of Dover" and "Mood Indigo." They'll barbershop, too.

BUSES TO PLACES OF AMUSEMENT BANNED BY ODT

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Orders prohibiting operation of sightseeing buses and curtailing charter service after May 31 were specially drawn to halt use of buses operated primarily to serve places of entertainment, the Office of Defense Transportation said tonight.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said in a statement outlining the scope of the orders that "places of entertainment" included baseball games, race tracks, bingo games, circuses, theatricals, and similar events.

ODT announced it had specifically prohibited the use of buses after May 31 to carry customers to the Thistledown race track near Cleveland, O.

No More Sightseeing.

"The intent of the orders is to restrict the use of bus tires to services which are necessary, and certainly to prohibit bus operation for purposes that relate primarily to entertainment," Eastman said.

Under the order, charter buses may be used only when necessary in transporting members of the armed forces, students and teachers traveling to and from school, employés traveling to and from work, and certain other persons for whom the transportation is deemed necessary.

Resort Buses Limited.

Whether or not buses may furnish services to seaside resorts, summer colonies and parks will depend on whether such services have been given in the past on a regular basis and schedule, Eastman explained.

No sightseeing bus tours of national parks will be permitted.

ALLIED AVIATORS SHOOT DOWN FIVE JAPANESE PLANES

Raid Foe's Bases in Timor and New Britain.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 30 [Saturday] (AP).—Allied airmen shot down five Japanese planes over the Coral sea 60 miles southeast of Port Moresby, New Guinea, yesterday, while two other air units rained explosives on Japanese bases in Timor and New Britain Islands, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Three Japanese planes also were damaged. One allied plane was missing in the combat at sea which occurred when Australia's defending airmen encountered a flight of 18 Japanese naval zero planes.

Bombs Hit Buildings.

Allied planes scored hits on buildings in Dili on Timor, and all the raiders returned safely, a communique said. Dili is the capital and chief port of the Portuguese half of Timor, and is about 500 miles northwest of Port Darwin, Australia.

The bombers scattered explosives on the wharf area in a night attack on Rabaul, New Britain. Two large fires were started. All the planes returned to their bases from that mission.

The largest assemblage of tanks ever gathered in Australia, bulking strangely in flat farm fields, has been shown to United States correspondents on a tour of group training operations.

Impressed by Equipment.

All were impressed by the large amount of new equipment available in this theater of war.

The correspondents watched American troops carry out field exercises and fire mortars, and for the first time witnessed Australian soldiers training in American tanks and other vehicles.

The large field of tanks was in the colorful camp of an Australian armored brigade in a canyon. There were medium tanks, light machines, and two of the largest machines were firing at targets from a hilltop.

The Australians were trying out 28 ton American tanks known as "General Grants" and lighter American M3 tanks.

SINK 2 SUBS, NAB 'MOTHER SHIP,' SAY BRAZILIANS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 29 (AP).—The newspaper O Globo said today that the confession of an arrested German showed that the Nazis operated their own coastal patrol plane between Rio de Janeiro and Santos to report on allied ship movements.

Brazil's armed forces were credited unofficially today with destruction of two axis submarines and capture of another submarine and a German mother ship in a shoot-on-sight defense against raids in which seven Brazilian ships have been torpedoed.

High official sources considered it "not impossible" that Germany would declare war upon Brazil.

The air ministry announced in its first communique of the war last night that at least one of three submarines attacked off Brazil's 5,000 mile coastline had been sunk. The newspaper Diario Carioca went beyond the communique with a declaration that two submarines, not one, had been put out of action in this "first round."

A German submarine supply ship laden with oil, torpedoes, and other materials, disguised as a Dutch craft, was reported in Recife to have been seized.

NATIVES STAMP AN AIRFIELD FOR RESCUE PLANE

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 29 (AP).—Two thousand New Guinea natives who were persuaded to organize a three night dancing party stamped out a makeshift air field which enabled 70 refugees to reach Australia by plane. Persons arriving here reported today said this was only one of a series of strange adventures which happened like this:

The refugees walked 530 miles across the wilds of New Guinea to an unidentified point where they hoped to depart for Australia. Finding no means of escape, Father Colver, a Catholic priest, walked back to the starting point and salvaged an old plane. He flew the plane to the refugees' rendezvous, but cracked up in attempting to fly on to Australia for help.

He obtained a native canoe and paddled off toward Australia. The difficulties of his voyage were attested by the month delay before a rescue plane arrived. The plane landed safely but the ground was too soft for it to take off loaded. An explorer persuaded the natives to begin a ceremonial dance. The refugees joined them and after three nights an adequate smooth strip was stamped out and the plane took off.

CLAIMS GERMAN RESERVE STOCKS NEAR DEPLETION

LONDON, May 29.—Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of economic warfare, declared in an address at Birmingham today that it was "reasonably certain" that Germany's reserve stocks of most important commodities were nearly exhausted. He said this was forcing the Nazis to resort to the manufacture of ersatz products which can be made only by drawing on more man power than would be required to make the real thing.

After asserting that royal air force raids tied up 1,500,000 Germans in anti-aircraft and civilian defense work, Foot said the lack of raw materials resulting from the British sea blockade "immobilizes an even larger number of German workers, many of whom would otherwise be available to swell the German armies on the eastern front."

CHINESE TROOPS CLING TO CITIES IN CHEKIANG BATTLE

Fight Repeated Enemy Onslaughts.

CHUNGKING, China, May 30 [Saturday]—(AP).—Chinese soldiers resisting repeated Japanese onslaughts are holding grimly to the important Chekiang province cities of Kinhwa and Lanchi, Central News dispatches from the front reported early today.

1. A Central News dispatch filed at 8 p. m. last night claimed Kinhwa and Lanchi remained in Chinese hands after fighting in heavy rain all day yesterday.

2. The Chinese high command announced the capture of more than 10 points on the outskirts of Ichang, Japanese held stronghold on the Yangtze river above Hankow in central China.

3. A Japanese unit thrusting deeper into Yunnan province in southwest China from Lungling was ambushed and wiped out.

Stay to Relieve Troops.

The attention of the Chinese appeared to be centered on the Chekiang fighting. However, it was indicated that the sudden burst of activity around Ichang, in Hupeh province hundreds of miles west of Chekiang province, was intended as indirect relief for the beleaguered Chinese in the eastern battlefield.

In South Honan province, neighbor to Hupeh, the Chinese reported an attack on Loshan, near the Japanese base of Sinyang, inflicted losses on the enemy last Saturday.

The Chinese air force and the American volunteer group ["Flying Tigers"] bombed and strafed the Japanese in Yunnan province.

RAF Bombs Japs in Burma.

NEW DELHI, India, May 29 (AP).—The RAF attacked Japanese positions and transport in northern Burma yesterday, bombing, among other targets, a jetty on the Chindwin river five miles north of Kalewa, it was announced today.

The communique said that motor launches moored alongside were damaged and casualties inflicted.

"Other river craft in the same area also were attacked and warehouses in the vicinity of Thaungdut, north of Sittaung on the Chindwin river, were machine gunned from low level," the communique said, adding: "All our aircraft returned safely."

CITIZENS PROPOSE OUTER DRIVE BE MacARTHUR DRIVE

Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie [29th], chairman of an aldermanic subcommittee studying proposals to honor Gen. Douglas MacArthur by naming a street for him, said yesterday he has received several suggestions from citizens. Most of the people so far, he said, think it would be well to name the Outer drive MacArthur drive.

Alfred J. Langan, 3603 West North avenue, said that in addition to such a change at the Outer drive, the Outer Drive bridge should be named Marine bridge, in honor of the marines' part in the war in the southwest Pacific.

Albert J. Kacena, 5314 West 24th street, Cicero, wrote Gillespie a letter recommending Michigan avenue be renamed MacArthur avenue. Gillespie said he had heard several suggestions that North avenue be honored with the general's name. He said the subcommittee will continue to welcome suggestions from the public.

BRITISH BOMBERS BLAST NAZI WAR PLANT NEAR PARIS

LONDON, May 30 [Saturday]—(AP).—British bombers, resuming their attacks on German war industries in France, again bombed the Gnome-Rhone airplane engine factory near Paris last night, it was announced today. The raid was the sixth on factories in the Paris area in less than three months.

The Gnome-Rhone plant, in suburban Gennevilliers, was last attacked the night of April 29 by a large force of British bombers.

An attack on an enemy convoy off the Dutch coast, where four cargo ships were set afire, and fighter sweeps across the channel were announced yesterday by the air ministry.

Four German planes were reported shot down last night during raids on the east and southeast coasts of England. First reports said damage done by the raiders was not extensive.

Beat Back Daring Tank Drive

BRITISH REPULSE AXIS TANKS NEAR EGYPTIAN BORDER

Fight on Approaches to Tobruk.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 29 (AP).—British tanks repulsed a German armored force that charged within 50 miles of the Egyptian border today as allied and axis forces fought a wide series of battles all around the Libyan desert approaches to Tobruk.

The land fighting was almost entirely between tank forces, with hundreds of machines ranging thru a 50-mile-wide strip east and southeast of El Gazala, anchor point of the elastic British defenses when the axis campaign was launched Tuesday night.

Here and there an artillery strong point forced the axis tanks to give ground. Overhead the royal air force was busy with bombing and strafing raids. Axis air activity was reported on a reduced scale.

Situation Held Satisfactory.

British headquarters regarded the situation as satisfactory, but it was acknowledged that in a battle of this type the situation could change quickly and was potentially dangerous for both sides.

German armored forces with about 250 tanks slipped around Bir Hacheim to the south, apparently intending to nip Tobruk from the rear. Since this plan apparently was thwarted when one German column was turned back at El Adem, 15 miles south of Tobruk, the German forces have tended to split up into smaller groups.

One reached Rezegh, 50 miles west of the Egyptian border and 25 miles southeast of Tobruk, only to be repelled by British tanks.

No British Positions Taken.

None of the fixed British land positions has been taken and the British said developments had not gone as the Germans anticipated, for the attackers have not reached Tobruk, the coastal fortress they need for an offensive against Egypt.

The axis onslaught opened with an attack by Italian tanks on Bir Hacheim—"The Well of Wisdom"—some 50 miles southwest of Tobruk.

"Free French" forces holding that strong point hurled back the assault and destroyed at least 35 tanks.

An RAF communique credited these operations yesterday and last night to far ranging British bombers and fighters: a raid on an enemy column of tanks and transports between Bir Hacheim and Acroma, attacks on axis airdromes at Martuba, Tmimi, and Catania, Sicily; and raids on enemy vehicles on the Bengazi-Agedabia road, the ferry terminus at Messina and harbor facilities at Augusta, Sicily.

Battle Going On, Says Berlin.

BERLIN, May 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Mentioning the new axis offensive in Libya for the first time, the German high command today said a desert battle has been in progress since Tuesday. A German escort vessel sank a British motor torpedo boat off Libya, it added.

Bermuda Curbs Imports; Bans 270 'Nonessentials'

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 29.—A drastic import curb was announced by the Food and Supplies Control board today, with 270 nonessential items banned from all sources while 70 other items may be obtained only from empire sources. Completely banned are certain liquors and wines, bicycle accessories, cosmetics, some classes of dry goods, including evening dresses and dinner suits.

Friend of the YANKS

D. R. S. writes: "I have read that naval officers were bemoaning the fact that the majority of naval recruits sorely lacked sufficient knowledge of mathematics. How about the army? Don't they need men with a knowledge of math? Where can I find out how mathematics is applicable to military duties?"

ANSWER: Ask any West Point cadet or graduate whether mathematics is an integral part of the military academy's curriculum. He would be able to cite you numerous examples where algebra, trigonometry, or geometry are applied in locating a target in hostile territory. The University of Chicago's institute of military studies is distributing a pamphlet containing some military applications of elementary mathematics. The pamphlet was prepared by the department of mathematics at the United States Military academy.

E. Y. writes: "I am now completing a night school course where I am learning the Japanese language and some Chinese and Corean to make my knowledge of the language complete. I have only a few months to go for the completion of the course. What branch can I offer my services to so that I might receive a commission? What rank?"

ANSWER: The marine corps reserve is offering commissions to men who can qualify as Japanese interpreters. Ability to read, write, and speak the Japanese language is required. The rank given qualified men depends upon the age, education, prior military training, business experience, and responsibility of the applicant.

J. F. G. asks: "Will you list the addresses of the army, navy, marine, and coast guard recruiting offices?"

ANSWER: The army recruiting station is at 515 South Franklin street. The navy, marine corps, and coast guard recruiting offices are in the United States courthouse, 219 South Clark street.

B. T. writes: "I was rejected at the army induction center because of a hernia, which is correctible. I was placed in class 1-B. Will it be necessary for me to have an operation before the army will accept me?"

ANSWER: Until your hernia has been corrected you will not be accepted for general military service. However, it is planned to induct 1-B men into the army for limited military service. The first group of 1-B men are supposed to be called in June.

To Mrs. I. K.: Even tho your husband's vision has improved he will be rejected if his other defects have not been corrected.

Big British Flotilla Arrives at Gibraltar, Berlin Hears

BERLIN, May 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—A dispatch from Algeciras, Spain, today said the British battleship Malaya, the aircraft carrier Eagle, five large submarines, and six destroyers arrived today at Gibraltar.

FOG SETS A WEIRD STAGE FOR GRIM CONVOY DRAMA

But All Ships Slip Away from U-Boat.

BY JOHN A MOROSO III.

WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET [Wide World].—This is a tale of fog—a terror to the peacetime sailor and an added handicap to the tar trying to take his convoy by enemy submarines and bombers.

We were zigzagging from a suspected submarine at 9:47 a. m. in clear weather when, without warning, a ghostlike mist swirled around us. Thousands of American lives were endangered by the weird, vaporous substance.

In a moment our flagship—leader of the convoy—was alone . . . on an ominous sea . . . our valuable ships out of sight.

Signals Keep Ships Together.

Collision was a possibiltiy. Another was that the ships would stray away in the impenetrable "soup" and all our work would go for naught. Our skipper promptly put prearranged plans into effect. Whistle signals and other things kept us together.

Nightfall found sleepless men fighting nature, the darkness, and a ruthless enemy—who now had the chance to double his speed by surfacing and pick us off if he could see us.

To keep our ships together, the captain had our big searchlights turned on. Purple hues from the lights blended with our battleship gray to produce an effect of unreality.

An angry sea snapped at us.

Men huddling in the icy wetness were silhouetted against their guns as the fog clutched at them. Planes, lifeboats, and masts stood out starkly against the lights.

Convoy Keeps on Right Course.

Suddenly I realized that lighting up our ship to guide the others made us a target for any sub in our vicinity.

Our hope was that the sub would not see us until he was too close to shoot without endangering himself. The Nazis never take a chance unless reasonably certain of escaping.

We sailed onward. Some of the ships strayed out of line, but destroyers were dispatched to put them back in place.

Our navigator, denied sun or star sights, was using a fathometer to check our course. A sudden shelving in the ocean floor indicated we were right on course.

Then—morning and a temporary break showed two ships missing. One returned later. Five days later the fog lifted and we learned that the "lost" ship was safe.

ARGENTINE PRESS GAG TO MUZZLE CONGRESS TALKS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 29.—The gag that acting President Ramon S. Castillo thrust into the mouth of the Argentine press last December when he issued his state of siege decree forbidding public discussion of foreign affairs, was rendered more effective today. A police order was issued prohibiting newspapers from printing or commenting on any speech delivered in congress "on international questions, on the state of siege or on its application." They may publish only a "brief account of the debates and their outcome."

Thus, in effect, congress itself has been muzzled because senators and deputies will be heard only by colleagues present at the sittings of congress and the Argentine public will be ignorant of what is said.

Opposition deputies who were prevented by the state of siege from expressing their views in the campaign that preceded the national election March 1 had been looking forward to the reopening of congress in order to put their views before the public. Any such possibility has been now eliminated, observers assert.

BELGIANS WANT INVASION, SAYS EXILED OFFICIAL

New York, May 29 [Special].—The starving Belgians are "praying" for an invasion of the continent by united nations forces, altho they do not believe an invading force could land successfully on the Belgian coast, Albert de Vleeschauwer, minister of colonies in the Belgian government in exile in London, said today.

Visiting the United States on his way from London to the Belgian Congo to step up production of vital war materials, such as copper, tin, cobalt, and rubber, De Vleeschauwer praised the "marvelous" resistance of his compatriots in sabotaging the efforts of the Nazi conquerers to utilize the resources of Belgium. However, he dismissed as "silly" any idea that the Belgian people will engage in a large scale revolt against the Nazis.

"Their spirit is very good, but the people are completely starved," he declared. "Starving people never revolt in an organized way, because they can't. A soldier first of all must be well fed."

FRENCH WARNED GUNFIRE MEANS HOSTILE PLANES

VICHY, France, May 29.—The people of unoccupied France have been warned in an official notice to take refuge at once on hearing anti-aircraft fire.

The notice says that the firing is necessitated by present conditions and that no warnings will be given.

"Incursions of isolated airplanes are the cause," it is stated. "They do not for the moment seem to represent any aggressive intentions which require alarms for the population. It is recommended to every one to take shelter from shell fragments and not to go out on balconies or approach the windows. It is also recalled that at night black-out regulations are still in force."

BRITON CONCEALS $2,353 NEST EGG; GETS $18,200 FINE

Ex-Civil Aid Pleads Habitual Tardiness.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—The severity of wartime justice in Britain was demonstrated again today when Robert Charles Winstone, a retired civil servant, was fined 4,550 pounds [about $18,200] in the Bow street police court for failing to offer for sale to the treasury 2,353 Canadian dollars.

The defendant's excuse was unique. He said he was a civil servant for many years and claimed that while civil servants are in the habit of doing things with great regularity, speed is not one of their cardinal virtues.

For dodging fire watching duties for a fortnight, Sydney Britten, a merchant of Bromley, Kent, was fined 84 pounds [about $336], with the alternative of four months in jail. The fine was paid.

Two Jailed for 50 Cent Fraud.

William Hobson, 47 years old, and Thomas Waterton, 53, restaurant car owners, were sentenced by a Branbury court to jail terms of six months and three months, respectively, for "conspiring with other persons who are unknown to defraud the Great Western railways of two shillings six pence [about 50 cents]." The heavy sentence obviously was intended to put a stop to the racket in which meal bills are used a second time.

The anonymous senders of white feathers, described as "white feather cowards," soon will find themselves in hot water with the law if Capt. F. J. Bellinger, Laborite member of parliament for Bassetlaw, has his way, it was learned tonight.

Dunkirk Evacuees Get Them.

Even Dunkirk soldiers have been victims of this "disgusting practice," Bellinger charged. He believes that since people are prosecuted for making statements likely to cause "despondency and alarm," this "anoymous form of persecution of men who have done their duty" should also be dealt with by law. A special badge for ex-service men is under consideration.

The most recent white feather case was that of Walter Inge, aircraft riveter of Slough, now in a hospital suffering from concussion and electric shock received while on duty as a volunteer member of the national fire service. An envelope containing a white feather was left at his home.

The perniciousness of this practice has been illustrated by cases of suicide following receipt of white feathers.

MEXICAN HOUSE VOTES FOR WAR AGAINST AXIS

MEXICO CITY, May 29 (AP).—The chamber of deputies tonight unanimously approved President Avila Camacho's request for authority to declare war on the axis and then passed a second measure granting him extraordinary powers to suspend many constitutional rights, including freedom of the press. The senate is expected to act on the war measure tomorrow.

The vote on both measures was 138 to 0. The second bill, granting the president unusual powers, was designed to give him authority to combat "espionage and fifth-columnism" in the country. It was amended so the guarantee of property rights, which had been included among the rights to be abrogated, will be maintained.

Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, generally regarded as a leader of the rightist movement in Mexico, offered his services for defense of the nation to President Camacho, who defeated him in the presidential election of 1940.

SAYS RUMANIANS AND HUNGARIANS CLASH AT BORDER

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP).—The Moscow radio broadcast indirect dispatches today saying more than 10 clashes occurred between Rumanian and Hungarian soldiers along their disputed frontier during the past month.

Russian dispatches from Stockholm, quoting Swiss press reports, said the Hungarian army was preparing to meet any large scale Rumanian attempt to win back frontier territory which Hitler awarded to Hungary.

Trend of Kharkov Battle Left in Doubt.

MOSCOW, May 30 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Ukraine battle of attrition rolled on early today with the Russians announcing the repulse of steady German tank and infantry charges in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector, 80 miles south of the industrial city of Kharkov.

The midnight communique said the conflict had produced "no substantial changes" in other sectors of the front. It added that Red airmen equipped with American planes shot down 113 German aircraft in two days.

Trend of Battle in Doubt.

The trend of the battle for German held Kharkov was left in doubt by both the midnight and midday communiques. The midday announcement also said there were no significant changes on the battlefront.

Russia's peasant army still was punching the German positions from Leningrad to the Black sea. In the Kalinin area northwest of Moscow Red troops occupied several more populated places after killing 700 Germans.

Mopping Up, Nazis Claim.

BERLIN, May 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The high command reported today that soviet forces had attacked on the central sector of the Russian front — presumably before Moscow—and had been repulsed in a fight with some of the attacking force encircled.

In the long contested Kharkov sector a communique said the Germans were mopping up with the "number of prisoners and amount of booty mounting steadily."

Military circles said that the big Kharkov battle had ended and that fighting was continuing only in the area south of the city against remnants of soviet forces.

Report Hitler on Kharkov Front.

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—The London Daily Mail quoted the Berlin radio today as saying "our Fuehrer has taken personal direction of strategic operations on the Kharkov front."

REP. J. B. SHANNON TAKEN OFF TRAIN CRITICALLY ILL

Kansas City, Mo., May 29 (AP)—Critically ill, Rep. Joseph B. Shannon [Dem., Mo.], arrived by train tonight from St. Louis and was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Returning to his Kansas City home from Washington, where he had been ill with colitis, Shannon, 75 years old, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage earlier today on a train near St. Louis. He was unconscious on his arrival here.

He was examined by a physician when the train arrived at St. Louis, and it was decided he was able to continue the journey. Shannon, who had been seriously ill, left the capital last night under the care of a nurse. He has represented the 5th district since 1930.

DOUGLAS WRITES HE'S VERY HAPPY IN MARINE CORPS

Life as a private in the marine corps is agreeing with Paul H. Douglas, according to a letter recently received by Michael Greenebaum, campaign manager for the former 5th ward alderman. From Parris Island, S. C., Douglas wrote that he is working hard but is very happy. He said his year of training in the University of Chicago's institute of military science was proving to be of great value. Before joining the marines, Douglas was an economics professor at the university. His wife and their daughter, Jean, left their home at 5658 Blackstone avenue yesterday to spend the summer in the Indiana dunes.

MAN AND WOMAN HELD IN SLAYING OF RICH WIDOW

San Diego, Cal., May 29 (AP).—Grover C. Dahlbender, 50 years old, drug supplies salesman, sought for nearly a month in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Rose Whitmore, 54, wealthy Los Angeles widow, was arrested today with Harriet Stutz, 30. Both were charged with murder. Lieut. Ed Dieckmann, head of the police homicide detail, said Dahlbender had admitted killing Mrs. Whitmore, who was found beaten to death with an auto jack handle in her Los Angeles home May 5. She apparently had been dead since April 27. Dahlbender formerly roomed in Mrs. Whitmore's home.

Ensign in Pacific Hears New Son's Cry in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., May 29 (AP).—Thirteen hours after his wife gave birth to their first child, a son, on Thursday, Ensign Thomas Lewis Blackman, stationed in the Pacific war zone, 4,000 miles away, heard the infant's cry—by telephone. "My husband was so excited," said Mrs. Blackman, "that he couldn't say a word." Blackman enlisted in the navy last June and passed a midshipman's course at Chicago.

South Side Police Seek Rapist of Girl, 7, in Park

Police thruout the south side last night were seeking a well dressed man about 35 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and weighing 140 pounds for the rape of a 7 year old girl in Hamilton park, 74th street and Normal avenue. Parents of the child said she went to the park seeking her 5 year old brother. The stranger accosted her, suggested she look behind some bushes, and followed her there.

WEREN'T NAPPING IN PHILIPPINES, SAYS GENERAL

Prepared for Attack, Grunert Asserts.

American forces were not caught off guard in the Philippines, Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commander of the 6th corps area, last night told 800 officials of the Illinois selective service system in the Stevens hotel. These unpaid officials were honored at their first social gathering by Gen. Grunert, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, and Gov. Green.

After praising draft board members and their associates of the system for helping to produce "the highest military morale in our history," Gen. Grunert invited questions. He commanded all United States troops in the Philippines for a year and a half until a month before the Japanese attack Dec. 7.

"How soon are we going back to the Philippines?" one man asked.

"That's up to you gentlemen," Gen. Grunert replied amid laughter.

Ready in Philippines.

Another draft board member then shouted: "Were we taken by surprise at Pearl Harbor and why?"

"I don't know anything about Pearl Harbor, but I do know we were not taken by surprise in the Philippines," Gen. Grunert said. "For months before Dec. 7, Tommy Hart [Adm. Thomas C. Hart, who retired as commander of the Asiatic fleet Feb. 11] never kept more than one vessel in the harbor at Manila. He had been expecting the jump."

Gen. Grunert said it was Japanese propaganda that many ships and aircraft were carelessly concentrated where they would be ideal bomber targets, but that the contrary was true.

"One group of our pursuits took off and fought, but when they landed to gas up were caught in a bunch," he added.

The air raid alarm system, hampered by an obsolete telephone system in the many islands, was markedly improved before the Japs struck, as were other defenses, "so far as materials on hand allowed," he said.

Hershey Praises Officials.

Gen. Hershey predicted that army physical standards will be further lowered in the future. This and the responsibility of keeping production going at a fast clip will be added problems of the draft boards, as "inroads upon dependencies" are made.

"You have not only showed the way to serve patriotically, efficiently, and without thought of self," he said, "but you have set a pattern of what can be done by freedom loving people given a maximum of authority.

"Let no one unnerve you by those words, 'lack of uniformity.' The public does not know that draft cases are not uniform, but you do."

Gov. Green told the draft board members to keep in mind that they are guardians of morale on the home front. The toastmaster was Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois draft director.

YOUNG INVENTOR WILL SHOW ARMY NEW 'TOMMY' GUN

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29 (AP).—William D. Hammond, 27 years old, today demonstrated a newly designed submachine gun that will fire 500 or more .45 caliber bullets a minute. It's a weapon, he said, in which the war department was definitely interested.

Hammond, formerly of O'Neill, Neb., leaves for Springfield, Mass., and then Washington, D. C., Sunday for further demonstrations before government officials.

The submachine gun has fewer parts than any gun of its kind ever manufactured, Hammond said. Its chief claims to value, however, the designer added, are: Cheapness, accuracy, weight, and the fact that production can be started immediately. Materials in its makeup are available and "most any machine shop in the country could turn 'em out."

The weapon weighs six and a half pounds, or three and a half pounds less than the next heaviest gun of this type. It measures over all 29 inches. Its stock is weatherproof and its recoil, said Hammond, is comparatively negligible, insuring accuracy in firing.

CUPID SLIPPING; APRIL AND MAY LICENSES DROP

Surprisingly few couples in Cook county cared to be married in April or May this year, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn disclosed yesterday. Records for the last two months show that Cupid has been having little luck compared with his highly successful influence in January, February, and March.

The first three months of 1942 were all ahead of January, February, and March, 1941. [That year set an all time high for marriages.] In April, however, there were only 4,098 licenses issued, compared with 4,275 for April, 1941. In May there were 4,145, compared with 5,015 for May, 1941. There were 265 licenses issued yesterday.

The total for the first five months of the year is still ahead of the same period for last year, showing 18,665 licenses, compared with 16,468 in 1941.

SHOUSE WARNS PINKS WANT TO KEEP POWER GAINED IN WARTIME

Jouett Shouse, former chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, came to Chicago yesterday and offered the Roosevelt administration some friendly advice on how to win friends among the public. He criticized the present program on these counts:

Jouett Shouse.

1. The Roosevelt administration has not been frank, nor has it taken the public into its confidence.

2. Some New Dealers are disturbing public confidence by planning to run people's lives after as well as during the war. [Shouse specifically excluded the President and his cabinet from this charge.]

3. That Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, talks too much and nobody listens anyway. Ickes' gasoline shortage "scare" was proved unfounded, he said.

4. That the administration was shortsighted in not building stocks of irreplaceable materials, such as rubber.

5. That administration spokesmen were confusing and contradictory on the possibilities of synthetic rubber production.

Shouse spoke at the closing session of the annual meeting of the National Association of Taxicab Owners in the Hotel Sherman. He is the association's counsel and intermediary in Washington.

BRITAIN PLEADS WITH STRIKERS TO RETURN TO MINES

Cites Need of Boosting Coal Production.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—The government and mine leaders tonight appealed to 20,000 striking miners in South Wales, Yorkshire, and Durham to return to work immediately.

The appeal followed a conference between the government and mine leaders over demands for a pay increase of 80 cents a day for the men and 40 cents for youths, with a minimum weekly wage of $17 for all mine workers.

The appeal, signed by Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, and David Grenfell, secretary of mines, said:

"In view of the urgent need for increased coal production as a foundation of the nation's war effort, we issue an appeal to all mine workers who have been idle, owing to dissatisfaction over wages, to return to work immediately while negotiations are in progress."

Cite Wage Disparity.

The seriousness of the situation in the coal fields was said to have been stressed by coal mine operators and representatives of the workers in talks with government leaders.

The mine leaders, it was understood, said the unrest in the coal fields was caused by the wide disparity in wages of miners and munition workers. The mine owners pointed out that the wage demands represented a cost of nearly $160,000,000 a year, which could be met only by an increase in the price of coal.

The government leaders promised to submit the arguments put forward by both sides to the cabinet at once.

A new wave of strikes by 1,000 pit boys at 20 collieries in West Wales caused several collieries to shut down. They complained that girls in government factories get more pay than they do.

Seeks Return of Miners.

The ministry of labor is negotiating with the ministry of supply for the return of former miners from munition factories to pits in South Wales. About 1,500 men are likely to be returned to the mines.

The shortage of coal already is being felt in the Rotherham district, the center of rich coal fields, because of strikes in the South Yorkshire area. The largest coal retailers in the district were reported to have closed their warehouses.

Commenting on the coal controversy, the Daily Telegraph said: "It is extremely doubtful whether to grant the wages claim would, by itself, have much effect on production, and increased production is what the nation requires, in addition to justice for the miners."

Niagara Falls, Dark in '41, to Be Lighted This Summer

TORONTO, Ont., May 29 (AP).—Illumination of Niagara Falls, discontinued last year to conserve power for war industry, will be restored tomorrow, it was announced tonight. The two great cataracts, American and Horseshoe, will be illuminated for 2½ hours nightly until September. Officials said the move was made because the falls will be lighted at a time when power consumption is off peak.

NAZIS EXECUTE 12 MORE CZECHS IN HEYDRICH CASE

2 Aids of Gestapo Leader Die from Bombing.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, May 29.—Twelve more Czechs were executed today, according to official German announcements, for failing to give information to the authorities concerning the identity of the two assassins responsible for Wednesday's attack on Reinhard Heydrich, deputy gestapo chief and reich protector for Bohemia-Moravia. Nine were executed at Brunn and three at Moravska Ostrava.

Six Czechs—members of one family—were executed yesterday for harboring enemies of Germany.

Heydrich Near Death.

Heydrich was reported near death after two blood transfusions today failed to have the desired results. He is said to be suffering from a bullet wound in the throat, another bullet lodged in his back and internal injuries inflicted by the explosion of the bomb which wrecked his car in a suburb of Prague.

[Altho it was rumored thruout Europe yesterday that Heydrich had died, a Stefani dispatch from Prague just before midnight said he still was alive, but in a serious condition.]

The chauffeur and at least one member of the gestapo leader's bodyguard died early this morning from "wounds received during the attack," the Germans announced.

"Hundreds Jailed"—London.

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—A Czech government spokesman in London said advices from the continent indicated the Germans had arrested hundreds of officials, university professors and students for questioning in the attack on Reinhard Heydrich.

"The borders have been closed and the whole protectorate is one vast prison," the spokesman added.

RALLY WILL OPEN DRIVE TO SUPPLY PLANES TO NORSE

Chicago's Swedish-American campaign to raise funds to purchase airplanes for escaped Norwegians who are being trained as pilots in Canada will be given a start June 8 at a rally in Orchestra hall.

The "Wings for Norway" drive, as it is known, is expected to have a beneficial effect on the morale of Norwegians, according to Charles S. Peterson, chairman of the local Swedish-American group. He said the success of the drive would convince Norway of Swedish-Norwegian unity in the United States.

Carl Sandburg, poet and historian, will be the chief speaker at the rally. Others on the program are Archibald MacLeish, poet who is director of the Office of Facts and Figures, and Lieut. Col. Ole Reistad of the Norwegian air force.

POLICE STUDYING REPORTS OF GANG LOTTERY SCHEME

Detectives under Capt. Thomas J. Duffy yesterday were investigating reports that gangsters formerly affiliated with the old Capone syndicate are attempting to organize a widespread lottery based on treasury balances or bank clearings, in the south side Negro district.

Capt. Duffy said the new racket reportedly was intended to supplant the policy games which, until the recent indictment of 26 persons allegedly connected with it, exacted a toll of $3,000,000 annually from Chicago's Negro population. Five detectives searched a seven story building at State and Van Buren streets, where plans were supposedly being laid in secret offices. No hideout or headquarters was found. Participation in policy games, according to reports, has declined about 60 per cent since the recent indictments. Those wheels running, it is said, move almost daily from place to place. Capt. Duffy said he found reports thruout the Negro district that "something is brewing" in connection with a lottery but his men found no evidence that a start had been made.

42 FROM CHICAGO TO GET DEGREES AT U. OF MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29 [Special].—Forty-two Chicagoans were certified by the board of regents today for degrees at the University of Michigan commencement exercises tomorrow night. Forty-four from Chicago suburbs and other Illinois cities also will be graduated.

A total of 1,969 degrees will be awarded at the commencement, which will be the university's 98th. Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university, will give the commencement address.

77 Nurses Graduated by St. Luke's Hospital

At impressive services in St. James' Episcopal church, 666 Rush street, 77 nurses, many of whom will immediately join the armed forces, were graduated from St. Luke's hospital last night. The diplomas were presented by A. Watson Armour, acting president of the hospital board of trustees. The services were conducted by the Rev. Duncan Browne, pastor of St. James' church. Miss Maude Gooch, for the last 25 years night supervisor of nurses, was "master of ceremonies."

Australia Makes Rifle That Becomes a Machine Gun

New York, May 29 (AP).—The Australian radio today said that a rifle convertible into a machine gun had been tested successfully in Australia and that Army Minister Francis M. Forde had announced several thousand would be made as soon as possible.

Plan to Educate 10 Million for Draft and War Work

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—An adult education program of unprecedented proportions began to shape up in Washington today, after President Roosevelt was advised that insufficient education already had eliminated approximately 250,000 physically fit men from military service.

The plan aimed both at adding many new divisions to the armed forces and placing thousands of better qualified workers in the war production lines.

Mr. Roosevelt discussed the education problem at his press conference, after John W. Studebaker, federal education commissioner, and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, presented what the President termed startling figures.

10 Million Adults Reported.

Using 1940 census reports, Studebaker said there were over 10,000,000 persons in the United States more than 25 years old who had not been beyond the fourth grade in school. That is 13.57 per cent, or approximately one of every seven persons, of that age group. He did not have figures on all persons over 21.

Paul V. McNutt, man power chief, said he expected to ask the budget bureau for funds and that, if finally given the go-ahead by the President, the program probably could be launched late in the summer. "We can start as soon as we get the money," he told newspaper men.

Both McNutt and Studebaker declined to predict whether men deferred from the draft for literacy reasons would be required to go to school. It was assumed the program would be undertaken thru existing school facilities, with many men 20 to 45 attending classes at night.

Bill Pending in Congress.

There now is pending in congress a bill proposing a 15 million dollar appropriation to aid the educational attainment of persons 17 and over having less than four years of schooling, and some education quarters hinted that twice that amount may be needed.

Studebaker said there were 433,000 men of draft age without sufficient education—fourth grade—to serve in the army, and estimated that 250,000 of these were physically fit, meaning that only literacy requirements prevented them from army service.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference the men rejected were not morons, but were rejected largely because they had lacked a chance for education. He added that these men needed to have their wits sharpened, and perhaps this would be done thru a manual, vocational process.

300,000 ISLAND GREEKS PANICKY; FEAR STARVATION

10,000 Flee to Turkey, Red Cross Reports.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 29 (AP).—Three hundred thousand Greeks, living on the German-occupied Aegean Islands of Samos, Mitylene, Chios, and Nikaria, are so close to starvation that panic is spreading among them and they are being driven to invade Turkey, a report to Ralph Bain, head of the American Red Cross in the middle east, disclosed tonight.

The people now are living mainly on herbs which are rapidly drying up under the hot summer sun, according to the report which came from an American investigator who spent a week in the Smyrna region talking to refugees from the islands.

10,000 Reach Turkey.

Ten thousand islanders already have crossed the sea by devious means eluding Turkish patrols. Half of them are in the Smyrna area, emaciated and yellow-skinned from malnutrition.

[The British radio reported that "Turkey, tho short of food itself, has decided to send over 600 tons of food—mostly raisins, dried figs and fish—to the islands. The first shipment will leave on Monday.]

"Unless food is sent to the islands soon," the report said, "a tidal wave of Greeks may break upon the Turkish shores, with the probability that the situation will be getting out of hand. . . . Panic is spreading among the islanders as they see only death from starvation before them and they will get across somehow."

Hundreds Lost at Sea.

Hundreds of persons, the report said, have been lost at sea in the passage to the mainland, and others have been fired on by the Turkish patrols.

One refugee told the investigator a few unscrupulous Greeks were cooperating with the Germans in making money in the black market, buying up at small prices the property which the departing islanders must sell to get passage money.

A large part of the island populations came from the Smyrna region, where they were driven out as the Turks reoccupied it after the last war. While the Turkish government is officially friendly, local feeling is not hospitable. The burning of Smyrna—which the Turks blamed on the departing Greeks—has not been forgotten.

The four islands are famous in history. Mitylene, then known as Lesbos, was where Sappho wrote her poems. Samos produced the wine which tickled the palates of the ancient Greeks—and their gods. Chios claims Homer as her son.

Swiss Bear Down on Press for Voicing War Opinions

WOMAN KILLED, 4 ARE MISSING IN WIND STORM

Detroit and Pontiac Hit by High Gale.

Detroit, Mich., May 29 [Special].—One woman was killed and three young men and a girl were believed drowned in Lake St. Clair tonight when a sudden wind, rain and electrical storm swept at 60 to 70 miles an hour across a section of the southeastern part of the state.

Reports of damage were received here from as far as Grand Rapids, Farmington, and Lansing. The worst effects were felt at Pontiac, 20 miles northwest of Detroit, where the wind struck suddenly while a carnival was in progress, quickly collapsing a large tent, burying a crowd beneath the canvas. When the débris was cleared away an hour later, Mrs. Florence Holmquist of Pontiac city, was found dead, clutching a live wire which had blown down.

The residential section of Pontiac was in darkness for several hours.

Hurt by Flying Glass.

The high 60 to 70 mile an hour wind and sweeping rain lasted for about 25 minutes. In Detroit a number of persons were injured by flying glass. Telephone poles and trees thruout the city also were blown down. The 200 foot radio tower of the state police two-way communications system in Detroit was smashed when it toppled in the storm.

Lights were put out in a Detroit theater for an hour. The audience, apparently thinking it was a blackout, sang patriotic songs, oblivious of the storm outside.

Four Are Missing.

Three girls and three young men were caught out on Lake St. Clair, northeast of the city, in a motorboat. Police rescued Jean Eldridge, 20 years old, in a rowboat. Irene Wing, another girl in the party, swam ashore. They said the boat was overturned.

Don Whitt and his sister, Dorothy, also of Detroit, were two of the four others in the boat. Miss Eldridge and Miss Wing said they knew the other two men only as Bob and Barney. All four were missing and believed drowned. Reports indicated 20 or more men, women, and children were injured in different areas.

Long distance and local telephone service was cut off in seven communities, according to the telephone companies, and in 10 other towns circuits were reported out. Some 4,000 telephones were out of commission in Detroit alone, according to reports.

BELL, LEWIS' KIN, FIRED BY CIO IN PURGE EXCHANGE

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The CIO took a turn at purging today and fired its controler, J. R. Bell, brother-in-law of John L. Lewis.

Yesterday Lewis removed Philip Murray, president of the CIO, from the $18,000-a-year position of vice president of the United Mine Workers, which Lewis heads. Lewis and Murray, co-workers for years, have recently been estranged.

Murray was not available for comment on Bell's dismissal. CIO Secretary James B. Carey said the job was being abolished and he would do the work.

It was reported today that certain friends of Murray would soon be removed, or would resign, from positions in the United Mine Workers.

Martin Wagner, international executive board member for district 50 of the UMW who cast the lone dissenting vote on the removal of Murray, was considered marked for dismissal, as was Van A. Bittner, president of district 17 in southern West Virginia.

DRYS WILL HOLD OWN HEARING ON WAR LIQUOR BILL

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—The senate prohibition bloc today called a public hearing on a bill which would severely regulate sales of liquor to soldiers, sailors, and other members of the armed forces. Henry Ford and "other big folks" will be invited to speak, it was announced by Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, the dry leader.

Decision to hold the meeting, which will take place in the senate office building on June 22, was generally interpreted in the capital tonight as the opening move in a fight to prohibit, or at least restrict, sales of liquor to the general public for the duration of the war.

Sen. Bilbo offered no explanation of the decision to call the hearing instead of attempting to bring the bill up in the senate on Monday, as he had announced. A previous attempt to have the senate take up the bill failed, but Mr. Bilbo said that "on a roll call vote" it would be approved by a two-thirds majority.

BAR NEGRO UNION FROM MOLESTING TAVERN BUSINESS

J. Livert [St. Louis] Kelly, colored union boss, and other officials and members of the AFL Negro Bartenders, Waiters and Waitresses' union, local 444, were forbidden in a temporary injunction issued yesterday by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington from molesting or otherwise interfering with the operation of a tavern at 624 East 47th street.

The order was issued on the complaint of Mrs. Eva Cooper, the owner, who charged the union with conspiracy to ruin her business by picketing, violence, threats, preventing deliveries, and keeping customers from entering the place. She said her employés belong to a CIO union and do not want to be forced into Kelly's group.

Sergt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, has termed Kelly an agent of the Nitti gang and an associate of Danny Stanton, south side public enemy.

KNIGHT, A TENOR, IS GUEST SOLOIST ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Song from Operetta to Be a Feature.

Felix Knight, young American tenor, will be the guest soloist on the broadcast of America Loves a Melody over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight. Marion Claire, soprano star of the show, again will be featured.

Felix Knight.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker. The W-G-N orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, will provide the musical background for the program.

A highlight of the program will be a dramatic sketch outlining 10 government approved suggestions for the conservation of gasoline and rubber by motorists.

Sings Two Solos.

Knight will sing two solos—Herbert's "Neapolitan Love Song" and "I'll Never Believe in Bad Luck Again," from the grand prize winning operetta, "Mr. Mozart," by Ross Hastings. The theme song of "America Loves a Melody" also comes from Hasting's winning work in W-G-N's $10,500 nation-wide operetta quest.

"I'll Never Believe in Bad Luck Again" and "Say Not Love Is a Dream" are the two song-dramas to be aired on the program. They are the result of two $25 prize winning letters from radio listeners naming their favorite songs and telling a story behind them.

Kreisler Melodies.

Miss Claire will sing "Say Not Love Is a Dream" and "Zigeuner" from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet."

Miss Claire and Knight will join in singing a group of Fritz Kreisler melodies, "The Letter Song" from "The Chocolate Soldier" and selections from Romberg's "Maytime."

The program will close with the ensemble joining in "Onward Christian Soldiers."

W-G-N TO HONOR ARMS WORKERS IN SHOW TODAY

"Working for Victory," a special program honoring the tens of thousands of army ordnance workers who will stick to their machines on Memorial day, will be broadcast on W-G-N from 12 to 12:15 p. m. today.

In the hundreds of factories within the Chicago Ordnance district the program will be tuned in and transmitted thru public address systems to all the men and women who are giving up the holiday to turn out rifles, artillery, shells, and tanks. Families of the workers also have been notified and will be listening.

Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, deputy district chief of the Chicago ordnance district, will be in the W-G-N studies to speak.

Thru the Hours with WGN

"Sure we're working all day today!"

Thousands of patriotic men and women in hundreds of plants thruout the midwest are working all day today, Memorial Day, to produce more guns, tanks, planes, ships and other materials of war.

In recognition, the Chicago Ordnance District, thru the facilities of W-G-N, at noon today salutes these men and women as they work at their machines.

Speaking to his fellow workers for victory, will be a war worker from a nearby Chicago factory, his wife, and his soldier son. Also to speak will be Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, deputy chief of the Chicago Ordnance District, and Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond (Ret.), production chief of the district. Tune in W-G-N and hear

JUDGE WEIGHS BORRELLI STORY OF A 'FRAMEUP'

Courtney Goes on Stand; Denies Charge.

ard Austin and cross-examined by Stewart. He was bitter as he mentioned the Keeshin case, which was scuttled by Bud Borrelli's refusal to testify. He began by telling of Judge Borrelli's request that Capt. Gilbert go to the meeting in the judge's office to plead with the son. In reply to a question by Austin, Courtney said:

"I saw Judge Borrelli in my office after the grand jury session. He was in tears. He said he would be glad to get his son to tell the truth. He blamed Keeshin for the whole thing. He said he would try to persuade his son to tell the truth and asked that I let Capt. Gilbert go with him. He said his son was a hard lad to talk to."

Q. [by Austin]—On April 17, 1942. did you see Judge Borrelli and his son in your office? A.—Yes. Crowley and Napoli [Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli] were there.

Advised to Tell Truth.

Q.—What, if anything, did Bruce Borrelli say? A.—He said, "What becomes of me?" I said, "You tell the truth and the whole truth. That's your duty."

Q.—Did you make him any promises? A.—I never gave anybody any promises in any case for any testimony.

INTERRUPTED BY STEWART

Wants No Discussion of His "General Practice."

At this point Stewart interrupted to suggest that Courtney answer the question and not discuss "his general practice." Judge Miner held that the question had been answered.

Q.—Did you make Judge Borrelli any promises? A.—No. No promises were asked or talked about.

Q.—Was something said by the judge about you being hard on his son? A.—Yes. When the conference broke up, the judge said, "Mr. Courtney, you are a little hard on my son." I said, "After all, judge, your son is a hoodlum. He should tell the truth. He got himself into this. Tho you are his father, he is a hoodlum."

No Pep Talk, He Says.

Courtney denied he ever had authorized Capt. Gilbert to make promises. He said also that there had been no last minute pep talk by Gilbert to Bud Borrelli at the grand jury room door as Bud had charged. [Earlier in the day two policemen on guard there at the time had testified Bud passed immediately inside without talking to any one.] Courtney said he had been looking for Gilbert at the time and could not find him.

It was during cross-examination by Stewart that the prosecutor was at his best. He snapped out his answers and several times launched into short speeches which Stewart tried futilely to stop. The attorney began with a reference to Borrelli's reluctance to face the grand jury.

"He had a right to tell the truth, too," Courtney shot back.

Q.—Didn't he ask you: "What becomes of me?" A—Yes. But his father at that time said: "Never mind. Never mind."

Q—Why do you suppose he asked you that? A—Ask him.

CRIMES IN HIGH PLACES

Get Underlings to Tell Truth Is Courtney's Motto.

Stewart insisted that he be given a proper answer. Courtney insisted he had given one, then added:

"A vicious crime has been committed, a very vicious crime in which Borrelli placed himself at the direction of Keeshin. I wanted the people of Cook county to know every activity in this whole crime.

"There are lots of crimes in this town where men in high places are involved. The only way you can get at them is to get the underlings to tell the truth.

"Now that that's all said——" began Stewart.

"And meant!" snapped the prosecutor.

Stewart then wanted to know what consideration Borrelli would have been given if he had gone ahead with his testimony against Keeshin. Courtney replied that he had not had to answer that question for himself or any one else and that he had not given it a thought.

Called to Courtney's Office.

The attorney asked if Courtney had not called Judge Borrelli and his son to his office at a time when it was indicated Bud was making some changes in his original story. The answer was yes.

Q.—Why did you want to see Judge Borrelli then? A. — Because young Borrelli was beginning to say the people he slugged might have hit him first. I told him and the judge too that we wanted the truth, neither exaggerated nor minimized.

Q.—Did you use pressure? A.—We never had to exert any pressure. We don't use pressure.

Q.—Why did you point your finger at the son and say you had a good case against him? A.—We wanted to try Keeshin first because he was the biggest culprit in the case and my conscience told me to try him first.

Q.—The procedure was a little bit unusual, wasn't it? A.—Not a bit. We had a vicious crime by vicious hoodlums and at the instigation of a so-called big business man.

Puts Question Six Times.

Stewart's greatest effort of the session was to get an admission from Courtney that he had wanted very much to have young Borrelli as a witness in the Keeshin case. Each of the six times it was put the prosecutor answered that we wanted truth in all crimes from those concerned in them or from any one else, but he would not say specifically he had wanted Bud Borrelli.

Stewart, exasperated, said eventually: "It is not my intention to reflect upon you, Mr. Courtney"; to which Courtney swiftly replied: "You can't reflect on me, Mr. Stewart." At this the attorney threw up his hands and growled: "That's all!"

Borrelli Refreshes His Memory.

Judge Borrelli was the first important witness of the day. Since his testimony of Thursday, he had spent some time in thought and had refreshed his memory, he said.

The judge, who had wept on the stand previously, began yesterday by asserting that since testifying he wasn't sure Bud had talked to Capt. Gilbert at the grand jury room door, he now had a definite impression that the two had talked together there.

In addition, Judge Borrelli clung to a previous assertion that Crowley had assured him his son would not go to jail, tho he admitted no promises had been made by Courtney.

Describing the meeting in Courtney's office April 17, Judge Borrelli said Napoli began to read from Bud's grand jury confession and came to a part that was "displeasing." This was a part in which young Borrelli had stated that when he had slugged Nick Wassell, John Milich, and Stanley Misius near the Keeshin plant they had appeared to be on the point of hitting him or had "gotten huffy."

Phone Call Mentioned.

"Some one then mentioned a phone call Bruce had made to Mr. Keeshin in River Forest while in custody and Bud interrupted to say he never had made such a call," the judge testified. "Mr. Napoli said that if this were true, they had a weak case [against Keeshin]. Then Mr. Courtney pointed a finger at Bruce and said: 'But we have a good case against you!'"

JUDGE ADMONISHES JUDGE

Miner Reminds Borrelli He Is Not on Bench.

Judge Borrelli then told of seeing a memorandum at the meeting, signed by Lieut. Tom Kelly, relating to the River Forest call.

He then asked for it and Stewart, who was examining, moved that the state produce it. So heated did the demands grow that Judge Miner eventually admonished Judge Borrelli, reminding him that for the moment he was in the witness chair, not on the bench.

Judge Borrelli again was admonished when he shouted:

"I demand that paper! I want it as a basis for charges against Tom Kelly for framing my son!"

On cross-examination, the judge was asked by Assistant Prosecutor Austin if his talks Thursday night and yesterday morning with Defense Attorney Stewart were what had refreshed his memory, Judge Borrelli said: "Only on one point."

Borrelli's Phone Call.

When Crowley testified as the last witness of the morning, he said the Kelly memorandum matter had been straightened out. Bud Borrelli had tried to reach Keeshin at his office instead of his River Forest home. Kelly, listening on an extension phone, had heard some one tell Borrelli:

"Sit tight. Don't talk to those fellows in the state's attorney's office. They're not your friends; they're no good."

Crowley denied he had assured Judge Borrelli his son would be treated leniently; only that he would be treated fairly. He also said the April 17 meeting in Courtney's office was called because Bud appeared to be hedging.

Stewart made much of this scene in his closing argument. He said every action of the prosecution showed they were keeping young Borrelli constantly reminded that it would be well to go along with the state. He dwelt at length on Courtney's possible motives in allowing Capt. Gilbert to go to Judge Borrelli's office to help persuade Bud to testify.

"Do you think if I had a client I thought should do something, the state's attorney would let Gilbert go to my office to help me plead? No, of course not. But he had a good reason for sending Gilbert—a symbol of the prosecution's power—to Judge Borrelli's office.

"Furthermore, they wanted to get Bruce Borrelli on record in writing so that they would have him. They got him on record before the grand jury, and Capt. Gilbert pulled a confidence game on him to accomplish it."

'CONSCIENCE PREVAILED'

Prosecutor Pictures a Father Pleading with Son.

Closing for the state, Austin asserted the office scene symbolized a father's conscience pleading with a son's conscience.

"It is of no matter whom he called to help him plead," Austin said. "He could have called a policeman, a sister, a brother, or a newspaper man. And conscience prevailed. Bruce Borrelli went before the grand jury and told the truth. His statement should be admitted."

It was just before these statements that Judge Miner said he would like to "think aloud a bit" to guide counsel in their arguments.

"Judge Borelli is a lawyer and a sitting judge," he said. "He should have known that only a court can grant probation. He should have known that Capt. Gilbert had no authority. The boy, Bruce, having been around courts for years, should have known that, too. The events this entire matter hinges upon in the court's mind are those that occurred in Judge Borrelli's office on Jan. 15."

The attorneys apparently took this to mean Judge Miner did not care to hear discussions of young Borrelli's trips down a back fire escape with Lieut. Tom Kelly in search of stooges to help "get Keeshin." They confined themselves to the office scene.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mae Johnson, 1334 North Kostner avenue:]

THE QUESTION.

What is the tightest spot you have ever been in?

WHERE ASKED.

Washington and Genesee streets, Waukegan.

THE ANSWERS.

E. F. Wightman, life insurance agent, 1406 North Jackson street, Waukegan—Four other men and I took a trip to a small remote city in the interior of China. We stepped off the train and stepped into the midst of a bloody revolution. We dodged bullets until train time the next day.

Catherine E. Schulz, secretary, 1504 Monroe street, Waukegan—When I floated way out on the lake on the inflated inner tube I felt very comfortable. But when a slow leak developed and I didn't know anything about swimming I was in a predicament. Then I began to sink—and my feet touched bottom!

David L. Cole, newsboy, 105 South Lewis avenue, Waukegan—My brother and I were throwing mud balls at two other boys much older than we were. They started to chase us, their hands full of the same ammunition. I sank deep into the mud and my brother ran on. I gave one tug and a shoe came off, but I got away.

Mrs. Earl D. Koenig, housewife, 314 South Sheridan road, Waukegan—The traffic light was against me as I wheeled my baby and his walker across the street. Just as I thought I'd make it all right, one front and one back wheel came off at the same time. It looked bad until the light changed in my favor.

Don E. Daley, army corporal, 417 Oak street, Waukegan — I was all bundled up in my sleeping bag, comfortably asleep on the ground, when I heard a rattlesnake traveling near my head. I opened my eyes and we were staring right at each other. I managed to roll over and killed the snake with my helmet.

Courtney E. Carl, first class corpsman, navy hospital, Great Lakes station—When my car rolled over on a country road and pinned me under it I was really in a tight spot in more ways than one. I just had to lie there and hope that some one would drive by. When help finally came I was unconscious.

Movie Killer Gets Life Term; Two Slayers Seeking Paroles

[Associated Press Photo.]

Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne in Criminal court yesterday sentenced Clarence McDonald, 17 years old, to life imprisonment in the penitentiary for the loop theater murder last Feb. 24 of his sweetheart, Dorothy Broz, also 17. The court denied a motion for a new trial and imposed the punishment which had been fixed by a jury.

McDonald remained as impassive as he had during his trial. He merely repeated his statement that he had beat the chair [the state had sought the death penalty] and now there was a chance for him to get out. Defense attorneys had cited his statement as one of the reasons they would not press for a new trial. McDonald will be eligible to ask for a parole after serving 20 years.

In sentencing the killer, Judge Dunne read a lengthy memorandum in which he blamed the lack of parental supervision for the slayer's plight. He called upon fathers and mothers to be better parents and closer companions to their children.

"What has happened in this cause is symbolic and typical of what is happening in this court and in other courts thruout the country to young men and women who have not received the proper tarining," the judge said.

Two of Chicago's most notorious criminals are among Illinois convicts seeking paroles in public hearings starting Monday, it was disclosed yesterday. The two are Robert [Teddy] Webb, the city's first automobile bandit, and Ira D. Perry Jr., son of a wealthy family, who was sent to the penitentiary in 1922 for the thrill holdup murder of a west side jeweler, William Schaller.

Webb was sent to prison in 1914 for the murder of Policeman Peter Hart during a police chase. His capture ended a career of robberies, thefts, and shootings. Since his imprisonment Webb has been seeking his release by numerous parole and court appeals.

Perry also has made numerous appeals for parole. In 1925 the late Gov. Len Small granted Perry a parole, but the slayer was sent back to prison as the result of widespread public protests. Gov. Small had commuted his murder charge to manslaughter, but the case was taken to the Illinois Supreme court, which ruled the commutation was illegal.

In 1922 Perry, then 22 years old, confessed he had been looking for some easy money in the robbery in which the jeweler was slain. His attorney, the late Charles E. Erbstein, said he had no excuse to offer for the boy, the son of a wealthy inventor. "He had the best of bringing up," the lawyer told Judge Michael L. McKinley.

SLAYER OF FOUR CAPTURED THRU GIRL'S MEMORY

Union City, N. J., May 29 (AP).—A young girl's memory today led to the meek surrender of 59 year old Vincenzo Piazza, who police said freely admitted four murders in Union City and Cleveland, O.

Vincenzo Piazza. [AP Wirephoto.]

Police Commissioner Harry E. Little said the short, stocky prisoner, being questioned here after his capture in a nearby farm shack, confessed these crimes:

Jan. 26, 1933, shot to death John Jandik, 46, and his wife, Mabel, 29, in the Jandik home in Union City. Nazzareno Rameglione, 35, was wounded but recovered. The slaying were attributed to Piazza's jealousy over Mabel.

Feb. 11, 1939. Murdered Onofrio Trizzino, 47, and the latter's brother, Joseph, 29, in a blaze of gunfire at Onoforio's home in Cleveland, where Piazza was boarding. The three were partners in a chicken and egg business.

Onoforio's wife, Carmela, 45, was wounded but survived.

Linked to Another Murder.

In addition, Cleveland police said they wanted to question Piazza, whose criminal career dates back 35 years, for the slaying of James [Big Jim] Dama, Youngstown, O., tavernkeeper, at nearby Geneva-on-the-Lake last Sept. 14.

Little gave this story of Piazza's capture.

After the 1933 slayings, Piazza, known here then as a bootlegger and counterfeiter, was traced to a shack near the Mancini farm in nearby Carlstadt.

Mary Mancini, then 11, identified pictures of Piazza as those of a man who occasionally visited the shack. Since 1933, police have made frequent stops at the Mancini farm looking for Piazza.

Watches for 4 Days.

He showed up last Monday. Mary recognized him, and for four days watched him and gathered up her courage.

Today she telephoned police, said a man they wanted was hiding in the shed and hung up.

One thrust his revolver thru a window, the other entered with gun drawn. Piazza, clad in a rumpled gray business suit, dropped on a bed.

"I don't care now. The hot seat won't make any difference to me," police quoted him as saying.

MRS. VANDERBILT OUTRUNS PRESS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29 (AP).—Manuela Hudson Vanderbilt, estranged wife of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, millionaire turfman who joined the navy this week, outran the field with as much ease as some of her husband's horses today.

Arriving at Union station, she showed a neat pair of heels as she made for a taxi stand, thereby escaping questioning on reports that she had established residence in Nevada for purposes of divorce.

The Monterey, Cal., girl, who sued for divorce in New York last August but did not press the action, had been reported at the resort of Hidden Wells, near Las Vegas. The Vanderbilts were married nearly four years ago. They have a daughter, Wendie, 3 years old.

FRANCE PONDERS PETAIN'S HINT OF PEACE TREATY

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 29.—The talk of the town—and of all France—today was Chief of State Marshal Petain's vague references yesterday at Chateauroux to "the end of the war" and "the treaty of peace."

Since his return to Vichy there has been no elaboration of his remarks. All afternoon papers in Paris carry the text of his radio talk, in which, after discussing the reconstruction of France, he said:

"Perform your task in the best possible way. If you do, France will arise by its own efforts. I am thinking of the end of the war and of the treaty of peace. The treaty will not be disadvantageous to France if every one makes his contribution to it."

This was the first official statement that a peace treaty or any other document is envisaged at this time to replace the armistice agreement which ended the war between France and Germany and Italy.

Political circles in Vichy were in a flurry all day. Early this morning Chief of Government Pierre Laval went to see the marshal and they had a long talk. At 11 a. m. Petain presided over a cabinet meeting at which harmony between the views of Petain and Laval was stressed and Laval outlined and received an indorsement of the foreign policy he intends to follow, according to a communique issued after the meeting. The details of the policy were not divulged.

Accompanied by Hubert de Lagardelle, minister of labor, Laval later dashed off to Paris by automobile. Laval returned to Vichy from Paris on Tuesday after contacting high German personalities during a visit of several days.

CHAPTER 34

IMMEDIATELY upon his appointment as Chief of Staff of the United States Army in 1929, Douglas MacArthur laid out a course to start mechanizing the American forces. This was many years before Hitler began to organize his panzer divisions. MacArthur realized that the next war would be fought in an entirely different manner. For this reason he stormed at Congress and urged the enactment of legislation and the voting of appropriations that would give the United States the kind of striking power that could come only from thoro mechanization and an exceptionally large and well trained air force. Time and again he urged Congress to adopt a program of thoro preparedness, stating "There is nothing more expensive than

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THIS DAY.

The cult of the unknown soldier was an outgrowth of the last war. In almost every land which had been a participant in the war a great tomb was erected in the national capital beneath which lie the bones of an unidentified soldier, fallen in battle.

There is such a tomb at Arlington at which, on days like this, imposing ceremonies take place, but the cult of the unknown soldier has never entered into the marrow of the American people. We cling, rather, to the tradition of Memorial day, a day on which we turn instinctively not to the shrine of a nameless symbol of heroism and sacrifice but to the graves of men we knew, whose faces, and gestures, and tones of voice we remember; men who had faults familiar to us as well as virtues; men whose traits we have inherited or who inherited theirs from us. We return to the graves of our grandfathers, our fathers, and our sons.

We know that what they dared we can dare, for we are bone of their bone. The heights of heroism and sacrifice to which they rose are not beyond our powers. They achieved victory in their day and we shall achieve it in ours. Their courage did not falter, nor shall ours, come what may.

At the graves of our own soldiers we stand today in pride and in gratitude. They have taught us where our duty lies and from them we draw the assurance that in our turn we shall not fail.

BOTTOM OF THE BARREL.

The members of the Cook county board have got the first bad news from the phony budget which they passed on the first of the year, appropriating millions of dollars more than the county has any hope of collecting in revenue.

In all probability, the board has thrown away $10,000 in the form of earnest money on buildings which it had intended to buy as an annex to County hospital. County Treasurer Toman has refused to release the rest of the money, $117,000, necessary to complete the purchase. The county, says Mr. Toman, is scratching the bottom of the barrel. If he pays for the building the county will miss its pay rolls, and as a good organization man Mr. Toman isn't going to allow that to happen with an election approaching in which he is a candidate.

All this comes as no surprise to those conversant with the county's financial situation, including that minority of the board members who are arithmetically literate. Even at this late date the county has two chances to get out of the woods, or partly out at least. It can still fire a few hundred of its unneeded employés and save the money appropriated for their salaries.

This admittedly will be a difficult task. A large proportion of the county employés are not directly subject to the board. Many hundreds of them are in the grossly overstaffed county fee offices, including that of Mr. Toman. The number of employés in those offices is fixed by the Circuit judges, and this year, as for many years past, the judges scamped their duty and gave the patronage hunters their usual field day.

The other thing that the county board can do is to make a real effort to collect some delinquent taxes. This will require the coöperation of other county officers, particularly the treasurer and state's attorney. Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the board's finance committee, has pending a proposal for involuntary forfeiture foreclosure suits against delinquent real estate taxpayers. Instead of waiting for the taxpayers to come in and seek to compromise their taxes under the discredited voluntary foreclosure action, the commissioner would have the county bid in their properties at the foreclosure sale, a procedure which would allow the county to deliver a clear title and possession to purchasers two years later. Such action is within the powers of the county board. The Illinois Supreme court said so specifically in an opinion delivered a fortnight ago.

In such actions special attention should be paid to recently delinquent properties. Taxpayers who owe only two or three or four years' taxes are going to pay them if they face the certainty of losing their property, which they would face if the county entered the forfeiture foreclosure sales as a bidder. The county's distress may yet be the lever necessary to start a genuine effort to clean up the delinquent tax mess.

A UNIFIED AIR FORCE.

The changes which have been made in our naval program have been compelled by experience. It is simply a fact that the huge battleship cannot survive a determined attack in force from the air unless the ship has an airplane escort strong enough to drive the enemy airmen away, but in that event the battleship itself is redundant because it can do nothing to the enemy that the airplanes cannot do as well or better and at much less risk. The decision of the navy authorities to concentrate attention upon air power rather than upon battleships will not be seriously questioned by any one except the diehards. Every one else knows that the big battleships get into the news in this war only when they are sunk. Their achievements have been almost negligible.

Our navy was slow to learn the lesson. This is not to say that every one in the navy was backward. There were many men in the service who read the signs aright, but their opinion might not have prevailed even now if they had not received the most emphatic support from the press. Here is another and most impressive testimony to the need for public discussion of military problems in wartime.

The need continues. As yet the recognition of air power is still far from complete. We have sent an air general and an air admiral to London to discuss, so it is said, bombing raids on Germany. The bombing, it should be noted, is to have no direct connection with army movements or ship movements. The attack is to be by fleets of airplanes, some of them under army direction and some under navy direction. What can be gained by this division of authority? Why not frankly recognize the fact that fighting in the air is at least as different from fighting on land or water as either of these is different from the other? If there is justification for separate administrations of the army and navy, there is equal justification for unifying our air forces under a single authority, free to develop strategy and tactics as the army and the navy are free to develop their ideas.

This concept of a unified air force, directed by airmen, has been urged repeatedly by almost every distinguished American flyer. Gen. Mitchell believed in it. So do Rickenbacker, Lindbergh, and Williams. Maj. de Seversky has summarized the case with notable clarity in his recent book. The idea has been resisted by the military and naval burocracy as an invasion of their prerogatives, and a good deal of pressure from public opinion will be required to break down the opposition.

COVERING UP.

Pearl Harbor unified the nation. Americans, therefore, may well be mystified as to why those who wished for war before it was forced upon us on Dec. 7 are now doing everything they can to destroy our national unity by their attacks on those who took the other side of the national debate so long as the issue was debatable. There should be no mystery about this smear campaign. It is the only means of diverting attention from their own blunders that is available to those who are conducting it.

It is because there is nothing to be charged against the purely American minded people that those who attack them are reduced to smear and abuse. They cannot charge the noninterventionists with sending an ultimatum to Japan without considering the military resources available to back that course. They cannot charge them with dividing the fleet.

They cannot charge them with responsibility for the lack of surface and aerial reconnaissance at Hawaii. They cannot charge them with ignorance of modern torpedo bombing tactics, or with failure to provide barrage balloons at Pearl Harbor, or with failure to use detecting devices, all of which contributed to the disaster.

The smearers cannot charge those they attack with leaving an inadequate garrison in the Philippines, or with responsibility for lack of knowledge that British forces in the western Pacific were negligible. They cannot charge them with bringing about the rubber shortage. They cannot charge them with failure to protect our shipping in the Atlantic and gulf, which has created the gasoline shortage in the east.

It is just because the smearers bear a responsibility for all these misfortunes and catastrophes and find it politically necessary to cover them up that they resort to their present line of conduct.

THE KANSAS FARMERS PAY.

The state of Kansas has recently been the scene of a neat bit of petard hoisting. Over the years the state has enacted laws which hamper interstate truck transportation. Kansas has been one of the more notorious states in levying tribute on out of state trucks. Among the exactions made on them has been the collection of a ton mileage tax on all goods brought into the state by trucks from other states.

Kansas at present has an acute storage problem in connection with its new wheat crop. Its elevators are already full and steel storage bins are needed for about 16,000,000 bushels of wheat. The AAA had a number of empty bins in the Iowa corn country. It started them toward Kansas. When the trucks got to the Kansas state line they were stopped with a demand for payment of the ton mileage tax. The truck operators refused payment and the state officials have been unable to find any way in which the tax can be waived legally.

Meanwhile, the trucks are taking the storage bins to Nebraska and the Dakotas, where they also are needed badly. Kansas farmers are learning in an expensive way the lesson that interstate trade barriers, in the long run, help no one.

PRECEDENT.

A Japanese broadcast announces that 150 prisoners of war have been transferred from their detention camp and put to work as stevedores at the port of Osaka. This action appears to violate two rules prescribed by international law for the treatment of prisoners. It is forbidden either to employ them on war work or to hold them in areas that are legitimate military objectives for their own forces, which the Osaka port obviously is. The Japanese have established an interesting precedent which should be filed away against the day of their eventual defeat. The restoration of destroyed Chinese cities is a task which would occupy the whole Japanese army for a great many years.

THE PSYCHIATRISTS BEGIN TO TALK COMMON SENSE.

[Baltimore Sun.]

For 30 years Dr. Arthur H. Ruggles, president-elect of the American Psychiatric association, has been looking for a case of mental breakdown attributable solely to overwork or overstudy, but he has not found one yet. This declaration is another recent instance in which psychiatry has come to the support of common observation.

Most of us know that a man who likes his job, feels that he is getting ahead in the world, and has no great domestic difficulties, can stand an unbelievable amount of work and actually thrive on it. Such a man doesn't worry; and a man who doesn't worry is pretty nearly invulnerable to most of the psychoses.

It is at the moment when he begins to suspect that life isn't getting him anywhere that the trouble starts, for then he begins to worry, and worry leads to a long cycle of difficulties. Sometimes he takes to alcohol. More frequently, perhaps, he develops insomnia, and the insomnia, in turn, is likely to drive him to drink. In any case, he doesn't get enough rest at night to eliminate the fatigue poisons accumulated during the day, and then he is headed for a smash.

The worry does not always originate on the job. A fight with his wife, or a son who tangles with the police, may start it just as effectively; but in any case anxiety, not labor, is usually what breaks the man down. When the psychiatrists make that sort of argument, any mature layman can understand it, because most men who have reached the age of 40 have seen the thing happen; and, because he understands the argument, many a man begins to modify his opinion of psychiatry, realizing that it may turn out to contain more common sense and less magic, black or white, than he had supposed.

Great for early victories, these Japs. Still, they've been four years in China trying to fill the fifth number on the bingo card.—Detroit News.

MR. PEPYS GETS A PRESENT.

30th May—There came to my desk the other day a book, and on prying it out of its wrapping I found that my correspondent, Duke Bakrak, F. R. S. [Fellow of the Rounders' society] has gone and committed authorship, as he has often threatened. He has taken some 55 of his letters to me, describing with many jeers and japes the tribulations of his family life, and had them printed with an equal number of comic drawings. The book also has a foreword, telling the Duke's real name, and a hindword—this written by his Duchess the Mama—giving the lowdown on his character and bringing-up.

The Duke's inscription on the fly-leaf says I made this book possible, but my only help was in not correcting his spelling, which I admire as an obscure dialect of Early Anglo-Saxon. I had read most of these letters already, but when I began to read them again they sounded like new, so I said to myself, "This is the acid test, and it must be a good book."

The title of this book is "Love, Honor, and O'Boy," and I suspect Hollywood is biting its fingernails in jealousy over the happy phrase. If the Duke can't sell the movie rights, I am sure he can sell the title and turn a pretty penny in the deal.

It is in stock at all Chicago bookshops, and if any out-of-town customers don't know how to get hold of it, let them write me a letter. I will pass the order on to Duke Bakrak, sales manager of the Duke Bakrak Publishing company, holding sole rights in the collected works of Duke Bakrak, humorist.

MEMORIAL DAY MARCH.

Our fallen heroes march again today—
Behind the trill of fife and roll of drum,
From Gettysburg and St. Mihiel they come
To cheer us on our hard, victorious way.
From Lookout Mountain, Santiago Bay,
From Java and Bataan with lifted thumb,
Some wearing blue, or gray, or khaki, some
In buckskin fringe, but all in grim array.
Phil Sheridan bestrides a bombing plane;
Dave Crockett stalks among New Guinea's trees,
While Grant and Sherman guide MacArthur's hand.
Paul Jones and Perry sail the raging main
With Nimitz and his men. For all of these

When Actors Came to Supper.

Mark Twain must have enjoyed his visit to the Owl club of Chicago in the 1870s, according to the following quotation from "Memories," by Judge Edward Osgood Brown, written about 1920:

"I joined the Owl club, which had rooms in McVicker's Theater building, and which paid especial attention to entertaining actors. It was half a press club, too, as historians of the present Press club are fond of pointing out, asserting that the founders of the Press club left the Owl club because Board of Trade men came in and made the pace too rapid for respectable members of the Fourth Estate.

"I don't take much stock in that assertion, but it is true that there were some fast trotters in the Owl club in those days, that the doors were never locked at night, that the members played billiards and cards on Sunday [which was then tabu in the other clubs], and that they had, from time to time, midnight receptions for distinguished actors and actresses after the theater was over, much the same [but with a higher class of guests] as those the Press club gives now. I was at a supper for Salvini there, when he told me that E. L. Davenport was the best Hamlet that he had ever seen, and I was at a reception to Mme. Modjeska there, when she gave me her autographed picture, which I still have.

"The Owl club died a natural death somewhere in the '80s, I think, too little attention having been paid to collecting dues and house accounts, and paying the rent with them."

MEMORIAL DAY, 1942.

The sons of valor have gone forth again
To fight the foes of human liberty;
Upon a myriad fields they sow their lives
That we may reap the fruits of victory.
God make us worthy of their sacrifice;
Give us the wisdom to preserve a peace
Which must be bought with blood, and toil, and tears,
And when the hateful sounds of battle cease,
Help us to build a world war cannot scourge.
Today beside the crosses old and new,
In solemn gratitude we humbly vow,
"Our honored dead, we will keep faith with you."

To a World War Soldier.

I owe you an apology. On previous Memorial days I have stood silent before your grave, striving to summon within me the amount of gratitude that the nobility of your death merited. But my prayers for you were perfunctory, for I was born after the last bugle had sounded its final "Taps," and your war was never closer to me than the pages of a history textbook. Forgive me!

Whatever sympathy, whatever gratitude I lacked, shall surge within me this year, deep and strong, because at last I realize you died for me; that I might know the decency and fairness of "democracy's way of life"; that I might know a way of life worth living and worth fighting for.

You did not die in vain. You died to preserve for the children of your generation [the young men and women of today] a way of life so good that they, too, have found it worthy of the supreme sacrifice.

The Youngest Allen.

The Doolittles Have a Clan.

The historian of the Doolittle family organization, which holds biennial meetings, believes that the name is a contraction of De l'Hotel or Dolleta, a follower and aide of William the Conquerer when he landed in England, whose Christian name was Rudolph. Douglass Doolittle, President, Doolittle Family in America.

"IF YE BREAK FAITH WITH US WHO DIE. . . ."

[From "In Flanders Fields."]

MANY years ago, along the Overland trail—which followed the North Platte river—could be seen a solitary grave. The spot was marked by a rude board with name and date. The tenant of that lonely plot was a United States soldier—one of thousands who braved the wilderness and brought civilization to the vast region beyond the Mississippi. Before long the authorities of a newly created county had enclosed the tiny area and had erected a suitable tablet bearing the inscription—"Killed by Indians."

Because this pioneer is buried quite some distance from the beaten lanes of travel, the Stars and Stripes may not bear him company on this sacred anniversary. But there need be no regrets. Memorial day lives not in the scattering of flowers over the graves of our soldier dead. It exists in the hearts of a humble and grateful people—in the consciousness that our flag flies in the skies where it will ever remain an emblem of justice and fair dealing.

Tho we dot the land with monuments of stone, hearts carved in marble can neither beat nor feel. Instead, we offer gratitude, veneration, and hero worship. Words of praise are feeble. They are quickly forgotten. But the principles for which men fought and perished endure forever.

On a recent visit to the national cemetery on the Custer battlefield in Montana, feelings of pride and admiration mingled with profound emotion. Row upon row of white stones mark the last resting places of several companies of the gallant 7th cavalry. In another section lie the members of Fetterman's command, who fell in the pursuit of Red Cloud's warriors near Fort Phil Kearny. There were no survivors. Yonder repose the soldier dead from Fort C. F. Smith, while close at hand several score from Fort Keogh slumber peacefully. Many are unknown, but a grateful government preserves inviolate their permanent sepulchers.

On this Memorial day the idealism of those who dared to do and die bids us carry on. Regardless of privations, they "went west" in order that the land might be safe for those who were to come after them. Today, we may envision every old battlefield teeming with the valiant spirits of those who sleep in hallowed ground. They are waving encouragement to the stalwart youth of '42. All that we ask is that the lives of our defenders shall not be forfeited thru neglect, stupidity, or feeble leadership. Bravery against an impregnable enemy is akin to foolhardiness.

We have been called upon to support every country opposed to the axis, and our load will become staggering. But all this is trifling when we contemplate the messages of sad tidings which will be handed across the thresholds of tens of thousands of American homes.

In our hearts we say to ourselves—"What a useless sacrifice!" But how necessary, if we would preserve the ideals of this republic. If this is a war to end wars our efforts must be superhuman. Somehow or other our job is to curb the evil passions of selfish nations—the dictatorial lust of designing rulers. There is no alternative but to meet force with omnipotent power, good weapons with better. Nothing can be accomplished unless we maintain all our people at top physical efficiency. Courage alone will not suffice.

DIABETES.

D. W. writes: What are the symptoms of diabetes?

REPLY.

Victims of the most common form of this disorder [mellitus] manifest excessive thirst, profuse urination, weakness, and loss of weight. There may be dryness of the mouth, a voracious appetite, and generalized itching.

TRACING THE CAUSE.

S. T. writes: Are X-ray examinations of value in sciatica?

REPLY.

Yes. Films may be made in several positions so that the sacroiliac joint, as well as the lower portion of the spine, will be visualized. Thus the origin of the disorder may be discovered.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

RETREAT.

Chicago, May 26.—The following excerpt, taken verbatim from the letter of a young soldier, should serve to spur those of us who remain at home to greater efforts to help those on the fighting front. It is also a very concise definition of what America is fighting for!

"The other day I came by the main parade ground where they had just completed a parade and drill for the edification of a visiting dignitary. There were thousands of men on the field, in class A uniforms and battle dress. The sun was shining very brightly on the colors and banners of various troops as they stood side by side across the entire length of the half mile field. I stopped at one far corner and gaped like a farmer. Just then the cannon fired one shot, and the band began to play the stirring strains of the 'The Star Spangled Banner.'

"When the sound of the bugle call died away, the command started coming down the line from the farthest corner. The company sergeants did an about face one after another, calling the order to the platoon each one faced, and it was echoed to the platoon beyond and taken up by the next adjacent officer. One after another thousands of hands raised in salute as the flag began a slow descent. As the group nearest me saluted I lent an ear to the command myself.

"Heads up, eyes front, shoulders back, chest out, stomach in, heels together, I joined the other thousands of soldiers in holding the salute until the last note of music melted away, and the flag was lowered. I felt as tho I had grown about 3 inches.

"If the day ever comes when I am elected chairman of the board of directors of the First National bank, I know I will voice a shy note of thanks, but I will smile inwardly and wish that I could get one-tenth the thrill out of the occasion as I did out of that salute when retreat was sounded back in May of 1942."

GIVE BACK THE SALES TAXES AFTER THE WAR.

Chicago, May 20.—If it should be necessary to impose a federal sales tax, now under serious consideration by congress, the working men with large families will be the victims. For that reason I suggest that the government issue sales tax stamps and bonds.

With every purchase of a dollar the buyer would receive a 10 cent stamp to be filed in an album and accepted by the postoffice for sales tax bonds. These stamps and bonds would not have any cash value and could not be offered for sale by any one, but when the war is ended and peace again is declared the government would agree to cash all of them. KARL SWENSON.

ZILLER TIPS THE BEAM.

Chicago, May 26.—George W. Ziller of Weston, Ill., is surely a "growing child." When I first heard of him, about a week ago, he was reported as weighing around 400 pounds. A few days later, it was said he weighed over 500 pounds. But today's news says he weighs 614 pounds. Never before did I hear of any one increasing so rapidly in avoirdupois. B. E. MALEY.

FIRST ROTC REVIEW.

Chicago, May 27.—Your article on today's ROTC parade recalls the first high school ROTC review held in Chicago, in May or June, 1918. About 30 schools, with a total of 50 companies, participated.

Practically all of the units were fully uniformed and equipped, except Company A of Englewood, of which I was a member. We were reviewed by the commanding officers of both the army and navy here in Chicago and our motley appearance, due to the lack of uniforms, with possibly a cap here and a military coat there, was a very great handicap to our company in the competition.

After the march down Michigan boulevard, we were formed in Grant park to await the decision of the military authorities as to which company should win first place. Finally we observed a military aide on a white charger inquiring for Company A of Englewood and I don't think I shall ever be as thrilled again as I was at the moment when we were told that we had won the championship—in spite of our lack of uniforms.

ADVERTISING AND THE USO.

Chicago, May 27.—To Gertrude McAlpine, who fears that too much of USO collections will go to promotion overhead: I am employed by a national trade journal which gladly donated a page space each week to the USO war fund campaign until the drive is over, and I know our publication is just one of thousands which have contributed similar space, so you needn't worry too much about a large portion of your contribution being spent for literature, advertising, tags, etc. Publishers, printers, engravers, advertising agencies, etc., are generous contributors to every patriotic cause.

Remember! If you want anything to be a big success, ADVERTISE.

FRANCES K. MITCHELL.

VICTIM OF GAMBLING.

Chicago, May 14.—I have been the victim of a gambling husband for the last nine years, thinking each time I endeavored to save some money we would be protecting ourselves for the future.

Each time, at intervals of six months, I would find the money saved would have to be spent paying off mortgages and whatever else he could accumulate.

I thought when the order was given to close up the bookies that my troubles were at an end, but to my dismay find they are still open and also find myself indebted as usual.

If the politicians of this state would see that the law is really enforced instead of fining these people $5 or $10 there would be fewer broken homes. People like myself would have some money with which to buy defense bonds instead of handing it out to a lot of nogoods who like to make money the easy way, thru weaklings. M. P.

PAY AS YOU ENTER.

Chicago, May 25.—It seems to me that the conductors of street cars are not only grouchy to sailors but to the public in general. The other day I and another lady, whom I never have seen before, boarded a street car at a transfer point. In paying my fare the conductor charged me for two fares. When I advised him of his mistake he got very excited about being "out of pocket." The other lady meanwhile had a transfer in her hand. It is about time the conductors showed a little courtesy to the public. READER.

WORD FROM HOME.

Chicago, May 22.—This is an extract from a letter from my son, to whom I write every day, and it speaks for itself:

"It doesn't take all my time to read and answer your letters, and you do not know what it means to get a letter every night until you have seen about 250 soldiers crowded around the mail clerk and then seen the expressions on the faces of those whose name he failed to call.

"If their friends and relatives could get just one look at them then, I'm sure they would never fail again. I do not mean by this that you must write every day, either. The fellows who really look bad are those who stand there night after night and see several hundred letters and packages passed out, and get not even a postcard."

Can any one read that without vowing that this shall never happen to their loved ones? MRS. E. F.

THE ROTC PARADE.

Chicago, May 28.—As usual, THE TRIBUNE printed a few pictures and carried quite a lengthy article about those fine young men who marched in the ROTC parade yesterday. Most of the other papers did not mention it at all and the two that did, did not play it up with importance. When I saw those fine young fellows on parade the seriousness of this whole war situation came to me with a "bang." SUBSCRIBER.

COLLIE FAMILY BROKEN UP.

Evanston, Ill., May 27.—Perhaps it's too late now, but I do hope that the people who found the collie puppies were thoughtful enough to leave one puppy with the mother dog. It would be cruel to take them all away at once. Just think how she fought to feed them.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

FAMILY ASSETS.

Chicago, May 21—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was married and divorced and have remarried.

1. Our present financial arrangement provides that my present wife and I each pay one-half of everything we purchase and among the various items is an automobile fully paid for but the title of which is in my name only. I have two boys by my first marriage, one 14 years old and one 18.

Please tell me if in the event of my death [2] my boys and/or my first wife can claim an interest in the automobile or any other personal property of mine in which my present wife also had one-half interest. If so, to what extent?

Please also advise [3] what steps I can take to have sole ownership pass on to my present wife of all of my personal property including the automobile, in order to eliminate any claims being executed by the parties mentioned above if under the law such claims would exist. S. E.

1. We assume that there was no antenuptial arrangement whereby you gave up interests in one another's assets.

2. Your present wife would have a widow's award. The boys would share in the surplus, if any.

3. One course would be a will in her favor but this might necessitate probate. Another possibility would be joint tenancy. If the amounts involved are substantial you should have a personal interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Entrants also were asked to write a 50 word letter on "Here's how I expect to use the $1,000 first prize if I win it."

"This sincerity and unselfishness and a sense of a duty toward God seemed to dominate the entrants."

Hollywood, Cal., May 29 [Special].—Bette Davis, film actress, proved herself a heroine today on location with a film company at Lake Arrowhead when she swam ashore with Janis Wilson, 12 years old, after a canoe in which they were riding overturned about 30 or 40 yards from land. Neither suffered any ill effects.

"The girl's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Wilson of Santa Barbara, was watching from the shore when the accident happened. When her daughter and Miss Davis were helped to safety, she spanked Janis and rewarded Bette with a kiss. When somebody mentioned they didn't know Miss Davis could swim she reminded she was an Eagle Scout when she was 15.

Miss Davis is making a picture for Warner Bros. at the lake and invited Janis for a pleasure canoe ride. Little Miss Wilson is playing her first screen rôle.

FIND FOUR FRENCH NURSES GUILTY OF 7 MERCY DEATHS

VERSAILLES, France, May 29 (AP).—Four French nurses of the small hospital at Orsay were given suspended sentences of from one to five years today for the mercy killing of seven incurables during the evacuation of the hospital before the German drive of 1940.

They admitted in court that they killed the seven men with drug injections, but insisted they acted humanely and under the instructions of a mysterious "captain."

'Dead' Man Reveals Act.

The case came to light in a blood chilling manner—a shrouded figure, one Philippe Lebrun, stirred in his coffin when he was about to be buried, opened his eyes and told the hospital housekeeper and a few other staff members what had happened.

Authorities declared that the hospital was ordered evacuated at 8 a. m. on June 14, 1940. Allegedly acting on the suggestion of the medical officer that some incurable patients could not stand being transported, the four nurses were charged with having obtained drugs from the hospital pharmacy and injected them into seven men.

On that day, authorities declared, the patients were taken to the morgue after their pulses stopped and the nurses left the hospital with a party of wounded and sick patients to whom, it was said, they continued to tend with devotion in the course of the exodus.

Lives to Tell Story.

But Lebrun lived long enough to tell his story.

Mayor Leroux of Orsay testified today that the nurses had hardly eaten or slept several days before the slayings and evacuation.

Another nurse testified she would have done the same as the defendants if she had been asked.

A chemical expert explained the temporary revival of Lebrun by the fact that he probably was administered two poisons which neutralized each other.

The court alienist testified the defendants were of sound mind and responsible for their actions.

FAIL TO SOLVE SUICIDE CASE OF BRIDE-TO-BE

Why a pretty blonde bride-to-be ended her life after disappearing three weeks ago and driving more than 2,000 miles was the question left unanswered yesterday by a Lake County coroner's jury. The jury, under Coroner John L. Taylor, merely found that she had committed suicide by means of carbon monoxide.

Miss Enid Baker.

The young woman was Miss Enid Burnette Baker, 24 years old. She had lived for three years, until her disappearance May 8, with her brother-in-law and his family in Wauwatosa, Wis. Since then the brother-in-law, Arthur F. Ennis, has moved to 3156 South 32d street, Milwaukee.

Her intended husband, Fred S. Seamann, 25, of South Milwaukee, did not attend the inquest. Testimony was given by Ennis, who also employed her as cashier in his Milwaukee automobile agency. He said he knew of no motive for suicide.

Miss Baker borrowed a sedan from Ennis' agency May 8 and said she was going to visit a girl friend. She was found dead in the borrowed car on George H. King's farm 4½ miles northeast of Grayslake yesterday morning. A hose led into the car from the exhaust.

ORDINANCE SETS UP FUND FOR USE IN SUBWAY WORK

Traction Act Puts Ban on City Borrowing.

(This is the fourth in a series of articles detailing the purpose and highlights of Chicago's proposed traction ordinance on which the city will vote June 1.)

BY LAURENCE BURD.

A new city transit fund, to be built up by payments from the traction lines for the use of city streets, will be spent for constructing future subways under terms of the unification ordinance to be voted on Monday.

The transit fund is safeguarded by a provision in the ordinance prohibiting its use as a "city bank." The present traction fund, accumulated thru payments by the street car lines under the 1907 franchises, has served as a bank for the city for many years.

The city borrows money for current operations by depositing its I. O. U.'s, or tax warrants, in the fund and taking out cash. As a result of poor tax collections in the early 1930s, however, more than 15 million dollars of I. O. U.'s in the fund never will be redeemed, in the opinion of city officials.

Warrant Investments Barred.

In the light of this experience the ordinance prohibits the investment of the new transit fund in tax warrants. The fund may be invested only in bonds of the federal government, the state of Illinois, Cook county, and Chicago.

The prospective unified company, to include the surface and elevated lines, is required to pay to the city 1 per cent of its revenues, or about $700,000 a year, as a flat charge, and an additional 2 per cent, if earned after a return of $5,000,000 a year to the company's securities holders.

This compensation, with one exception, is to be deposited in the new transit fund. Until July 1, 1945, the first $600,000 of annual compensation will go into the city's general corporate fund. This is the approximate amount of payments for snow removal from street and car tracks and elevated car licenses made to the corporate fund by the present lines. These charges will be eliminated under the new franchise.

Takes Assets of Old Fund.

The new transit fund also will take over the assets of the old traction fund when the ordinance becomes effective. These assets amount to about 25 million dollars on paper, but less than 10 million represent liquid resources after deducting the frozen warrants. The old fund totaled 75 million at its peak, but 40 million is being withdrawn for building the present subways in State and Dearborn streets, and additional millions have been spent for unused traction and subway plans.

The new company is required, however, to repay 6 million to the city as its share of equipping the subway.

Plans for building future subways depend on the amount of compensation the new company pays into the transit fund.

Two Connections Planned.

The first subway extensions planned by the city are two underground links connecting the Dearborn street tube, now being built, with the Lake street "L" and the Garfield Park-Douglas Park "L" branches in Congress street.

The connections with the "L" would be made west of the river, and would make it possible to tear down the Wabash street and Lake street "L" structures in the loop, because the west side "L" trains would use the Dearborn street tunnel. The cost of the two subway links is estimated at 12 million dollars.

In addition to paying for subways, the new transit fund will also be used to pay the expenses of the local transit commission created under the ordinance, and to defray legal costs to the city spent to enforce the ordinance terms.

APPROVE SPECIAL LIGHTING FOR 5 RISKY CROSSINGS

Special lighting installations will be placed at Chicago's five most dangerous street intersections. The installations were approved yesterday by the council traffic committee.

The intersections were established as the most dangerous by Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, thru a survey of all personal injuries caused by auto accidents last year.

The intersections, number of nonfatal accidents which occurred in daytime and at night, and the number of fatal accidents, follow:

| | Non-fatal day. | Fatal night. | Fatal |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ashland and 47th | 13 | 11 | 0 |
| Ashland and Chicago | 7 | 10 | 1 |
| Western and 63d | 8 | 14 | 0 |
| Ashland and Lake | 3 | 11 | 0 |
| Western and Division | 4 | 10 | 0 |

The committee approved a recommendation from Sorenson that the amber light on all stop and go signals be eliminated in the interval when the light changes from red to green. It decided to continue to use the amber light when the signal changes from green to red.

Yachting Races Draw Holiday Crowds Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THOSE trim sloops which have been straining at anchor for the last few weeks along the lake front will have their sails unfurled in competition today for the first time this year. Memorial day traditionally sounds the opening gun of the yachting season, and today will bring races at the Chicago, Columbia, Jackson Park, and Sheridan Shore Yacht clubs.

The downtown station of the Chicago Yacht club will be comparatively empty today and tomorrow, for most of the week-end's activities will center around the Belmont harbor clubhouse. A flag-raising ceremony and luncheon at noon will be followed by racing in all classes this afternoon. Tonight the skippers and their guests will gather for a dinner-dance. Under the direction of its commodore, Edwin E. Sheridan, the clubhouse has been newly decorated in preparation for today's opening.

Wartime Demands Bring Change in Club's Listing.

Government and wartime needs have brought a change in the club's listing. Now in service with the government are David A. Bennett's 110 foot power yacht, Tanus; J. B. Berryman's 150 foot Colleen; Com. Eugene F. McDonald Jr.'s 185 foot Mizpah, and John A. Simpson's Awab. Charles H. Morse Jr. has sold his 57 foot power cruiser, Xanadu II., to the coast guard. Neville Pilling's 36 foot power cruiser, Cathie, is now in the possession of Larry Burke. Robert R. Stafford and Warren T. Davis have sold their 50 foot cutter, Flight, to Albert and Edward E. Egglebrecht. The McDonald family will not be without a boat this summer, however, for the baby Mizpah has been brought north from Miami Beach. Mrs. McDonald and the children will come north next week.

The Columbia Yacht club has a full day planned for today, with races from 3 to 7 o'clock, a buffet dinner from 6 to 8, and dancing from 8 to 11 o'clock. Commodore Milton H. Friend heads the club this year.

Sheridan Shore's sailors will race today for the Haugan trophy. The Memorial day series race A-2 will be held today, and a series race in the Red series tomorrow. The club's commodore is John T. Pirie.

The Jackson Park Yacht club will serve dinner tonight after the last sails have been taken in. The club's opening party will take place tonight, as planned by Commodore Otto Dice and his assistants.

Country Club Openings Also a Feature Today.

Memorial day also is the traditional date of the summer openings of country clubs. The Exmoor club will have a colorful ceremony at 9 o'clock tonight on its outdoor dance platform when a new class of naval students at the Glenview Air base is inducted into service. A buffet supper will precede the ceremony and dancing will follow. The Knollwood club is having its first formal dance of the season tonight. The Saddle and Cycle is having a steak roast on the lawn.

Summer residents of Delavan Lake, Wis., will gather today for the opening of the new Delavan Lake club. The plans for the club were started late last summer. A beautiful point of land was purchased and most of the work of converting an old building into the clubhouse was done before war was declared. This promptness was fortunate, for now the club is to be used extensively for war work. There will be daily Red Cross work by women members and classes of all kinds for children and young persons.

Two tennis courts, a pier for the yachtsmen, and a gravel beach on the east side of the point are ready for sports lovers. Mrs. Elmer Stevens was in charge of the committee that decorated the rooms. They used greens and browns to harmonize with the cedar walls of the cheerful, long lounge, whose windows open out to the lake. Harold T. Moore is president of the club. Among the other officers and directors are Mrs. Anson Cameron, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Ewald Siebald, Mrs. George Borg, Burr Robbins, and Mrs. Malcolm Anderson.

The club will have its traditional buffet luncheon today for members and their guests, and there will be week-end golfing and tennis events.

Ensign Burgess and Wife Will Give Picnic Today.

Ensign and Mrs. Kenneth F. Burgess Jr., here from Washington, D. C., for the week-end, will give a picnic today for Miss Marie Louise Richards and Gilbert L. Watson II., who will be married at 4:30 o'clock next Saturday in the Winnetka Congregational church.

Every day next week there'll be at least one party for the popular young Winnetkans, who are the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus D. Richards and the Cornelius B. Watsons. On Monday Miss Ruth Rockwood will give a luncheon. Miss Sara Peck will entertain at tea and a pantry shower on Tuesday, and that night Miss Alice Graff will give the spinster dinner.

Co-hostesses at luncheon on Wednesday will be Mrs. Edmund Bartlett and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson. Cocktails at the Henry Tenneys' home will precede a supper which Mr. and Mrs. F. Goddard Cheney and their daughter, Miss Jane, will give on Thursday. Friday will be taken up by Miss Edith Farwell's luncheon, the William T. Bacons' cocktail party, and the bridal dinner in the Richards' home. The festivities will be wound up by a luncheon on Saturday in the Watson home.

Officers and midshipmen in the new class at the Northwestern university naval training school have been invited to a reception and tea-dance at 3 o'clock tomorrow in the parish house of St. James' Episcopal church. Among the special guests will be Capt. and Mrs. B. B. Wygant and Lewis Bernays, British consul general.

Hot Weather Brings First Dip of Season

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Yesterday's sizzling temperature brought out the first bathing girls of the summer, including Mrs. John K. Haas, who took her first dip of the season in the pool on the grounds of the Lewis Barker home in Beverly Hills. Mrs. Barker is opening her house and garden for a luncheon and musical on Monday for members of the Beverly Hills center of the Infant Welfare society. The presidents and vice presidents of the Kenwood Social Service, the South Shore Infant Welfare, and the Woman's auxiliary will be the special guests. Students from the Milliken conservatory of music will give a program.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

The women who do their stint of war work at the Central Information bureau, 219 South La Salle street, are taking advantage of the legal holiday and will not work today, but this is the first week day since the bureau was started that it has not functioned. Mrs. Corson Ellis is in charge of the bureau, with Mrs. Tilt Bissell as her assistant. There is a staff of 50, all volunteers, who answer the questions of those who call at the bureau, or who telephone Central 7182 for information pertaining to defense and war activities. The bureau operates directly under the Office of Civilian Defense and serves all the communities of metropolitan Chicago.

Mrs. Corson Ellis. [Tribune Photo.]

There is a weekly meeting of all information desk chairmen of communities at the bureau every Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Noel Flint does the research for the bureau and also edits a weekly bulletin that is sent to all community information chairmen. Mrs. Lewis Willner has the difficult task of scheduling the volunteers, one of whom is Mrs. Bissell's sister, Mrs. John Wentworth.

An Evanston woman, Miss Ardel A. Janson, is helping the defense program by bloodtyping Evanstonians engaged in civilian defense, in addition to conducting a course in army laboratory technique for men of draft age at the Evanston Collegiate institute.

Miss Janson, a laboratory technician, has studied in London with Dr. James McDonough and with Dr. H. Warren Crowe, an authority on arthritis. She has visited the laboratories in the medical centers of Edinburgh, The Pasteur institute in Paris, and The Hagedorn laboratory in Copenhagen. She has conducted her own laboratory in Evanston for 15 years. Of the present need for blood donations she says:

"One of the commonest therapeutic measures used to meet emergencies in the present war is blood transfusion. When only the plasma is used, blood may be pooled regardless of type. The American Red Cross uses it in this form.

"In Evanston an attempt is being made to test and classify all civilian defense workers for blood groups. A permanent record is kept at civilian defense headquarters of those willing and fit to donate blood, while another list is kept of those who may be especially exposed to accidents and therefore most likely to need transfusions.

"As with service men, all civilians should wear identification tags, which should include a record of their specific blood group. When this is known, whole blood may be administered in an emergency without the delay necessitated by determining the blood group after the emergency arises."

Twenty talented service men and Service Men's Center girls will give their first minstrel show, "Dixie Jamboree," tonight and tomorrow night in the eighth floor night club at the center, 176 West Washington street. The show, which will be presented at 8:30 o'clock, is directed by Sean Marino of the center staff. Jack Welton of the Navy pier will be interlocutor, and Georgina Dixon, mezzo-soprano, will have the feminine lead. Other girls in the cast are Janice Fischer, Edna Bilow, Merle Bastian, Mary Bova, Madeline Bodnar, Betty and Doris Schroeder, Ann Fisher, Josephine and Marie Gall, Emily Czech, and Dora Dee.

Pvt. Donal Cheatum is the only army man in the cast. The other men in the production are Navy Pier Sailors George Gonzalez, James Cole, John Buyan, Paul Harman, Lee Frensley, and Ken Parrott.

June will be a festive month for the Winnetka Girls' Service organization. On Wednesday they will dance with men stationed at Great Lakes at a party in the Waukegan USO center. On June 10 they will give their own dance in the Winnetka Women's club, with men from Great Lakes and Fort Sheridan on the guest list. Proceeds from the recent Winnetka war service fair will help to finance the entertainment.

The Chicago Humane Education society sends out "directions for the care of animals if war should come to Chicago" that should be of value to the many who have dogs, birds, or cats. Any one wishing the full instructions may write to the society at 1611 North Meade avenue, Chicago.

Dogs and cats are not permitted in public air raid shelters, but birds in small wooden box cages may be taken into such shelters apparently, for no word to the contrary is given in the instructions. Dogs should be on leashes unless they are small animals in which case they can be put into sturdy baskets or carriers such as should be used for cats.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Fashion Wise Pick Cotton for Summer Wear

BY REA SEEGER.

Summertime ahead! It will be a summertime of cotton, for cotton is enjoying a sensational fashion revival.

You are urged with patriotic fervor to wear cotton from the skin out. You are tempted on every side with fascinating displays of dresses, suits, coats, party gowns, lingerie, negligees, bags, hats, gloves, hosiery, and even footgear of bright, crisp, shining cotton. If you are fashion wise, patriotically so, you'll spend the next 90 days securely fresh and smooth in cotton clothes which are equal to weekly tubbings without showing any signs of that trying routine.

The high spots this season are the black calicos, made into skirts, trim fitted jackets, play clothes, and street costumes for town wear. Canary yellow, dizzy pink, lime green, acid green, and scarlet vermilion are some of the most exhilarating contrasts with this wave of black.

At the opposite corner in this fashion setup is the avalanche of new all white summer clothes. Stunning one piece dresses, with short sleeves, very simply cut bodices, and equally simple skirts, are made of piqué, butcher's linen, cotton gabardine, twill, poplin, or cotton lace and eyelet embroidery. These are the spanking all white clothes fashioned without smidge of color, and they'll perform basically just like the well loved all black foundation dress.

Start with the new cotton summer girdles and lingerie, finish with hat, gloves, and slippers, all of the same good old American classic—cotton—and you'll be cool, immaculate, and fresh as a new paint job all thru the season.

Thru the Looking Glass

Tomorrow there are five hiking and two cycling expeditions on the OCD physical fitness outing schedule. As you should know by this time, every resident of the Chicago region is invited to participate. Urged to participate, as a matter of fact.

We recommend that you do, especially if you're one of the thousands of office workers who never does get enough exercise and doesn't know how to start. Such outings are more fun than most people realize and they pay beauty and health dividends for those whose store of energy is scantier than it should be. You may go alone, or round up some pals. You'll be made to feel welcome in any one of the groups.

There is no expense connected with any of tomorrow's outings. Here's the hiking list:

Deerfield woods [North Shore and Waukegan Hiking clubs]—Five miles. Leave Winnetka North Western depot 9:30 a. m., or Waukegan North Western depot at 9 a. m.

Bannockburn [Highland Park Outing club]—Five miles. Leave Highland Park North Western depot 9:15 a. m.

Willow road woods [North Shore Hiking club]—Five miles. Leave Winnetka North Western depot 4 p. m.

Harms woods [Wilmette Hiking club—Five miles. Leave Wilmette North Western depot 3:45 p. m.

Jackson park [Chicago Park District Outing club and Fort Dearborn Hiking club]—Four miles. Leave 63d street and Stony Island avenue 2 p. m. Bring your lunch and a drinking cup.

It should be understood that these outings are sponsored by the clubs named, but that membership in the clubs is not necessary.

These hikes will take from two to three hours. One cycling expedition planned will take about six hours. The Berwyn Cycle club is sponsoring this one, starting at 8:30 a. m. from the Berwyn city hall to the Morton arboretum. Bring lunch money for this one.

This goes to La Grange.

She will follow him on Thursday, and after two weeks they will be at home in New River, N. C.

Providing there are no unforeseen showers today, the terrace of the Frank G. Reynolds' home in Lake Forest will be the scene of the marriage of their niece, Miss Josephine Buhl, and Loren Fowler Kannenberg at 4:30 o'clock. The Rev. Herbert W. Prince will read the service before the two families and a few close friends, and later Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur Buhl of Roslyn place, will give a small reception. The marriage of Miss Marjorie Goodyear, daughter of Mrs. Edmund P. Rogers of New York, to Guy Norman Bacon, son of Mrs. Paul E. Gardner of Westbury, N. Y., yesterday in New York is of interest here because the bridegroom's family is well known in Chicago. Mr. Bacon's stepbrother, Ensign F. Sewall Gardner of Lake Forest, and his wife were not able to go east for the ceremony, however. Mr. Bacon is being graduated from Harvard this summer.

Northwestern U. Dedicates Tech Institute June 15

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president, yesterday announced plans for the dedication, June 15 and 16, of the new $6,735,000 Technological institute of Northwestern university. Among notables taking part in the ceremonies will be Donald M. Nelson, director of the War Production board; Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, and Charles F. Kettering, president of General Motors Research corporation.

Dr. Snyder said the dedicatory events will signalize one of the nation's most important educational developments in the field of applied science. The institute was the gift of Walter P. Murphy.

The personnel of the institute's advisory committee also was announced yesterday. It is composed of some of the nation's leading industrialists and engineers, including Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone.

Among other members of the committee of more than 200 are Maj. Edward V. Rickenbacker, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., Col. Robert R. McCormick, Glenn L. Martin, Herbert Hoover, Powel Crosley Jr., Maj. Gen. George Grunert, Vice Adm. Samuel M. Robinson, Frederick Weyerhaeuser, Gen. Robert E. Wood, Sewell L. Avery, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Mayor Kelly, and Gov. Green.

Dr. Snyder told how the huge institute building now is being used by the government "in some of the most important confidential research being done in this part of the country." At the time of dedication, he added, 1,000 service men will begin making use of the structure and its facilities in communications and engineering.

"We all figured we'd be in the war," said Dr. Snyder, "so we had to work fast to get the building done."

The institute is built to accommodate 1,000 coöperative students. These students, under the plan outlined by Murphy, will work alternate quarters in industrial plants thruout the country after completion of the freshman year. Dr. Snyder made public the names of the 70 concerns in which the coöperative work will be done.

Among these are Bendix Aviation corporation, Buda Engine company, Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, Crane company, General Motors company, International Harvester company, Pennsylvania railroad, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Wright Aeronautical corporation and Portland Cement association.

Walter G. Cummings is chairman of the dedication ceremonies which will include an educational and industrial conference on June 16, when Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be a principal speaker.

The Housewife

A clever idea for kitchen or bathroom curtains is to buy a number of remnants of gayly colored cottons [calico, percale, flowered chintz, painted sateen, checked ginghams, etc.] and cut them up into squares, triangles, rectangles, and other shapes, and then sew them together, patchwork quilt style. Edge them with frilly white ruffles and you'll have curtains as unusual as they are attractive and at very low cost.

Hunt for Room in Washington Is Some Hunt!

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—If you want a room in Washington, the newcomer is told, just sidle into Mellett's madhouse. The keepers there will fix you right up.

SCENE 1.

"Of course," you will be told in advance by a devout landlady, "there really is no housing shortage in Washington. Utter nonsense, my dear. It is simply that people don't want to live 5, 10 or 15 miles out. They want to walk to work.

"And, my dear, those girl war workers do want the most impossible things. To wash their hair in the bathroom and iron their underwear on your electrical current and use the telephone half the night and even keep jelly and cookies in the closets.

"Now, my dear, that's the way it is. You can see why we want men. Why, one woman here won't take any one except naval ensigns. Another has her whole basement lined with cots for men.

"Yes, I know the Shoreham has a waiting list of 3,000 for apartments. I know girls live 5 to a room and 15 to a bath. I know they go to the Y. W. C. A. and take baths for 20 cents a bath, but there is no housing shortage here. People just won't go out far enough."

SCENE 2.

"Mellett's madhouse" is the popular name for that sprawling, gray-white temporary Leviathan on Pennsylvania avenue that was finished two months ago at a cost of $600,000 and already is cracking. Lowell Mellett, ex-reporter who now composes the office of government reports, was its creator. It is vast and hollow. Here the hopeful ask questions.

The madhouse keeper gives you a desultory glance and shoves a yellow card at you. Name, local address, position, weekly rate you can afford.

"You'll have to wait," he says. "The decent file is out."

"Decent?"

"Some rooms are decent," he says. "Some aren't. We used to investigate the decent ones. Now we go by address."

A sallow, worn woman with black hair stringing down her cheeks tries to catch his ear. "I don't care about my husband," she is saying. "It's me and the baby. None of those people you sent me to will let me in with the baby. Last night we sat in a lunchroom all night . . ."

"Here's the decent file," the keeper is saying. "Let's see . . ." He riffles thru the file. "Men only. Men only. Men. Men. Men. Men. O, here's a place. Not too far out. No, sorry, want a man."

"But we have to find a room today, not June 2," came the wail of three girls clustered nearby. "We sat up all last night . . ."

"And really," the gray haired woman with imitation leather brief case is saying gently, "won't you please find something for me? A girl was called home for two weeks, and the landlady rented me her room, but she's liable to come back any day now and . . ."

[Shades of Cox and Box, the journeyman hatter and the printer who shared a room, one by day, one by night, and met . . . "And two good lodgers bouncer gets and in his arms enfolds us."]

"Umm," the keeper is saying in triumph. "Here's a real find. Potomac Heights and $5 a week. Want it?"

SCENE 3.

The "real find" is in the 80 cent cab zone, an hour away from town by bus. The neighborhood is one of lovely homes and gardens, but the find is an offshoot on a rock hill road. The house is white frame and battered. An old beldam, her gums working steadily, rocks on the porch. Nearby her daughter stares into space, her mouth ajar to reveal blackened teeth, a stub of a cigaret between two fingers.

"Got everything but a closet for your clothes," as she leads the way up a rickety flight of stairs. "Ain't got a closet. Ef you got many clothes, I'll have to build somethin'.

"Here it is," leading the way into a 5 by 10 cubicle. Chromos and dine-and-dance advertisments on the walls. Lumpy iron cot, small dresser, chair heaped with cotton blankets.

"Screens, too," mamma continues with pride. "And ef you want to have a bath some mornin', I'll have to light the heater. Don't have hot water ordinarily.

"But you're right next to the bath," hurrying into it. Oilcloth, greasy linoleum, many ringed tub, a frieze of washcloths.

"How many people use it?"

Mamma was stumped.

"Wal, I ain't counted lately," she sighed. "Five—six—well, maybe seven. But, triumphantly "they don't use it much."

Cab driver, on way back to Mellett's madhouse, where homeless one receives four more futile addresses [three already taken, one for men]: "Why do girls come to Washington anyway?"

Ted said could do, and on their way in, the army man, upon learning that Ted was connected with the movie world, commented: "You've such an interesting job, so different from being in the army." Good morning!

Lots of lusty laughs in this story of ex-convicts who yearn to travel a crooked trail but are constantly herded back onto a straight one by the oddest set of circumstances!

Pressure Maxwell and his jail buddy, Jug Martin, are about to be released from prison. . . . Leo Dexter, another inmate who still has time to do, tells them of a bank vault he plans to blow and asks them to join him later in the enterprise.

Pressure says no, he having other plans. . . . When the plans don't work out, he thinks yes. He and Jug—accompanied by one Weepy Davis, buy a luggage store right next to the aforementioned bank. . . . Pressure and Weepy, you see, will "front" on the first floor the while Jug tunnels underneath them.

Their struggles with customers and neighbors, who persist in believing Pressure a great man—bank officials, who want to buy the store for the purpose of enlarging their institution; Pressure's daughter, who is determined her dad shall go straight, as he had promised; a dashing luggage salesman, who falls in love with said daughter; the police, the Salvation Army, road commissioners, the former owner of the store, who is lonesome for it and wants to buy it back, AND—Jug—who is very, very dumb, tho willing—are sumpin' for to see. . . . As a final touch enters Leo, with wrath in his eye and determination in his black soul. . . . Then, too, there is the acetylene torch. . . . O, dosh!

Swell cast, unexpected and rib tickling situations and dialog—and a director who handled the complicated story with the skill of an old time stagecoach driver.

See you tomorrow.

Almost every cook, whether she makes yeast breads or not, develops a fondness for quickbreads., the kind you sift, pour, stir, and bake, almost as easily as that!

They're mostly foolproof, once you've learned to stir just enough to mix instead of beating the very stuffings out of the dough. Yeast breads take a lot of kneading, cakes take to a good beating, but quickbreads are ruined if they're overworked.

Bran Prune Bread.

1 cup bran
1 cup thick sour cream
¾ cup chopped cooked prunes
2 tablespoons molasses
⅓ cup sugar
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Pour sour cream over bran. Add prunes, molasses, and sugar. Sift dry ingredients together and stir all at once into liquids. When blended, pour into greased pan and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Don't try to make this bread with anything but naturally soured cream. The cultured cream produces a rubbery, coarse texture unless fat is added.

Orange Turnover Biscuits.
[About 8.]

2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lard
⅔ cup milk
¼ cup melted butter
Grated orange rind
Sugar

Sift dry ingredients and cut in lard until mixture is in coarse particles. Add milk and stir to a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll into a rectangle. Drip melted butter over dough and sprinkle with grated orange rind and sugar. Moisten the sugar with orange juice, if you like. Roll as for jelly roll, cut in inch slices, and place on a baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees until lightly browned and puffed. Or cut the dough as for pocketbook rolls. Butter, spread with orange sugar, and fold over. Tops may be brushed with the butter and orange sugar.

Date and Cheese Bread.
[1 loaf.]

½ pound dates, cut fine
¾ cup boiling water
1¾ cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 beaten egg
1 cup grated sharp cheese
¾ cup chopped nuts

Pour boiling water over dates and let stand 5 minutes. Sift flour with sugar, salt, and soda. Add date mixture, egg, cheese and nuts. Mix well and bake in a greased loaf pan at 350 degrees for about 50 minutes.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

A recipe for rhubarb pudding, sent in by Miss Edith Bremmer, 506 Brawley street, Stevens Point, Wis., wins $5 for her. Altho it's not a sugar saver, it's a sugar extender, and the texture and flavor are excellent.

Rhubarb Pudding.
[Six Servings.]

2 cups rhubarb cut in small pieces
1½ cups water
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
4 tablespoons water
2 teaspoons butter
Cinnamon

Cook rhubarb in water until tender. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Stir the 2 tablespoons of cornstarch with the 4 tablespoons of water. Add to the rhubarb and cook until it thickens. Add butter. Pour into ramekins or sherbet glasses. Sprinkle cinnamon on top. Chill. Serve with either plain or whipped cream.

Send in your favorite recipe. It may be a prize winner. Typewrite or write legibly, include level measurements and all directions that even an inexperienced cook can understand.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—So long, Hollywood!

Two years ago I came here on assignment from New York to cover movietown. Now I'm going back for a new assignment—and I'm going back with a pretty wholesome respect for film people and their way of making pictures. Being the world's largest small town, Hollywood has the world's greatest small-town faults . . . but virtues, too.

The Jap thing was a great gag then, and I'd grin and counter with: "We can handle 'em. All they've got to fight with is jalopies, busted rakes, and leaky garden hose."

In 1940 I asked a number of authorities what they meant by "going Hollywood." Brock Pemberton said, "I see a gentleman in a tail coat, foulard scarf, and slacks, floating in the center of a beautiful spotlighted swimming pool, waiting with poised pen for some one to ask for his autograph."

Well, the swimming pool angle is not overpowering. Most pools here are small, scooped out shells about 25 feet long that cost very little and could, until the war, be bought on time. Not everybody has one, by a long shot. Biggest private pools I've seen are Mark Hellinger's and Edgar Selwyn's. When the studios want some leg art of cuties in trunks, they frequently borrow the Lakeside Golf club and Beverly Hills hotel pools because they look important.

Swimming clothes are not freakish . . . in the movie business, men dress more weirdly than women. The outlandish female slacks outfits on Hollywood boulevard belong to non-movie natives and outlanders. As a class, directors are the sloppiest dressers because they never have to pose for pictures. There's a legend that John Ford has a man break in a suit for him for three years before he'll wear it. Gregory La Cava wears old sweat shirts on stage, at home or playing golf. Preston sturges is most inventive in the matter of being sloppy but colorful. Archie Mayo, on the fat side, wears sweaters tucked into old pants. Once Carole Landis came on his set in an abbreviated sweater that gave her a bare midriff. Archie promptly pulled up his sweater to expose a great expanse of paunch. 'Twas quite a sight. William Keighley is the only director I can think of who dresses like an eastern banker.

"A guy who has gone Hollywood," said Danton Walker two years ago, "is one who is afraid to speak to another guy unless Louis B. Mayer has spoken to him first."

Well, there is a caste system, but no more, I think, than in any other town. . . . The important thing is never to be out of a job. If you know the old pendulum with a knife on it is swinging your way, you stake out another job quick. Then you announce that you are negotiating three important deals. Many's the man who has been fired from every studio in town and yet keeps on working. You just play the circuit over again. . . . Balancing tales of snobbery is the fact that many a wealthy star or executive has for his best friend an old, busted actor, a standin, a stunt man who works maybe three, four weeks a year or some mouse who earns less than $100 a week.

Said Joe Shea in 1940: "A man who has gone Hollywood is an old pal whom you've known in New York when he was practically a bum like yourself, and when he gets out there he puts a wall of secretaries around himself."

That, I've found, is true. I guess I'm the only living human who ever got into and out of Hollywood without a secretary to answer the phone: "No, he isn't, who's calling? O, just a minute." And Blake McVeigh of Paramount and myself are the only two guys I know of who pick up a phone when it rings and say "Hello" right out loud without first trying to find out who it is. . . . The same thing goes with personal calls to homes.

"Don't go Hollywood," warned Abel Green of Variety. "Don't let the caste system get you. If you go out there a bum, remember you're a bum while you're there."

"Well, Abel, I'm still a bum. And it will be wonderful to see you when I get back, you admirable bum."

Hollywood loathes gossip—but loves it. . . . Newspapermen are the only people here who will flatly state, "this is a fine picture." I have never heard a producer say that somebody else's work was marvelous.

I have watched some fine pictures being made from the first day of shooting to the press review. The highlights of two years include "Citizen Kane," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Mrs. Miniver," "One Foot in Heaven," "King's Row," "Bambi," "Stagecoach" [an oldie but a honey], "The Great McGinty," "The Gold Rush," "The Devil and Daniel Webster," "The Maltese Falcon," "Target for Tonight" and—well, that's enough. . . . I've learned that money can help make a good picture—but that anything over $900,000 is an artistic handicap.

An exception is "Yankee Doodle Dandy," which opens in New York tonight. This is the best musical picture ever made and I salute the absurd, maligned, splendid, shoddy, inspired, dumb, overwritten, and inaccurately reported industry which turned it out.

So long, then. I'll see you in New York.

Spare a Child the Excitement Causing Fear

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

With summer jaunts and picnics just ahead, often including trips to beaches or parks that abound in roller coasters, rackety whirling rides, and "races," freak sights and "thrill" games, not to mention noise and "music," it is a good time to bring up the subject of all these doings, plus small children.

Your child may be as different from mine as "cheese is from chalk," and vice versa. Some children take to the rather mad gayety of amusement parks like ducks to water, and others don't. Even the annual circus, which is supposed to be all children's "dish," doesn't go down with every kind of small boy or girl.

In spite of this statement, most children reach certain ages when all the thrilling, noisy, funny, ridiculous, and "scary" rides and sights of a big summer amusement park have a positive fascination for them. And some of us have enough of the child and the carnival spirit left in us to enjoy these things after we grow up, and to eat the fresh popcorn and sizzling hot dog on a roll with as much gusto as the children.

But you need imagination and sympathy to understand why some young children are made nervous and even terrified by all this racket and whirring, and by the often grotesque sights. I've seen children of 5 and 6 who couldn't be coaxed to go on a merry-go-round at an amusement park, and who shied away from the "barkers" and mysterious looking entrances to certain amusements. If you love all these things, and your young child doesn't, don't force him. Don't be impatient and think he is stubborn, and don't feel that he is abnormally nervous. He may be sensitive without being abnormal. You just have to give him time.

A mother, after describing various fears of her 2½ year old, writes of this very thing:

"There is one other phase I'm puzzled about, and that is when my little boy is taken to a place for the first time such as a certain beach. Instead of showing delight, as I expected, he became very quiet, and asked to be taken home."

Many fears which the little boy or girl usually outgrows later, are frequent at this age, and while we do many things to try to eradicate them, we cannot always do so, and often are forced to make allowances for them, and let time take care of these fears. It is quite to be expected that a sensitive and small child such as this one would find fearsome and unnatural all the sights and sounds that are especially planned to appeal, by their very differentness, from everyday activities. Such children should not be taken to these places. Let them stay home or plan for them to have the quieter pleasures of beach and water, or park and greenery.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Many a team-of-four match is won, and lost, in a single board. That was the case in the following deal:

South, dealer.

♠ 9
♥ Q 10 8 5
♦ 10 7 5

WEST
♠ K Q J 7 5
♥ A

EAST
♠ A 10 6 3
♥ J 7 4 3
♦ 9 4

SOUTH
♠ 8 4 2
♥ K 9 6 2
♦ K 8 3 2
♣ Q 4

In room 1, East-West stopped at six spades. The declarer [West] received a heart opening and, after entering dummy and finessing diamonds twice, finally made seven because the club queen dropped on the ace-king. In room 2, the bidding was as follows:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 spades | Pass | 3 spades | Pass |
| 4 diamonds | Pass | 4 spades | Pass |
| 4 no trump* | Pass | 6 spades | Pass |
| 7 spades | Pass | Pass | Pass |

*Four-five no trump convention.

At this table, the opening lead of the 10 of clubs from North gave the declarer a choice of plays. Actually, he chose to cover with dummy's jack, and after that could not fulfill the contract.

Undoubtedly, the bidding at this table was too strong and the final contract unwise. I am inclined to think that it was East's last bid, six spades, which led his team to destruction [altho there is also some doubt as to whether West should have gone to seven, even after this jump]. East had given a positive response to the opening two spade bid. Over four no trump, a sign-off would have been five diamonds [the lowest bid suit], hence the mere return to five spades would have been strong enough.

The fact remains that, as the cards lay, and by virtue of a successful diamond finesse, the overbid contract probably should have been fulfilled. Granting that there was some choice of plays at the first trick, I think that the soundest psychology dictated a duck in dummy rather than the play of the jack. Opening leaders do not often choose to lead away from a queen-ten tenace against a grand slam, and declarer should have felt that there was a slightly better chance of dropping the club queen on the ace-king than of holding the first trick in dummy with the jack. This point, however, would not have arisen if the contract had rested at the proper spot, a small slam in spades, and the board would have been virtually "tied." As it was, there was a swing of 1,060 points against the grand slam bidders.

Attends Night School for 12 Years; She'll Now Receive Degree

"Education is a satisfying hobby," remarked Miss Mabel Orr, 641 North Mayfield avenue, who will receive a bachelor of science degree in education next Wednesday afternoon when she is graduated, after 12 years of night school work, from De Paul university.

Miss Orr spent her first four years of night school at Carl Schurz High school, where she completed the last two years of high school in four years of "after working hours" study. She then enrolled at De Paul, where she has been attending evening classes for the last eight years.

"I'll miss school," she said. "But I will keep on studying—it's gotten to be a habit." Miss Orr hopes some day to get a position teaching high school commercial subjects. At present she is working in a loop office.

On the House

Mrs. S. D. of Evanston writes in that she's just rejuvenated her outdoor furniture so it can spend another summer with no roof over its head. . . . She used two coats of outside house paint for most of the pieces, and spar-varnish for those she preferred to give a natural wood finish. . . . She used one pound of sal soda to a gallon of water to remove gloss from the old finish, and for her wrought iron pieces, she used plenty of steel wool, sandpaper, and elbow grease to get rid of old rust. . . . Outdoor pieces are all ready now for another summer's use—and perhaps longer. LOUISE BARGELT.

Subtle Tactics Can Win Over a Love Rival

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I have been very happily married for 20 years. My husband always has been my sweetheart, and a very devoted one, but another woman has come into our lives. She flatters my husband and tries to show him he hasn't been getting the right treatment from me.

"As a result my husband has become most attentive to this woman. He has neglected me so much that I have resented it and we quarrel constantly. This has widened the breach between us so that it now looks as tho there isn't any love left in his heart for me, only tolerance.

"I still love him deeply, but he seems to have become a very bitter man, harboring bitter thoughts and he can't seem to forget this woman. How can I get him back on the former basis? It doesn't seem possible that he should have lost all his love for me, because he was so devoted before this woman entered our lives.—MRS. L. C. A."

What a horrid creature she is! What she needs is to have some one steal her heart interest. Why can't you be that some one? You will have to use subtle methods. After all, you do know him better than she does, and it takes a lot of courage for a man to "pull up roots" and make a new life, especially at your husband's age. Believe that he loves you, even if he is being very, very foolish. He is just being "taken in," as many men are, at a certain age, or let's call it an age of uncertainty for them, when their life work doesn't appear to have gotten them where they'd hoped it would.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

New White Collar Girl.

Women have moved into new and strange occupations but it remained for "commutin' column reader" to report the white collar girl in her strangest guise. There she stands, out on Chicago's south side, in full view of the passengers of the Rock Island trains. Dressed in blue with white collar, she is on duty day and night—a scarecrow in a backyard victory garden!

Word Likes.

The Voice from the Gallery writes: "Insofar as you frequently talk about office habits, pet peeves, pet likes, etc., does everyone have 'pet' words and phrases which he likes to type—the kind that just seems to come out of the typewriter automatically? For instance, my little hunk of iron seems to tap out the following words so nice and fast—and correctly, too—that they have attained a unique shrine in the temple of my typographical likes, to wit: 'Mississippi, locomotive, bookkeeper, Minneapolis, Kokomo, to do so, Dubuque, etc.' most of which have the same letter occurring alternately."

How about hullabaloo . . . hottentot . . . wigwag . . . and Kalamazoo?

Education and the Job.

That there is a distinct relation between education and the first job is illustrated by a United States department of labor study of a group of women workers. More than 4,000 of the women questioned [living in a midwestern city] reported on the amount of their education and the first regular work they found. About four-fifths of those who did not finish grammar school began their business life in factories or in domestic or personal service occupations; about 10 per cent began as workers in stores and 2 per cent began in clerical positions.

Of the eighth grade graduates, more than a sixth started in clerical positions; two-fifths began in factory work, and one-fifth in domestic or personal service.

As the educational background increases the proportion of those entering business via the office door, increases. The largest proportion of high school graduates found their first jobs in clerical work, and professional occupations make their first appearance among these graduates.

Bravest of the Brave.

A special decoration for the artist in an advertising agency who gave every white collar girl in the office a carnation corsage the day he was to depart to enter the army air corps. "Chivalry is not dead," writes B. J. M., "and we won't forget that gesture in a hurry." Just to show the girls' hearts were in the place hearts ought to be, they turned around and asked Uncle Sam's new cadet to lunch with them . . . and he accepted. And that explains the long table with 15 flower bedecked girls—all beaming at one man. "Anyone that brave shouldn't have much trouble with the Japs, do you think?" asks B. J. M.

"The Girl Who Stood Alone"....By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1942: By Roy Vickers.]

ENGAGEMENT ORDERED.

Rawlings arms closed around her, and June said:

"You're rushing me . . ."

"Why not? And I'm waiting for you to say you will marry me."

"You shouldn't expect an immediate answer to such a serious question, now should you?" said June, pulling away. "It's awfully late, too, and I must be going."

"No!" She stretched her arm full length as if to hold him off. "I can take myself out and I can take myself home. I want to think all this over—alone."

It was a quarter past 12 when June left Rawlings' flat. She walked a little to make sure that no one was following her. Then she slipped into a telephone box and rang Glenday.

"I'm in Bayswater, near the Marble Arch. Is it safe for me to take a taxi to you?"

"Better not. I can have a car there in about 12 minutes."

The car was driven by the same man who had taken her that first night to Richmond. She remembered that he had told her she need neither talk to him nor tip him. So she got in and said nothing.

"Do you know whether anybody has been following you?" he asked.

"I'm certain nobody has. I'm sorry it was thought necessary to trouble you."

But it was no longer possible to make June Clayton uncomfortable as easily as that.

"You win," laughed June. "But you encouraged me to be pert, didn't you? As I have gone so far, may I ask why they have to use a colonel as a chauffeur?"

"You may not," said the colonel.

"Rawlings is more of a bungler than I thought," he said gleefully. "He ought to have disguised you. The river police got on to Scotland Yard and Segrove thought he recognized you from the description and he has been telling me all about it." He chuckled. "That was a Boy Scout trick, dropping on to the boat from a rope ladder."

"Well, I'd have been in jail if he hadn't. But we are safe now, Mr. Glenday?"

"We?" he demanded.

"Rawlings and myself."

"Yes. I suppose so. The boat is the only link-up and Rawlings has covered that all right by hiring it in a false name."

"Well, then, I needn't have come to report, as you seem to know everything."

"Wait a minute! Did you contact with any other person?"

"No. I picked up Rawlings at Chiswick Eyot a little after 7 and we had supper on board."

"Made a picnic of it, eh!" he grunted. He was fidgeting with a pencil. "We picked up the man who took the bag out of your car. He's a jeweler and watchmaker. He supplies the clockwork for the bombs. But he doesn't have anything to do with bringing the stuff into the country. Rawlings may use his airplane and bring it in himself. Hm! He won't be able to do that after next week."

"Why not?" asked June.

"We shall probably be at war, but never mind that now. Stick to Rawlings. He must have at least two helpers we know nothing about. That's up to you. By the way, how is your standing with Rawlings? You're a bit closer after tonight's adventure, aren't you?"

"Will you answer my question, please?"

"He has asked me to marry him," she said.

Something snapped. The stem of Glenday's pipe. But his face was expressionless as he exclaimed:

"Excellent!"

"I can't see that it's excellent," objected June. "It will make our meetings more difficult."

"You didn't refuse him, did you?"

"Would any woman want to marry a man who does what he does?" she countered.

"Some might," Glenday conjectured. "He's such a handsome brute, isn't he? But that doesn't mean I'm recommending him to you as a husband. I'm only asking you to accept his offer of marriage—which is quite different."

As June stiffened he went on.

"Look here, young lady, what does your happiness matter compared with stopping this man's work? Tonight he believes he has planted explosives that would wreck a ship and drown everybody on board. That ship carries a crew of 43 men—most of them married and with children. Every one of these men—every one of their wives and children, if they knew the facts—would go down on their bended knees and thank you for the work you've already done, which has saved them. Isn't that work worth doing, June?"

"Yes!" she gasped.

"Good! I hoped to heaven you would say 'yes' and you have. I believe you would risk your life without hesitation to save all those others. You are not asked to risk your life. You are asked to become the fiancée of a man you don't intend to marry."

"There's no need to make these speeches at me!" wailed June. "You won't see how I'm—all split up. I come here and report the conversation of a man who swears he loves me—and it makes me feel beastly and base. If you hadn't promised me that what I'm doing helps him as a person, I simply wouldn't be able to spy on him. And if I promise to marry him, how can I be disloyal to him? And I shan't be able to be loyal, either, because I can't endure the idea of people being killed by his work."

From a drawer Glenday took another pipe and began to fill it. He let her words hang in silence, and then:

"I've been a fool, June," he said. "When I saw the chance of forcing a good woman into this service, I thought I was doing a good job. And I went on thinking it, because you've been such a success. A good man can commit any abomination for a good cause. But I see now that a good woman cannot do the same—it goes against her instinct!"

"Well, what are we to do?" she demanded. "It's no use your just saying you'll let me slide out of it. I'd be afraid every day to open the paper and read of some horror that might be Frank's work."

"So you see it is not I who am keeping you in the service. Your own conscience won't let you leave it," he asserted. "Now we must take this financée business calmly, you and I. If you become engaged to him you will not be asked to betray him. You will only be asked to uncover his organization."

"I know. But it's a sort of treachery. He'll trust me. And he'll be unlucky."

"You forget that you will be protecting him—as far as I am able to influence matters. If you refuse him—which would mean not seeing him again—my promise of yesterday would obviously be washed out. And I shall have to do my best to run him in."

"You don't love anybody else, do you?"

She looked at Glenday. He was not looking at her. He was absorbed in the difficult problem of keeping an efficient worker for the secret service.

"What does it matter!" she sobbed. "I will tell Rawlings I'll marry him."

DEMARET, SNEAD, NELSON, TURNESA TAKE PGA MATCHES

COOPER BEATEN ON 39TH; WOOD ROUTED, 7 AND 6

Hogan Victim of 2 and 1 Upset.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29.—The army against a three time finalist and a candidate for the navy against the most colorful of the younger school. Those are the pairings for tomorrow's 36 hole semi-finals in the first wartime national tournament held by the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

Jimmy Demaret of Detroit, Mich., the happy one of the screaming ensemble, will meet Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and soon to be of the United States navy, in the first of these penultimate bouts, and Corp. Jim Turnesa of Fort Dix, N. J., who looked one Texan in the eyes all thru this sunny day, will look at still another when he tees off against Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., victor in 1940 and runner-up in 1939 and 1941.

Only Demaret Has It Easy.

Of the foursome who have struggled thru five days of this marathon, only the gay Demaret escaped without another difficult journey. One up on Craig Wood, the national open champion, after the first 18, James hauled off with an afternon burst of the golf that made him Masters and Western Open champion in 1940. He was 4 up at the turn, and then took the next three with two birdies and a par to join the gallery a 7 and 6 winner.

If Demaret cleaned up his work early, Nelson had a right to claim double overtime. It took a stretch rally on the last four holes before Byron could square the fight of the day with Harry Cooper of Minneapolis, and then another three holes before he won the 39th and the match with a par four, chipping dead from the back of the green while Harry was overrunning his effort from the same position.

Turnesa Ousts Hogan.

Corp. Turnesa, who has been playing right sound golf all the week, the sort of work you would expect from a member of a golfing family, brought off the surprise of the day when he put out no less than the gifted Ben Hogan, top money winner and Vardon trophy holder for the last two years.

Five up on the 28th tee as the result of a superb job of chipping and putting, the corporal saw Hogan whip out a nine iron for his second to that green and hole it from 120 yards for an eagle deuce. But Jim, after missing short putts on the 31st and 32d, stayed in there and sent Benjamin home a loser by 2 and 1. He's the first of the professional bloc of the Turnesa clan to come this far since his brother Joe was runner-up to Walter Hagen in the 1927 tournament.

Snead, runner-up for the championships of 1938 and 1940, continued his 1942 bid with a hard earned victory over Ed Dudley, the president of the pros' organization. Samuel found himself one down at the intermission, took over that margin himself thru the 27th and added another hole on the 32d. He overshot the next green and missed an 8 footer for a half to be only 1 up.

He was still one to the good at the 36th tee. Dudley had the honor and hit a drive which would have been nicely in the clear, if it hadn't struck the noggin of an unwary spectator, floored him momentarily, and then bounded crazily into the woods at the right. The lie remaining forced Ed to play out safely. Snead promptly sliced his tee shot badly and even deeper into the timber, playing out, even as Dudley did. They were on in three and Snead got down in two for his winning half.

This Was Best Match.

The match of the quarter-finals, of the course, was that between Cooper, the tournament medalist who had flouted all qualifying laws by coming this far, and Nelson, one of the fight-

As younger soldiers join the throng.

They'll decorate the heroes' graves—
The cemeteries all will blaze
With wreaths and flowers of every kind—
As quietly a bugler plays.

And there are those in hospitals—
The blind—the crippled and insane—
How many lonely hours they've lain.

Again, that we might safely live,
Our men must face the hell of war;
O, God be with them all today
And bring us peace forevermore.

SOX SCORE NINE IN 8TH AND 9TH TO DEFEAT ST. LOUIS

Kolloway Drives Home Six Runs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—The White Sox, after suffering great agonies from time to time, this afternoon beat the Browns, 12 to 8, in a real baseball oddity, a topsy turvy affair in which they did not make their second hit until the eighth inning, then made nine runs in the last two sessions for their final score. They made their dozen runs on seven hits, three doubles and four singles.

Don Kolloway, up three times with the bases loaded, hit each time and drove in six runs. It would have been seven had Ol' Taft Wright been able to run on two legs.

Joe Haynes held the Browns hitless in the last two innings and was credited with his fourth victory of the year, his second in three days. Bill Dietrich pitched seven innings and was rapped for nine hits, those seven in the fourth inning and two more which netted the Browns their final run in the seventh inning.

Only Two Misplays.

With all the hurrying and scurrying on the bases there was only one error on each side. The one charged against the Sox did not figure in run production and the one charged against the Browns was of minor importance.

The Browns used four pitchers and all of them were wild. Ten Chicagoans walked and another was hit by a pitched ball.

Aside from a double and two singles, the swats with which Kolloway did his stuff, Myril Hoag knocked a double which drove in two runs and contributed a single to ninth inning run production. Tom Turner, in his one time at bat, drove in two runs with a double.

Funny from the Start.

The game started being screwy in the first inning when each team scored without the aid of a base hit. The first two batsmen for the Sox were safe on a walk and an error and Wally Moses, who made three runs during the day, finished the circuit on outs. The first two Brownie batsmen landed on walks and Don Gutteridge got home on some White Sox confusion and a couple of outs.

The Sox took a 3 to 1 lead in the third inning, making two runs on one hit. Dietrich walked and was forced by Moses. Luke Appling walked and Joe Kuhel fouled out, whereupon Moses and Appling executed a double steal. Wright was given an inten-

Some Highlights of Overtime Triumph

Some snappy fielding by Lonnie Frey (11) and Hank Sauer, who is out of the camera's range, gave the Reds a double play in the third inning of the game with the Cubs in Wrigley field yesterday. Clyde McCullough, seen sliding vainly back to first, had singled and was doubled when Claude Passeau, (left) popped to Sauer on an attempted sacrifice. The Cubs won, 6 to 5, in 11 innings. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Stan Hack strolls home in the 11th with the run that gave the Cubs victory. Stan was forced to score when Joe Beggs handed Dom Dallessandro a pass with the bases full. Hack, who collected five hits, including a double and a triple, is greeted by a pair of youthful admirers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Stan Hack tossed five hits at the Reds yesterday and Claude Passeau threw a lot of pitches, some of which were good and some not so good, but eventually these items were boiled into an 11 inning triumph for the Cubs. Moreover, the boys, by sticking to their work for 2 hours and 49 minutes, the extra labor being brought on by a deadlock created after two Reds were retired in the ninth, promoted themselves into a half share of sixth place.

If Passeau had not risked his seventh success of the season by tumbling into a tie in the ninth, Len Merullo could have climbed up on the pedestal and posed as the man mainly responsible. With a triple he helped the Cubs harvest two early runs, a lead wiped out when the Reds showered Passeau for four runs in the fourth. With a homer, his first of 1942, he piled up three runs for a 5 to 4 lead in the sixth and at the same time chased away Paul Derringer, the Cub boogey man.

Joost's Triple Ties It.

The Reds got into a tie in the ninth because Harry Craft, running for Ray Lamanno, scored on a triple plunked into the left field corner by Eddie Joost. For a few minutes thereafter the Cubs threatened to go ahead and win in regulation time but the Reds resorted to drastic strategy and got away with it. Hack welcomed Beggs into the battle in the home ninth by doubling for his fourth blow, going to third on Merullo's bunt. Phil Cavarretta and Bill Nicholson were purposely passed and what happened? Well, Rip Russell lined to Joost and Cavarretta was doubled off second.

Having tried the above maneuvers once and proved them successful the Reds tried it again in the 11th, but this time it failed. Hack tripled to center in this instance but Merullo fanned. Beggs passed Cavarretta and Nicholson again intentionally. Dom Dallessandro, an elusive target, got into the argument at this point, as pinch man for Russell. Beggs couldn't make out the diminutive figure at the plate and the diminutive figure was patient. So he too walked and Hack strolled in with the winning run.

Runs are runs, so the Cubs refused to feel embarrassed over an unearned

$5,000 Race Tops Lincoln Fields Card

BY HOWARD BARRY.

This will be the biggest afternoon of the Lincoln Fields meeting. A crowd of 25,000 is expected to gather at this picturesque track with the prospect of watching a brilliant race involving Equifox, Signator, Technician and other outstanding performers. These veterans of many a hard stretch drive will match their speed in the $5,000 Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile and a sixteenth.

But that isn't all. Matt J. Winn, executive director of the track, has arranged for the presentation of $50,000 to the army and navy relief funds and also for the purchase of $50,000 in defense bonds. The presentation and the purchase will be made by Stuyvesant Peabody, president of Lincoln Fields, immediately after the running of the feature event.

$90,000 Raised for Service Fund.

This will bring the Chicago racing's war effort to a total of more than $90,000 in outright cash contributions [not counting defense bond purchases] during the first five weeks of the season. Sportsman's Park put up approximately $42,000 during its 19 day meeting. Later in the season Arlington Park, Washington Park and Hawthorne are expected to make substantial contributions toward the $2,000,000 which has been set as the goal of American racing's war subscriptions during 1942.

Winn, who is president of the American Turf association, which operates both Lincoln Fields and Churchill Downs, will run the total of his organization's effort to $100,000 in cash contributions and $100,000 in defense bond purchases by today's transaction. On the day of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs he turned over a $50,000 check to the American Red Cross and also purchased $50,000 in bonds.

Peabody to Make Presentations.

Peabody will present a $25,000 check for the Army Relief fund to Col. Edward Roth Jr. of the 6th corps area and another $25,000 check for the Navy Relief fund to Capt. E. A. Lofquist of the 9th naval district. Then he will turn over $50,000 to John J. Craddock of the Continental Illinois bank in payment for defense bonds.

As for the race, it seems that one of the main questions is whether Equifox has come back to the condition he displayed last season when he ran so brilliantly in winning the Lincoln handicap, the Arlington hand-

MICHIGAN NINE BEATEN IN 11TH BY OHIO STATE

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29 [Special].—Ohio State scored a 3 to 2 victory over Michigan in 11 innings today to drop the Wolverines into second place behind Iowa in the Western conference title race.

The teams will close their two game series here tomorrow with Michigan aiming for a share of the crown. If the Buckeyes win or if the game is called off, Iowa will take undisputed possession.

Trailing, 2 to 1, in the last of the ninth, Michigan had rallied to tie the score with two out.

WHIRLAWAY TO FACE 11 TODAY IN BELMONT RACE

Victory Would Be Worth $28,000.

New York, May 29 (AP).—They're loading Whirlaway with 129 pounds tomorrow, putting Eddie Arcaro on his back and sending him out to try to pick up $28,000 of the $65,000 he still needs to catch Seabiscuit's all-time money winning record.

This $28,000 is waiting in the 56th running of the Suburban handicap, Memorial day feature at Belmont Park. Whirlaway and 11 other handicap horses are entered. These include Market Wise, Attention and Challedon.

New Record Is Possible.

There'll be more than 30,000 persons on hand to see the race, and no one will be surprised if there's a new one-day record for American betting posted. Last week, $1,933,493 was wagered. This time, the Suburban is supported by the Roseben handicap, which drew 10 good sprinters, and it is likely the mark of $2,096,613 made at the 1926 Kentucky Derby may be wiped out.

Whirlaway hasn't raced since he whipped a star field in the Dixie handicap May 6. That race boosted his earnings to $361,811, right behind Sun Beau's $376,744 and within distance of Sea Biscuit's $437,730. Warren Wright expects Whirlaway to catch all before the summer's out.

Spots Five Pounds to Each.

Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention—rated by many as Equipoise's best son—and W. L. Brann's Challedon, great horse of a couple of years ago, also were in the Dixie field, but something new has been added for the Suburban. This is the horse from Lou Tufano's barn, Market Wise. He and Whirlaway haven't competed since Market Wise whipped Whirlaway last fall—the last time he was beaten.

And for tomorrow's mile and a quarter Whirlaway is spotting both rivals five pounds apiece. In fact, tradition is all against Whirlaway and the 129 pound weight on his back this time, for never has a 4 year old carried more than 127 and won the Suburban. Your Chance had only 114 aboard last year.

$5,000 Race Tops Lincoln Fields Card

icap, and the Equipoise mile. At his best, this son of Equipoise is considered fully a match for Signator, Technician and the others in the field. He has raced only once this season, however, winning handily in a seven furlong dash at Churchill Downs.

Since then Howard Wells, his owner and trainer, has been bringing him right along and it seems likely that he will be ready for another one of his brilliant rushes today. He is the kind of horse which lags quite a bit in the early stages, then begins to move with the speed of a locomotive on the last turn. He'll have plenty of speed against him today, however, so he can't afford to get too far behind.

There's no question about Signator's condition. This horse is in peak form. After a series of impressive races during the Florida season, he came up north and won the Crete handicap, first stake of the Lincoln Fields meeting, last Saturday.

Signator's stablemate, Technician, also has come up to his engagement in excellent condition. He was impressively in a preparatory event earlier in the meeting. Among the others in the field of 12 which will get attention from the bettors will be Buildinger, Heartman, and Pumpgun, as the fans seek an outsider with a chance of beating the favorites.

Joan T. Wins and Pays $8.60.

Joan T. and Man About Town divided the honors on yesterday's program, the former beating a field of horses of the $3,000 class in the six furlong fourth race, after which the latter scored in the sixth. Both were well backed, Joan T. returning $8.60, $4.80 and $3.40, and Man About Town paying $6, $3.80 and $2.80.

The biggest thrill of the afternoon came to the daily double players who combined Heart Breaker in the second with Just Beans in the third. They collected $643.40, the best double of the meeting.

HADA MOON, most of the early pace making, was placed to pressure before reaching the stretch yet held on fairly well. DAVID B. JR., in hand early, dropped back on the final turn, swerved badly in the stretch and closing well when straight might have been second in another stride.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Four year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25, and $10 to groom of winner.

Winner trained by W. W. Causey. Went to post 4:45½. At post ¾ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily, place driving.

MAN ABOUT TOWN, well handled and allowed to move up gradually while under stout restraint the first seven-eighths, bore over when racing into the lead and, much the best, drew out without need of strong urging. NEW ENGLANDER, on the inside from the start, had to be hustled to escape being blocked on the stretch turn, was in fairly close quarters as the winner came over in the stretch, but rallied when clear. MAD MACAW, taken back early, came with a rush in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and one-sixteenth. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

MEMPHIS LAD, under a steadying hold for three-quarters, was sent thru on the inside when taking command, swerved badly when weakening in the last eighth, but held DOUG BRASHEAR safe. The latter worked his way up gradually, and closing resolutely, was getting to the winner. THE OBJECT, in hand for three-quarters, held on well in the drive.

JUST BEANS ran into a good lead with a rush, increased his advantage while still in hand approaching the stretch, and continuing well held the race safe thereafter. MASCULINE, well up and in hand for a half mile, hung on well under pressure. LATENT also offered contention from the start, but weakened in the late stages.

ARJAC, restrained far out of contention for three-quarters, started up on the inside, came out in the stretch and closing boldly took command before reaching the last sixteenth and had something left. IN RANGE rated along to the final quarter, responded when called upon but weakened in the last stages, yet held other safe. SILVER B., a strong factor from the start, held on fairly well.

GOMEZ HAS BIG DAY AT BAT AS YANKS WIN, 16-1

Williams' 2 Homers Help Red Sox Win.

New York, May 29 (AP).—Vernon [Lefty] Gomez held the Washington Senators to four hits and made 4 himself today as the New York Yankees took a 16 to 1 triumph.

Lefty Gomez.

In piling up their biggest score of the season and winning their 18th game in their last 21 starts, the world champions battered three Washington hurlers for 17 hits, including home runs by Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, and Buddy Hassett, who also had three other hits. Gordon extended his hitting streak to 14 games.

As a result of his efforts today, Gomez is now the leading batter in the American league. The famous pitcher, who led the league in hurling last year, but made only nine hits, now has a total of five hits for 13 times at bat in five games this season and a batting average of .385.

Cubs Defeat Reds, 6-5, on Walk in 11th

taint attached to the lead they acquired in the third. Clyde McCullough singled for a starter, but, in attempting to sacrifice, Passeau popped to Hank Sauer and McCullough was doubled off first. Hack followed with a fly to right, but Gerry Walker was in the midst of one of his comatose moments. He dropped the ball for a two base error. Merullo sailed his triple into right center to score Hack and Len then went in on Cavarretta's single. Nicholson also singled, but was forced by Russell.

Joost singled to start the fourth and eight more men batted before the disturbance subsided. Lon Frey's drive to right bounced into the seats for an automatic double which forced Joost to stop at third. On Max Marshall's fly to Peanuts Lowrey, Joost scored and Frey took third, going in from there on Sauer's pop single back of first base. Sauer went to third on a single by Bert Haas and scored the third run on Walker's fly. Haas took second on the same play and was driven in by Mike McCormick's single.

It's Merullo Again.

The Cubs couldn't fashion a dividend from a single and two passes in the fifth, but all was forgiven in view of the way Derringer was handled in the sixth inning. Two were out when Passeau poked a single over short and Hack singled to right. Merullo pushed the count into a 2 and 2 stage and then fired the ball into the left field seats for the three run cluster. Derringer was dismissed summarily and Clyde Shoun closed the chapter by tossing out Cavarretta.

After the fourth, Passeau kept his troubles at a minimum until the ninth. A pass to Joost and a single by Marshall with one out in the fifth gave him something to think about, but he solved it quickly on a double play ball hit to Sauer.

GIANTS, HITLESS 7 INNINGS, BEAT DODGERS, 3 TO 1

New Yorkers Win Game in 10th Inning.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Ed Head held the New York Giants hitless today until Harry Danning got a wasted single in the eighth inning, but he couldn't keep them from sneaking a run across in the seventh and Hugh Casey couldn't keep them from getting two runs in the 10th, either, to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 1.

The Giants made only three hits compared with seven for the National league champions off Lefty Tom Sunkel. New York's winning rally in the 10th was started with a single by Herbert [Babe] Barna after one was out. Then Danning made his second single and Billy Jurges was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Norman [Babe] Young forced Jurges, Barna scoring, and when Shortstop Peewee Reese made a wild throw to first trying for a double play, Danning also scored. Score:

7 City High School Teams Qualify for Title Play-Offs

Seven qualifiers for the Public High School Baseball league finals were decided yesterday as the sectional races were completed. A few postponed games remain to be played but will have no bearing on the standings of the play-off teams except in the north section, where Schurz and Taft are tied for second place.

Usually when two teams are tied for either first or second, the qualifier is decided by the team's record against each other. In this instance, tho, each has defeated the other once and a play-off is necessary to qualify one team.

The play-offs, scheduled to begin next Friday will pit the winner of the north section against the runner-up in the central and the winner of central against the runner-up in north. The west and south sections will follow the same procedure. The qualifiers are Crane and Kelvyn Park, west; Bowen and Calumet, South; Harrison and Farragut, central, and Lane and either Taft or Schurz, north.

NORTH SECTION

STOCKS FOLLOW UNEVEN COURSE IN SMALL TRADE

Bullish Thoughts Curbed by Holiday Today.

New York, May 29 (AP).—Prices moved over an irregular trail in today's stock market as light preholiday selling offset short covering and specialized buying.

News incentives, both from war and business, were lacking and, in view of major financial markets recessing tomorrow for Memorial day, ordinarily bullish contingents decided to shorten commitments and restrict purchases as a precaution for the lengthy week-end.

Average Unchanged Again.

The list did fairly well at the start, then prices began to waver in the more active shares. While there were scattered gainers of 1 to 2 points at the close, minor losses for leaders were plentiful and there were isolated setbacks of as much as 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 34.6 for the second successive day. Transfers of 247,870 shares compared with 353,900 the day before.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical Preferred jumped 2 points to a new top since 1940. Philip Morris was up 1½ and Allied Chemical 2 on limited volume.

CHICAGO TREND UP.

Price gains held a slight edge over declines in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. The preholiday lack of market interest was reflected in sales totaling only 10,000 shares. Of the 65 issues traded, 24 closed higher, 20 lower, and 21 unchanged. Midland United preferred again led the list in activity, closing ¼ point higher at 4⅞ on a turnover of 1,300 shares. Of the other volume leaders, Hupp and Chicago corporation closed unchanged, General Motors advanced ⅛, and Libby declined ⅛.

Stock Sales on Big Board at Low Since 1918 in May

New York, May 29 (AP).—Total transfers of stocks on the New York Stock exchange in May amounted to 7,228,637 shares, the smallest turnover since August, 1918, and compared with 7,589,297 shares in April, the exchange announced today. Sales of bonds aggregated $156,658,350, face value, the lowest since last November.

RIVER SYSTEM GIVES VAST AID TO WAR EFFORT

More Improvements Are Suggested.

America's inland waterway system —estimated at approximately 30,000 miles—is rendering important aid to the war effort, but it could be made still more effective by a number of improvements and expansions. This was the gist of numerous talks given at the 36th annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which opened yesterday in the Congress hotel.

Delegates to the convention, which was crowded out of its customary Washington meeting place because of war congestion there, urged larger use of the waterways because of their safety from Nazi submarine attacks in delivering materials to the eastern seaboard.

Improvements Are Suggsted.

Among the recommendations for increasing the waterways' efficiency, as urged by speakers on the program, were:

1. Increase the flow of water from Lake Michigan thru the Illinois waterway system.

2. Eliminate the bottle neck at Chain O'Rocks in the Mississippi river near St. Louis, caused by shallow water and rocky ledges.

3. Install machinery in the fixed bridges over the sanitary district canal so that they can be opened to let large craft thru.

4. Dig a barge canal across Florida to link the canal system along the Gulf of Mexico with that along the eastern coast to provide for shipment of petroleum products safe from submarine attacks.

5. Improve the Sag canal which connects the Calumet industrial area—known as the largest industrial area in the world—with the Mississippi waterway system.

6. Deepen the channel in the Mississippi river from Memphis to New Orleans.

7. Resume the use of wooden barges as a wartime emergency measure to increase the facilities for moving goods over the system.

Mayor Kelly Opens Meeting.

The meeting was opened by Mayor Kelly who recalled that Chicago owed its early growth to waterways. He said the Chicago area is destined to become a large producer of the smaller type of fighting craft—such as submarine chasers—for the armed forces.

Two subjects brought quick response from the delegates. One was the use of wooden barges, the mention of which brought applause from several sections. The other was the St. Lawrence waterway, mention of which brought stormy outbursts from the Louisiana delegation.

Cornelius Lynde, vice chairman of the waterways committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, brought up the subject of the St. Lawrence waterway in discussion of lake diversion. Making it plain that he was expressing his own views and not those of the Association of Commerce, Lynde said he was in favor of the St. Lawrence project, which has been one of the "must" objectives of President Roosevelt.

Project Is Then Denounced.

Francis Williams, representing the city of New Orleans, and Frank E. Bourgeois, representing the New Orleans Association of Commerce and the state of Louisiana, denounced the project. Bourgeois said that the whole Mississippi project is opposed to it because it would disrupt the economic structure of the area. He declared that 90 per cent of the voters who would foot the bill are opposed to the waterway.

Chester C. Thompson, president of the Inland Waterways corporation, said that 7 million tons of goods were transported last year over the Illinois system alone, and that 100 million tons were transported over the entire Mississippi valley system.

Carrying Much War Material.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of the United States army engineers, said that in the inland waterway system America was not "caught short" when the war started. It is transporting large quantities of war materials over a system that was only partially developed in the last war. He said the expenditures of the waterways made since 1917 have been amply justified.

Dewey Short, president of the congress and a Missouri congressman, presided at the meetings. He was assisted by Frank R. Reid, former president. Resolutions are expected to be adopted today.

Come and Get It, Receiver of Bank Urges Depositors

W. J. Garvy of Waukegan is having trouble handing out money. He is receiver of the Waukegan National bank, which closed in 1931. Since then 63 per cent has been ordered repaid to depositors, but he still has on hand $34,000 which hasn't been paid out because owners haven't claimed their shares. Garvy has 11,600 checks, ranging from a few cents to $300, and he'd be pleased, he said, if the right people would call on him.

Non-Agricultural Jobs Set All-Time April Peak

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Nonagricultural employment increased 381,000 from mid-March to mid-April, the secretary of labor reported today. Workers totaled 40,773,000 to exceed all previous April levels. With the exception of wholesale and retail trade, all major groups showed gains over April of last year, and the total increase over a year ago was 2,545,000.

Age Insurance Bureau Rents Chicago Space

BY AL CHASE.

The old age and survivors insurance bureau of the Social Security board has leased four floors in the 188 West Randolph building, and families of 400 bureau employés will move to Chicago from Washington between July 15 and Aug. 1, it was learned yesterday.

The government signed a three year lease on 35,000 square feet of floor space and took an option on 45,000 more for expected expansion of the bureau. Howard L. Storch of Ross, Browne & Fleming, represented the government in the lease transaction, and J. Gordon Smith, building manager, represented Ben Gold, trustee for the owner. The building formerly was known as the Steuben building, and is at the northeast corner of Randolph and Wells streets.

Check Volume to Grow.

At first the bureau will distribute 200,000 checks a month to the aged, but the figure may reach a million a month after the expected expansion, according to Storch.

The bureau shift is part of a program of decentralization aimed at easing overcrowding in Washington. Removal of the entire Social Security board to Chicago was considered at one time, but Baltimore, Md., after a spirited fight, was allowed to keep the 4,600 bureau workers already there. In addition, the executive and policy making staffs—500 persons—will move to Baltimore from Washington. The other 1,200 Washington employés will move to five regional offices in Chicago, New York City, New Orleans, Philadelphia, and San Francisco.

Delay Arrival of Others.

The schedule for removal of other federal agencies to Chicago has been changed, with arrivals now slated as follows: Treasury department bureau of public debt, June 10 to 16; office of Indian affairs, July 1; national park service, Aug. 1; fish and wild life service, Sept. 1; Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, June 26, and alien property custodian's office, June 15.

One hundred executives of the Railroad Retirement board will move to Chicago today, tomorrow, and Monday, completing the board's exodus from the capital.

PULLMAN READY FOR REOPENING OF TRUST CASE

Officials of Pullman, Inc., who expect to testify in the government's anti-trust trial against the company prepared yesterday for a reopening of the hearing in federal court at Philadelphia next Monday. David A. Crawford, president, recently expressed the directors' opposition to a delay in the trial, as proposed by government officials under a blanket postponement of anti-trust proceedings against companies engaged in war work until the close of the war.

The government presented its arguments in the case last fall, and the hearing then was recessed until June 1. The government charged monopolistic practices in the manufacture of lightweight railway cars and in the operation of Pullman equipment.

Involved are the company's manufacturing subsidiary, Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, and the sleeping car affiliate, the Pullman company.

Lehmann Estate Acquires Alexandria Hotel Fittings

The Lehmann estate, owner of the Alexandria hotel building and land at the southwest corner of Rush and Ohio streets, yesterday bought the furniture and fittings from James McNichols, federal trustee for the United States District court, for $25,000. The estate, according to one of the trustees, will operate the hotel temporarily.

ILLINOIS WAR PLANTS TO PUSH PRODUCTION DESPITE THE HOLIDAY

Illinois war plants will follow "business as usual" production schedules today as requested by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chief, and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. Nelson asserted that the "best way to celebrate Memorial day in 1942 is to make it a day of full time production in every factory making war goods or essential articles for civilian use."

The Illinois Manufacturers' association reported yesterday that only companies whose manufacturing departments and office staffs are not connected with essential production will observe the holiday.

The Chicago plants of the International Harvester and Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing companies which are engaged in the output of war materials will work full schedules. Stewart-Warner corporation said it will be "full speed ahead." The big Buick aviation engine plant in Melrose Park will halt its assembly lines only to prepare for increased production.

NAME C. M. KINNEY ASSISTANT HEAD OF STATE RISK OFFICE

The resignation of R. T. Nelson and the promotion of two other members of the Illinois department of insurance executive staff was announced yesterday by Paul F. Jones, state insurance director. Nelson resigned as chief deputy, a post he has held for eight years, but will remain with the department until pending studies are completed.

Clarence M. Kinney.

N. P. Parkinson, of Decatur, assistant director of the department for the last year, was advanced to the post of chief deputy, and Clarence M. Kinney of Chicago was promoted from special deputy to assistant director. The appointments were made by Gov. Green effective Monday.

3 New Plants Start Turning Out Aluminum

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The government's first large aluminum expansion program bore fruit this month with the start of production by three new plants having ultimate capacity of 270 million pounds a year. They are in Oregon, Washington and New York.

Sufficient aluminum to meet President Roosevelt's "blueprint for victory" goal of 185,000 planes in 1942 and 1943 is assured by the pace of the aluminum plant building program, War Production board sources said.

Use Bonneville Power.

Ingots turned out by the new plants were the first tangible results of total expansions expected to result in an American total of 2 billion 580 million pounds annually, including Canadian imports.

The Oregon and Washington plants —sites not otherwise specified but taking electric power from the Bonneville dam on the Columbia river—were finished in six months, compared with normal building time of 11, WPB announced.

The New York plant was close behind, and will be followed in early June by one in Arkansas. The entire seven plant program of the first expansion, totalling 640 million pounds, will be in production by Aug. 1.

Second Expansion in Progress.

The second expansion, likewise of 640 million pounds annual capacity, will start coming in about December of this year.

"The flow of aluminum metal is expected to increase every month until the early part of 1943, when the entire aluminum capacity, as planned by WPB, will be operating at its peak," said A. H. Bunker, chief of WPB's aluminum and magnesium plants program.

All the plants in the first program were built by the government for the Aluminum Company of America, which also will operate them. They are owned by the government.

LIQUIDATING FIRM TO PAY EMPIRE TRUST DIVIDEND

Holders of preferred stock of the Empire Liquidating corporation, organized in April, 1926, to take over remaining assets of the Empire Trust and Savings bank, were notified yesterday of the payment of a final dividend of 25 cents a share.

Stockholders, who number about 1,000, are all former depositors of the bank, which until its closing several years ago was located at 3256 North Pulaski road. The depositors previously had been paid 25 per cent of their claims. One share of stock in the liquidation corporation was issued for each dollar of claims remaining after the first payment.

The new payment was announced by Gustav E. Beerly, 111 West Washington street, treasurer of the liquidating corporation.

Iron River, Mich., May 29 [Special].—The Inland Steel company officially opened today a new iron mine one and one-half miles north of here, in the Menominee range, with dedication ceremonies. Clarence B. Randall, Inland vice president, attended from Chicago. Known as the Sherwood mine, it is the fifth producer in the Lake Superior region of which Inland is the sole operator.

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—H. Harris Robson, former vice president of the United Fruit Lines, resigned today as director general of shipping in the war shipping administration because of ill health.

Chicago Still Has Surplus of Factory Labor

The labor supply and housing situations which have developed in Chicago along with the rapidly mounting war production appeared yesterday, on the basis of inquiries among federal and local officials, to have reached this stage:

1. The Chicago area still has a sizable supply of available factory labor below the skilled grades despite the expansion of war work, and possibly 80,000 men are seeking employment in metropolitan Chicago.

2. The housing supply is "tight," but has not developed into an acute shortage, according to official sources which said, however, that a crisis may come when additional plants get into production toward the end of the year.

120,000 Seeking Jobs.

Exact figures on the labor supply were not available, but one official source said that about 120,000 persons, including women, are looking for jobs in metropolitan Chicago. That indicated, on the basis of experience, that 80,000 men and 40,000 women are unemployed.

One factor said to give Chicago a more advantageous position than many other arms centers as far as housing is concerned, is that it still has an already housed labor supply. The effect is to ease the problem as compared with conditions existing in centers which have become entirely dependent on migratory laborers for whom new quarters must be provided.

Fred W. Vincent, assistant manager of the Office of Decentralization Service, from Washington, and Lowell Baker, manager of the service's Chicago office, said indications are that Chicago will be able to take care of the additional thousands of persons scheduled to move to the city from Washington, D. C., as a result of the shifting of federal bureaus out of the capital.

Need 5,000 Living Units.

"We still have to provide about 5,000 living units for 11,000 more who will move here with the bureaus," Vincent said, explaining that the term living units applied only to houses, apartments, and flats, not rooms. "We will be able to meet the demand, but we will need the active coöperation of private owners of such living units and are urging them to list available units with this office at 37 East Chestnut street, between now and September, when additional plants begin going into operation."

Theodore T. McCrosky, executive director of the Chicago Plan commission, said "there is no acute shortage of housing, but we will face one when more arms factories start operating late in the year."

DENIES OIL MEN OPPOSE RUBBER FROM ALCOHOL

Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, denounced yesterday the report that petroleum companies opposed the manufacture of tires from grain alcohol so that they could keep the synthetic rubber industry to themselves. He asserted that more rubber will increase the possibility of keeping civilian automobiles operating and thus give more business to the oil companies.

"Standard of Indiana has taken no such position and does not believe that other companies have done so," Seubert said. "At government request, we are preparing to produce material from petroleum for the manufacture of butadiene, one of the raw materials from which synthetic rubber can be made. We have also undertaken to help manufacture the butadiene itself."

Faroll Brokerage Firm Closing New York Office

Barnett Faroll, Chicago resident partner in Faroll Brothers, announced yesterday the brokerage firm was closing its New York office. He said that A. M. Kidder & Co. would act as correspondent and that Joseph Faroll, a Faroll partner, would remain in New York to handle the firm's account.

NEW BEW RULES SEEN AS AN AID FOR EXPORTERS

Stanley Expects Cut in Port Delays.

Chicagoland exporters who have been caught in the pinch of wartime export restrictions can expect some relief from the revised regulations which will go into effect Monday, W. H. Stanley, Chicago Association of Commerce vice president in charge of foreign commerce, said yesterday.

W. H. Stanley.

Rules covering the licensing of exports and the granting of rail and boat space priorities will be changed in accordance with findings of the Board of Economic Welfare after two months of searching for ways to solve exporters' problems, Stanley said. The BEW sought the advice of Chicago exporters and others, and adopted many of their suggestions, he reported.

License Assures Priority.

The major change will be that an exporter who receives a license to send goods out of the country will receive automatically a priority rating for rail and steamship space. The length of time the goods will have to wait on transport space will depend on the priority rating.

Commenting that the New York and New Orleans ports are gorged with goods that have been waiting for ship space as long as a month in some cases, Stanley asserted that the new regulations will help clear up much confusion among exporters and assure shippers that the goods they are permitted to send to the ports will be given boat space.

Under conditions that have existed in recent months, midwestern exporters have been doing "a lot of shooting in the dark," sending goods to the ports without making certain of arrangements for vessel room, according to Stanley.

Praises Work of BEW.

As applications for licenses jumped from a score or so a day to 7,000 a day, the BEW was swamped, but it has worked toward a goal of clearing the requests in four days. Stanley, who is vice president of William Wrigley Jr. company, expressed surprise that the BEW has been able to attain its present pace, in view of the fact that a license request has to be cleared by several agencies.

The system that has been developed as a result of the BEW's studies will work as follows, Stanley said:

An exporter will ask the BEW's office of exports for a license. The request will be assigned a number and then sent to a statistical department, which will consider the request in the light of the needs of the country to which the goods would be sent. Next the request will go to the Office of Price Administration, which will study the exporter's price.

Ship Priority Assigned.

The request then will go to the War Shipping Administration for assignment of a priority rating for the ship space and also for the rail space required to get the goods to the port. After the exporter receives all such permissions, he will engage the ship space and put his priority rating on the bill of lading and on the contract for shipping space. The way then will be cleared for the shipment.

Stanley said an exporter fulfilling the requirements can be reasonably certain that his goods will not have to be piled up at the ports for weeks waiting for ship space, as in the past,

Wholesalers Charge Ceilings on Meat Prices Are Ruinous

Declaring that federal price ceilings are forcing the wholesale meat dealer out of business with serious consequences for the producer and the consumer, two Chicago companies yesterday sought relief in petitions filed with the Office of Price Administration.

The firms, Dauber Brothers, in business here for 42 years, and Glenn & Anderson company, on the Chicago market for about 56 years, are members of the Chicago Meat Packers & Wholesalers association. Elmer W. Kneip, president of the association, said the petitions represent the opinion of all the member firms in the association.

Ask New Base Period.

1. That a month other than March be chosen as the base period on the ground that meat consumption and prices were low because of Lent.

2. That 2 cents be added to the price ceilings now in force on dressed calves.

3. That both large and small packers be given the same ceilings.

4. That a new base period be designated which will insure each class of sellers in the calf and veal industry a fair share of the ultimate price paid for veal products.

Live Animal Costs Up.

The maximum prices allowed the meat dealers are the highest at which they sold the various cuts in March. Because of increasing demand for meat and declining supplies, prices paid for live animals are considerably higher now than they were in March, Kneip said, and many wholesalers with low ceilings are unable to buy meat to supply their retail trade.

In addition to the slack demand for meat in March, Kneip said that it is the month of heaviest marketing of calves. This also accounted for the lower prices.

Many members of the association serve special classes of consumers, Kneip said. Some sell only to sausage manufacturers, some to jobbers, and in the case of small packers, to other wholesalers.

Because of this the dealer or company selling during March to a trade paying high prices now has the higher ceiling and is able to buy the bulk of the meat being marketed. Many with low ceilings are being forced out of business, he said.

Criticizes Packers

Atlanta, Ga., May 29 (AP).—J. Kenneth Galbraith, deputy OPA administrator, today sharply criticized certain large meat packers, which he did not name, as representing the only major industry which has not entered into the spirit of general price control.

"We have not had very good coöperation as yet from some of the large packers," he asserted in an interview.

"Some part of the packing industry has not yet entered into the spirit of the regulation, and it is the only major industry which could be so described. The OPA at the present time is very much interested in the packing industry."

Hint Congress Will Act to End State Barriers

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—A navy complaint that state trade barriers are impeding the war effort brought warnings today that unless the states take steps to remove them congress will step in immediately.

The complaints came from James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, who said trouble had been encountered with truck movements in Maine and Iowa and with shipping in coastal waters along the Atlantic seaboard.

Trucks carrying vital war supplies in Maine and Iowa were halted by local officers because they were overweight in Iowa and carried no Maine license tags in that state, Forrestal reported. He said delays were occasioned.

Legislation to allow the Interstate Commerce commission to lay down uniform regulations on matters such as truck weights and lengths is pending in both the senate and the house.

"If it becomes apparent that the states aren't going to do anything and prefer to slow down the war effort rather than waive some of their regulations it is the duty of congress to take immediate action," one influential member of the house interstate commerce committee said, "and the time for the states to coöperate is right now."

Grain Market Publication Suspends; Trade Small

The Daily Trade Bulletin, which has supplied the grain table with Board of Trade quotations and grain news as its official price reporter since May 1, 1867, suspended publication yesterday. Because business on the Board of Trade is near the lowest levels in its history, circulation of the paper has been reduced in recent years. Frank Howard, son of one of the founders, has been its editor and publisher.

FEDERAL DEBT PASSES 74 BILLION MARK, UP 20 BILLIONS FOR YEAR

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The federal debt passed 74 billion dollars today as May drew near a close. During the month treasury borrowing totaled approximately 3½ billion, a new record for any month in American history.

The treasury said its total obligations, including direct debt and guaranteed securities of government corporations, reached $74,051,902,287 this week. This was nearly 20 billion more than the debt of a year ago.

Most of the borrowing was accomplished thru sale of regular treasury bonds and bills to big investors, but incomplete reports also indicated that war bond sales would reach the announced goal of 600 million for the month. War bond sales for the first 27 days of May amounted to $564,980,578.

M. N. ROTHSCHILD ESTATE SETTLES BANK LIABILITY

The estate of the late Melville N. Rothschild, founder of the National Bond and Investment company, has paid $31,000 in full settlement of stockholder's liability in connection with the closed West Side Trust and Savings bank, Leo Waxman, attorney for Samuel R. Ballis, receiver, announced yesterday.

Superior Judge John J. Lupe ruled recently that the estate's liability on stock in the bank was $30,000. The receiver had sought double that amount. In a petition filed with Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba, the estate offered the amount set by Judge Lupe plus $1,000 in payment of other claims. The bank receiver accepted the offer.

RAILS TO ADJUST OPERATIONS FOR WAR ON JUNE 15

'Luxury' Services to Be Curtailed.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The railroads acted yesterday to adjust their operations to meet the growing war demands. New measures adopted apply especially to passenger service in preparation for the heavy burden expected to be thrown on that department as the use of the private automobile is reduced.

John J. Pelley.

Meeting at the Blackstone hotel, the Association of American Railroads adopted a number of important war measures which will become effective June 15. These include:

1. Reduction or elimination of certain types of "luxury" accommodations.

2. Elimination of advertising used for soliciting travel. However, institutional advertising will be used and it was said that no reduction in overall advertising volume was contemplated.

Won't Seek Convention Trafic.

3. Discontinuation of the solicitation of convention travel.

4. Dropping of special trains for conventions, sporting events, and for other travel classified as nonessential to the war effort.

5. Increasing the carrying capacity of passenger trains when possible.

6. Repairing and making available all possible equipment that will make possible the transportation of more passengers.

In carrying out these measures the railroads do not now contemplate curtailment of vacation travel. Curtailment of such travel will be put into effect only if war requirements demand it.

Explains Rails' Policy.

John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, issued a statement at the conclusion of the meeting, which was attended by executives from every important railroad in the country, explaining the measures which the roads will take. He emphasized the point that the measures would be adopted gradually. Under present plans, enforcement of the measures will be left to the individual roads.

"The railroads will continue, insofar as possible, to handle travelers on vacation or recreational trips, as well as those traveling on business or war work, in keeping with the expressed desire of government leaders to maintain a proper balance between work on the one hand and vacation and recreation on the other," Pelley said.

"Nothing will be done, however, which will interfere with meeting the need for the transportation of our fighting forces and the things they must have to win the fight."

Pelley announced that it was agreed that for the duration of the war, railroads will not advertise to solicit travel by train. This does not contemplate any further reduction of advertising by railroads. In fact, it may well be that they will increase their efforts to inform the public as to what the railroads are doing to help meet the vital war needs for transportation, and how the public may best cooperate in that effort.

"Luxuries" to Be Dropped.

Pelley explained that "luxury" accommodations to be discontinued include lounge, observation, and club cars which provide passengers with extra seating space. Eventually only one seat per passenger will be provided, whether in coaches or Pullmans. Parlor cars used on day runs will not be dropped.

It is expected that some special accommodation cars will be retained on certain long distance runs when they do not interfere with demands for coach service. Should there be a demand for coach seats, the luxury cars would be dropped in favor of the coaches.

It is also planned to include as many cars in a train as possible. Pooling of train service, the matter of speed, and several other problems will be discussed by a committee headed by E. A. Bilo of the passenger car section of the Association of American Railroads.

Pelley said that the freight load on the railroads had increased more than 80 per cent since the war started in Europe in 1939, and the passenger load has increased 40 per cent. So far the railroads have been able to meet all demands and there has been no serious congestion in freight operations.

R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the Chicago and North Western railway, announced yesterday that 11 conventional type parlor and cafe lounge cars had been converted into passenger coaches. This is approximately a half the railroad's supply of such cars.

RETAIL TRADE STAYS BELOW LAST YEAR'S LEVEL, DUN REPORTS

New York, May 29 (AP).—Dun & Bradstreet reported today that retail trade during the last week failed to get out of its lull of recent weeks, altho there was some increase in purchases of seasonal merchandise.

"Retailers again reported that the price ceilings had stimulated relatively little curiosity or new business," the weekly review said.

"Yet response to advertised sales showed that shoppers out to buy were both price conscious and quality minded.

"Sales were widely spread and the absence of buying rushes on scarcity goods indicated that fear of shortages did not at present play a prominent part in demand."

A moderate decline from volume of a year ago was reported, ranging from 3 to 5 per cent. Sales in the middle west were 2 to 4 per cent lower.

START OF WHEAT HARVEST SENDS FUTURES LOWER

Storage Space Shortage Disturbs Market.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Start of the wheat harvest in the southwest accelerated preholiday selling on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and the bread grain futures broke to the lowest levels in more than six months. July contracts sold as low as $1.18¾ a bushel with the market off 1 to 1⅛ cents at the close.

With the wheat actually starting to market in some areas, the shortage of storage space both on the farms and in the terminal markets was reemphasized. Dealers are extremely uneasy over the reaction of the markets to harvesting of what is expected to be a near-record crop and the railroad restrictions on grain shipments.

Permit Plans Incomplete.

Members of the Chicago grain storage committee say their plans for a permit system for this market still are incomplete. The committee expects to have its first survey of available grain storage in Illinois and the Chicago area ready for distribution sometime next week.

Corn futures rallied from an early decline of around a cent to close ⅝ to ½ cent lower with July at 87¼. Pit brokers reported faifly heavy buying of July and selling of the deferred deliveries.

Dealers disclosed that they were paying nearby country elevators as high as 82½ cents a bushel for corn. This is almost the highest price paid in the country for corn in more than five years.

Other Futures Decline.

Oats closed ½ to ¾ cent lower; rye, ⅛ to ⅝ cent lower, and soy beans, ⅝ to 1⅛ cents lower.

Part of the decline in oats futures was attributed to the relatively high price at which this grain has been selling in relation to corn and other feed grains.

Grain men reported that two cargoes of Canadian wheat were unloaded in Chicago late this week. The grain was reported moving in bond for shipment by rail to gulf ports and then to South America.

WOOLEN GOODS.

I am interested in American Woolen as an investment and have been told its sales have risen sharply as a result of government requirements for the armed forces. How much of the country's wool supply is imported and how much wool does this company require for operations? What are dividend prospects?—G. K.

Answer: American Woolen company, ranked the world's largest manufacturer of woolen and worsted fabrics, had sales totaling $145,749,428 in 1941, compared with $76,560,000 in 1940. Sales to the government last year amounted to more than 72 million dollars, or almost half the total volume for the year. Net income in 1941 was $6,943,868, against $3,154,464 in 1940. A profit of more than 2 million dollars was made in 1939, but the company showed substantial deficits in the two preceding years.

In normal years the country's wool production was more than 400 million pounds and several times larger than the import volume. In the last two years imports have risen considerably. Last year almost 600 million pounds of wool were imported to exceed domestic production for the first time since the World war. During 1941 and 1940 domestic wool production totaled about 450 million pounds. Normally this company requires about 100 million pounds annually for manufacturing operations, but requirements are larger under the war program.

Major sources for wool imports are Australia and South America. War in the Pacific and shipping shortages are curtailing imports and the government is now regulating consumption of raw wool.

American Woolen has paid no dividends on the common shares since 1924. A $2 dividend paid on the preferred stock in April left an arrearage of $74.50 on the issue which must be cleared before common stockholders can share in the profits.

INTERNATIONAL MINING.

What was International Mining's net asset value in March? How did it compare with a year earlier?—M. T.

Answer: Net asset value of International Mining corporation on March 31 was $6.01 per share, compared with $9.82 a share a year earlier.

CHESAPEAKE CORPORATION.

What is the capitalization of the Chesapeake corporation and who is the major stockholder?—G. W.

Answer: Sole capitalization of the Chesapeake corporation is 1,799,745 shares no par common outstanding, of which 1,278,,00 shares, or 71 per cent, is owned by the Alleghany corporation.

BREAKFAST FOOD MAKER'S SALES SET NEW RECORD

Increased Taxes Reduce Profit for Year.

The Kellogg company, Battle Creek, Mich., manufacturer of breakfast foods and cereal products, reported yesterday that net sales in 1941 represented the largest dollar volume in its history, but net income declined from the preceding year as taxes rose sharply. Sales totaled $41,489,906 compared with $34,569,845 in 1940, an increase of 16 per cent.

Net income in 1941 was $3,740,756, equal to $1.71 a common share, against $4,200,423, or $1.92 a share, the year before. Taxes rose to $4,479,390 from $2,950,147.

Making War Materials.

W. K. Kellogg, chairman, told stockholders in a pamphlet report that all the company's foreign plants operated at capacity thruout the year. He also reported several major improvements at the Battle Creek plant, including an $835,000 power plant completed last March.

It is the policy of the company, Kellogg said, to utilize all available machine tool equipment in its plants in the war effort and the company has several subcontracts for war materiels.

The Addressograph-Multigraph corporation had net income of $852,183 in the nine months ended April 30 against $931,265 in the corresponding 1941 period. The company reported that tooling, engineering, and planning in connection with the output of war materiels in addition to its regular products is almost completed.

Brillo Manufacturing Co., Inc., steel wool maker, announced that orders and shipments in the first quarter of 1942 were larger than in any corresponding quarter in the company's history. Net income was $88,464, compared with $95,966 a year ago.
